WALL ST. CLOSE

Today

Maine's Somersault.
Before the Red Indian.
Says Gandhi "I'll Die."
A Republican Mistake.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MAINE APPEARS to have gone Democratic. That is the big news this morning. When Maine, home of Neal Dow, desert of Sahara dry and Gibraltar of Republicanism, goes Democratic in a wet year, it needs no ghost from the grave to tell what will probably happen.

TO REALIZE the importance of Maine's somersault, you must remember that Maine lacks the great industrial plants, with their tens of thousands idle and discontented, as in Pennsylvania and other states.

WALL STREET was in a doubtful mood yesterday, something like a child's balloon that can't make up its mind whether to go up or come down. Wall Street went down a little, then came up a little. It did not like the news from Maine.

CAMPERS NEAR Elrama, Pa., digging into a hillside, uncovered skeletons of human beings that lived in America thousands of years before the noble Redman came, supposedly from Asia.

These earlier Americans, according to scientists examining their skulls, had more intelligence than the Indians that followed them. They were "dolicocephalic," which means "long headed," and their skull bone was thin, which indicates that they had been thinking for a long time. But their jaws were heavy and primitive, showing lack of balance.

THE LEARNED Prof. Darwin, now 82 years old, son of the great Darwin, says our civilization is going to pieces soo. if we do not breed a better race of white folks.

The kind produced is about ready to go downward, as other civilizations have done before us. What we need, according to Darwin, is more sons and daughters with intelligent fathers and mothers, in place of the present plan, which leaves most breeding to the "lower classes."

However, a so-called "lower class" mother that WANTS a baby, and is ready to nurse it, may be better for civilization than a higher class lady that turns the baby over to somebody else while she fixes her eyebrows and her lips.

GANDHI, STRANGE and sincere Hindu, announces that beginning September 20, he will eat no food and starve himself to death unless Britain comes to terms. He probably will carry out his threat, if the British are unable to feed him against his will.

Such a threat must puzzle common sense Britons, unusually adept in dealing with subject peoples. There is no knowing what excitement and trouble might arise in India if Gandhi should die of starvation.

Mrs. Pankhurst, and a few other courageous women, willing to go without food, forced women suffrage on England.

THE "LEGION," war veterans gathered in convention at Portland, adopting "alliteration's artful aid," demand "bonus and beer."

Any Republican that thought he was helping his party by telling the veterans that when they went to Washington they took more than a thousand criminals with them, and that many of them were not veterans at all, made a mistake. He knows it now.

IF YOUR BOY is "going out" for athletic honors in his high school, preparatory school or college, determined to "make" this team or that, you will be interested in an insurance survey which shows that college men live long, but the athletes among them do not come up to the general average.

He who uses up his heart in early youth with unnaturally violent exercise will not have a good heart to carry him through the later years. "Moderation in everything." You can't use up your heart and have it.

IN OLD DAYS makers of cannon and makers of armor plate had constant war. Armor plate men made armor plate that no existing cannon could pierce. Then cannon men made a cannon that would pierce it easily, and so on.

Chicago has the same sort of contest between gunmen and payroll protectors. The latest payroll protection is a small gun containing tear gas, hidden in the sleeve. The payroll man obeys the order to hold up his hands and, raising his arm, releases the tear gas, using a string attached to a ring on the middle finger.

Elmer Carlson, retired policeman, invented it. Gunmen can meet the situation by wearing gas masks.

THE "FLYING FAMILY," George R. Hutchinson, wife and children, who undertook to fly to Europe and landed on Greenland ice floes, have been found alive after their plane crashed. Heaven be praised and thanked.

It should not be necessary to suggest that if the father and mother continue the journey, they leave their children and the pretty little dolls behind. To risk your own life in the promotion of trans-Atlantic flying is heroic. To risk the lives of children is something else.

2 Teachers Fight Slot Machine Charge

PAIR DENIES VIOLATING LAW WITH DEVICES

Turtle Creek Men to Contest Barbecue Stand Raid

Two Turtle Creek High School instructors today were preparing a defense against charges of maintaining a gambling device, lodged against them yesterday when county detectives reported finding a slot machine in their La Barbe barbecue on the William Penn Highway.

The teachers, W. Howard Smith, of Forest Hills, and Allen Bailer, of Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, said last night the machine the detectives confiscated returned a package of candy for every nickel played and was not a gambling device.

HEARING TONIGHT

Whether such a machine is legal will be determined tonight when the teachers are arraigned before Justice of the Peace William Wilkinson, of Turtle Creek. The men were notified to appear and were not requested to post a bond.

Asked whether the machine was a gambling device, Edward M. Frank, one of the raiding county detectives, said:

The raid was ordered by Coun-

SHIP SIGHTS 'FLYING NURSE'

Plane Motor Working Smoothly, Says Message

International News Service.

MADRID, Sept. 14.—The latest report of the monoplane American Nurse's progress was contained in a message addressed to International News Service by the master of the British steamer Ashburton, who reported sighting a monoplane which he believed to be the American Nurse at 4:30 this morning approximately 425 miles northwest of the Azores, flying in an east, southeasterly direction.

The message read as follows:

"Monoplane circled ship four times low altitude burning three green lights.

"Signalled to him with blue flare at 4:30 a. m., latitude 41:56 north, longitude 35:40 west.

"Engine was working smoothly. Plane disappeared east, southeast direction.

"Sent wireless position at slow speed to him. No reply.

"Clouds low. Some rain. Moderate westerly breeze.

WEATHER CLEAR

Cape Finisterre, in the vicinity of which the American Nurse expected to reach the European continent, reported the weather clear and calm this afternoon, but some fog 20 miles off the coast.

There was fine weather at Coruna, just north of Cape Finisterre, and at Vigo, a short distance to the south. At San Sebastian, in the southeastern corner of the Bay of Biscay, however, it was raining and there was considerable fog at sea.

ITALY AWAITS PLANE

ROME, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Miss Edna Newcomer, who plans to make a parachute leap from the airplane American Nurse over Florence, may be prevented from doing so by a phenomenon of the heavens.

The plane was expected here about midnight tonight, but there will be an almost total eclipse of the moon at about 10 o'clock, the time at which the ship should be over Florence. For an hour before and after that time there will be very little light.

Gen. Italo Balbo, who as Minister for Air is in charge of plans for Italy's reception to the fliers, said today he had ordered extra illumination at all airports along the projected route, with strong searchlights to attract the pilot's attention.

Hoover Attack Crueler Than War, Says Vet

By GEORGE KLEINHOLZ,
Former Commander of the Bonus Expeditionary Force.
As Told to
ELSIE ROBINSON
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—I am a veteran of the World War. I marched to Washington with the bonus expeditionary force from Portland, Ore., where for two years I have been unable to find work.

I was with the bonus expeditionary force all the time it was encamped in Washington, D. C., and for a period of that time I was its commander. I think I know as much as any man can know of the purpose and the spirit of the B. E. F. That is why I am taking it upon myself to act as spokesman today.

Mr. Kleinholz

Our numbers are scattered. We are no longer a force. We are now only homeless, unemployed men, driven out to find shelter where we can, hoping desperately that we can keep ourselves and our families alive during the coming winter.

And while we are in this plight the President of the United States has launched against us an attack that seems more cruel to us than anything we ever faced in the war.

Vets Have No Help

President Hoover has hundreds to help him. He can call on Attorney General Mitchell. He can send Secretary of War

LEGION SET FOR BONUS, DRY VOTE

Resolutions Urge U. S. Keep Out of Nation League and Court

BULLETIN.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Unalterable opposition to cancellation of foreign debts and to adherence to the League Court and the League of Nations was emphatically expressed today in resolutions drawn up by the Resolutions Committee of the national American Legion convention.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 14.—America's organized veterans of the World War, nearly 1,000,000 strong, were ready today to ask their countrymen to repeal prohibition, modify the Volstead act and pay their adjusted wartime compensation in cash.

This program was certain of adoption by the fourteenth annual convention of the American Legion before nightfall. The war veterans, speaking by convention, were eager to declare themselves on major issues confronting the nation after devoting two days to formalities and their famous annual parade.

PENNA. UNIT FIRM

The effort to censure President Hoover because he used federal troops to drive bonus marchers from Washington seemed doomed to defeat, because so many leaders believed it would plunge the organization directly into the presidential campaign. The Pennsylvania delegation was staging a lone fight to charge the President with handling the bonus situation "in a regrettable manner."

The Legion undoubtedly will express itself on the use of armed troops and gas against helpless, ragged veterans, but it will not take the form of censuring the President in person. The form generally favored was to express "regret" over the incidents in Washington.

The Legion will demand immediate payment of the bonus in cash. This demand will be approved by a tremendous majority, despite the opposition of a score of administration leaders.

PROHIBITION ISSUE

The prohibition issue will find the legionnaires lining up alongside the national Democratic plank. They will approve a resolution calling for outright repeal and immediate modification of the Volstead Act. It will be even briefer than the Democratic plank if the platform writers have their way. It will be adopted by overwhelming vote.

The legion will go on record, too, protesting against any slash in rehabilitation appropriations. It will create a new committee of 10 of its most noted sons to protest the interests of disabled and wounded veterans. This committee will be sent to Washington to watch over all legislative battles in Congress which affect veterans.

MAN SEES WIFE KILL HERSELF

Threatening her young son with death, Mrs. Loretta Dengler, 35, of 103 Strauss street, shot and killed herself today in sight of her husband, who was running downstairs to stop her.

According to the son, Joseph Dengler, Jr., 13, Mrs. Dengler pointed the gun at him and threatened to shoot him. He called to his father:

"Dad, mother's got a gun."

Joseph Dengler, ran down the stairs in an attempt to stop his wife, but Mrs. Dengler shot herself in the right temple. She died instantly.

Dengler said that his wife had been in ill health for about eight years and had threatened suicide several times.

4 Boroughs Accept Tax Installments

Tax payments on the installment plan have been authorized by Tarentum and Springdale councils and the Tarentum and New Kensington school boards. Tax collectors were authorized to accept 10 per cent payments for each installment on delinquent taxes after October 1.

Walker Stricken On Board Liner

ABOARD S. S. CONTE GRANDE, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Suffering from a severe attack of indigestion, former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, bound for Italy, was confined to his stateroom today. It was said that he was in bed, "very ill."

Maine Reverse Scraps Hoover Campaign Plans

President to Abandon 'Passive' Role, Make Stump Speeches

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—President Hoover and his campaign organization, by public admission, had been jolted into a realization today that strenuous measures are necessary if the Republicans are to retain possession of the White House against Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The unexpected Democratic sweep of Maine in the state elections had served to remodel entirely the political strategy mapped out originally for the President. Instead of remaining aloof from the national arena on the premise his every moment was occupied in wrestling the country from the ill effects of depression, it seemed certain today that Mr. Hoover, from now until election time, would press his case vigorously with the electorate.

Four Senators Win at Polls; Broussard Defeated

Associated Press.

Nearly complete returns from yesterday's primaries in eight states showed that despite unusually heavy voting, most of the nationally known figures came through with flying colors.

As the final returns drifted in, Georgia was voting to choose candidates for a number of offices with chief interest centered in the race between 34-year-old Gov. Richard B. Russell, Jr., and Representative Charles R. Crisp, for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Among the well-known candidates successful in yesterday's voting were: Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire, Republican; Senator Porter Dale, Vermont, Republican, and Senator Ellison D. Smith, South Carolina, Democrat. Senator Wesley L. Jones, Washington, Republican, also appeared a winner.

Karl C. Schuyler, Denver attorney, was outdistancing his opponent, Nate C. Warren, for the Republican senatorial nomination from Colorado, but the Democratic race was close. Alva B. Adams, Pueblo banker, held a narrow lead over John T. Barnett, Denver oil man.

Senator Edwin S. Broussard, two-term veteran in Washington, was trailing his opponent for the Democratic nomination in Louisiana, Representative John H. Overton, by a wide margin. Overton was supported by Senator Huey P. Long.

Senator Carl Hayden was ahead in his race for the Democratic nomination in Arizona. The state's seven-time governor, George W. P. Hunt, was trailing, however, behind Dr. B. B. Moeur, a newcomer in Arizona politics.

A comeback effort by two former Republican representatives, Louis C. Cramton and Grant M. Hudson, in Michigan, failed. Both are prohibition supporters.

PRESIDENTIAL POLL

BOWSER INCOME TAX SCANNED

Agents of the Treasury Department today were reported examining records of Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, recently indicted on a perjury charge in the county probe, presumably to learn if Bowser had made correct income tax returns.

Neither District Attorney A. T. Park nor James L. Pearce, in charge of special agents of the Revenue Bureau, would discuss the report.

Two men, with a county detective, were quartered in an office of the suite occupied by District Attorney A. T. Park. In the room was a black satchel corresponding with one carried by Bowser to and from the grand jury when he was summoned to testify.

The satched is believed to contain bank books and other records that would throw light on huge profits reported to have been made by Bowser on the $200,000 slag hauling contract for the county airport. The county investigation disclosed that Bowser obtained the contract at 60 cents a ton and sublet the work at from 12½ to 24 cents a ton.

Walsh Asks Parole to Avoid Jail

Paul J. Walsh, former First Ward constable, made a final effort today when he filed a petition for parole from his sentence of one year in jail, resulting from conviction on charges of election law violations.

Walsh, who recently resigned as constable and dropped his appeal from the conviction, has not served any part of his sentence and today's move seeks to remove the chance of going behind the bars.

Motorist, Arrested, Prosecutes Burgess

Burgess Robert A. Morrow, of West Homestead, was arrested today on information of John E. Winter, a Pittsburgh Motor Club member, who alleges he was falsely arrested and imprisoned for passing through a traffic signal.

Winter charges he was released on $6 forfeit, but was refused permission by Morrow to waive hearing for court.

J. S. Murray Dies; Aluminum Co. Buyer

John S. Murray, 57, director of purchases of the Aluminum Company of America, died of apoplexy early today in his home, 1410 Squirrel Hill avenue. He was a lifelong resident of this city and had been associated with the aluminum company many years. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Anna B. Murray; a son, John S. Murray, Jr., and a brother, James W. Murray. He was a Mason and a member of Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

Bentleyville Exonerates Chief, Ousts Him

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—Bentleyville was without police protection today.

The Borough Council "fired" its force—Police Chief Frank Wertz—for the "sake of economy" after exonerating him of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and using improper language.

Affidavits were read supporting the charges preferred by three young women. One of the women, who did not appear at the hearing, accused him of intimacy with her.

Mrs. Hallie Smith, of Bentleyville, and Miss Alice Stafko, of Monongahela, appeared against the accused police chief.

The third woman—Anna Dewey, also of Monongahela—did not appear, but her affidavit was supported in testimony of Miss Stafko. Miss Stafko told of a date with the police chief at Ross Brewery, near here, from which the woman walked home.

Under cross examination Mrs. Smith admitted the police chief had come to her home to investigate trouble at a dance given there recently, and to inquire concerning correspondence she was having with an inmate at Rockview prison.

Police Rout 15,000 in Food Riot

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Twenty-four squad cars and more than 100 policemen were rushed to the Governor's relief station in the far southwest section of the city today to quell the menace of a mass meeting of 15,000 demonstrators.

Five thousand men and women swarmed on the Michigan avenue front alone, and after the hour for the scheduled demonstration, other thousands joined the throngs. They were dispersed without resistance, although one policeman was reported to have been struck by a brick.

Who Banned Gibbons Broadcast? Vets Ask

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 14.—(Universal.)—Who canceled Floyd Gibbons' scheduled broadcast of the American Legion banquet Monday night—and why?

The rank and file of Legionnaires assembled in annual convention here were asking that question today as they became aroused over the sudden cancellation of the noted war correspondent's radio program.

Gibbons was notified of the "change of plans" only a few hours before he was to have taken over the microphone as official announcer for the banquet ceremonies—and only a few hours after a newspaper article by him containing scathing criticism of the Hoover administration's defense of its eviction of the bonus army appeared in newspapers throughout the country.

Gibbons' newspaper article, which ridiculed the Attorney General's legal "justification" of the armed exacuation and its array of evidence that some of the bonus marchers had criminal records, is known to have annoyed some Republican leaders in Washington.

EUROPE TO OFFER U. S. 10 CENTS ON DOLLAR ON DEBTS

CASH PAYMENT OF BILLION PROPOSED

Mellon, Reed Seen in First Move for Revision

International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A cash payment of $1,000,000,000 as final settlement of war debts to America will be offered the United States by the allied debtors under a plan being considered today, it was learned on high authority.

Should this settlement go through, it will amount to about 10 cents on the dollar, using the original $11,000,000,000 debt as a basis.

The United States government, it was said, is acquainted with the plan, which is based on the Lausanne reparations settlement, also made on a basis of 10 cents on the dollar.

U. S. POSITION

It was pointed out that several times during the Lausanne negotiations the United States intervened privately with demands that Germany be compelled to make some final payment rather than be completely free of debts.

The $1,000,000,000 will be raised, according to the proposition, through an international loan carrying interest of between 4 and 5 per cent.

Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon yesterday made the "first move" in revising the "unfortunate" war debt agreement between England and the United States, the Daily Herald, Labor party newspaper, stated today.

A "mystery discussion including war debts" brought the four together in 10 Downing street, the newspaper declared, despite Ambassador Mellon's denial war debts had been discussed.

TIME LIMIT NEAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—One day remains for foreign governments to file 90-day notices with the United States that they will not meet their December 15 debt payment to this country.

Treasury officials said today that none of the debtors had filed. During the 1933 fiscal year the foreign countries owe the United States about $269,000,000, of which slightly over $74,000,000, being principal, is postponable under the debt pacts.

None of the important debtors was expected by the Treasury to take advantage of the postponement option of the agreements. They are little concerned with the postponement of the $74,000,000 principal. They seek a much larger concession—that is the cancellation, material scaling down or at least a substantial moratorium.

The administration has no desire to have the debt question brought into the limelight prior to the November election. The subject is a delicate one in view of the determined opposition that has developed in congressional circles to any further concessions to foreign governments.

PARK TO APPEAL IF KLINE WINS

If Mayor Kline succeeds in having the guilty verdict against him thrown out in the Butler courts tomorrow, then District Attorney Andrew T. Park will appeal to the higher courts.

This being one of the few instances in which the commonwealth may appeal, Park will take advantage of the fact, it was learned today.

Judge Thomas D. Finletter will open court at noon, fast time, tomorrow. A few minutes later both the Mayor and his co-defendant, Bertram L. Succop, former city supplies director, will know their fate.

Both defendants have asked that the guilty verdicts returned against them be set aside—that failing, to grant them new trials. Thus Judge Finletter will have four motions on which to rule.

If all four motions are refused, then the Mayor and Succop will be sentenced immediately. Undoubtedly, they, too, will appeal.

speeches had been planned for the President, to be delivered in Minneapolis, Chicago and New York. Indications now are that he will make more. Ohio may be touched and it is quite possible the Executive will go west of the Mississippi River, perhaps even as far as the Pacific Coast.

An almost unprecedented message from the President to his national campaign manager, Everett Sanders, bore testimony to the seriousness of the election situation as seen through Republican eyes. Mr. Hoover wired Sanders:

"The result of the election in Maine imposes need for renewed and stronger effort that the people may fully understand the issues at stake. We have known all along that, owing to the ravages of the world depression, our fight is a hard one; but we have a strong case and a right cause. Our task is to acquaint every man and woman in the country with the facts and issues which confront the nation."

This telegram was sent only after the President had spent nearly an entire day in conference with Secretary of Treasury Ogden Mills and Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, his two chief political advisers. Mills and Brown both admitted, when they left the White House late yesterday afternoon, that the Republican party was facing an uphill fight.

Democratic Victory In Maine Grows

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Democratic majorities in the Maine election Monday were given decided boosts today in a recheck of tabulations and addition of two small towns.

The Democratic winners in the Second and Third congressional districts, Edward C. Moran, Jr., and John G. Utterback, also gained over their Republican opponents. Congressman John E. Nelson and former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, while the advantage of Republican Congressman Carroll L. Beedy—sole survivor of the overthrow—in the First was trimmed considerably.

Only 11 up-state towns and plantations—none of them with many votes—were missing for Governor. The poll in those places could not change the total materially.

'Chimp' Grieves As Elephant Pal Passes

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Mourning the loss of its big pal, Zoobu, the baby elephant, the chimpanzee in the animal nursery on a pier here refused to eat today.

Zoobu, aged 14 months, a native of the Malayan Peninsula, astonished veterinarians by dieing from indigestion, which was considered trivial, after recovering from a fractured leg generally fatal to elephants.

A few months ago the animal was hurt, when, in a fit of colic, it fell to the floor of its cage.

THOMAS URGES PARTIAL BONUS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, on his return yesterday from a campaign tour of the Middle West, outlined his stand on international questions and on the bonus.

A committee of 25 members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, headed by Mrs. Gerard Swope, its chairman, called on him and asked him four questions.

In answer he told them he favored recognition of Russia, cancellation of war debts, lower tariffs by international agreement or with the United States setting an example to the rest of the world, and universal disarmament.

He also said he favored entrance of the United States into the World Court and into the League of Nations. He opposed general payment of the bonus, but favored payment to unemployed veterans as part of a comprehensive relief plan.

PAIR ACCUSED BY CHILDREN

Anthony Derringer, 9, and his sister, Mary Jane, 13, were being cared for today at the juvenile detention home, with their father and stepmother held for court on charges of inhuman treatment, following a hearing last night before Alderman Edward A. Haas, of 1811 West Liberty avenue.

The hearing was attended by a crowd, several of the members of which wept as the children sobbed out a story of ill treatment from their father, Frank Derringer, 40, and his wife, Edith, 38, of 173 Pius street.

Mary Jane told of a beating administered last Friday night by her father with a razor strap. She said she fled the house and fainted in the street. Later in the hearing she fainted and was carried out, after crying:

"He's lying! I want my real mother."

Anthony testified he was awakened at 3:30 a. m. and forced to sell apples until 5 p. m. He said he was given insufficient food and forced on occasions to sleep in a box without bedding.

RUPP LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN HERE FOR SENATE

Attacks Leadership of G.O.P. as Offering No Hope

Scoring the leadership of the Republican party and blaming President Hoover's stand in favor of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill for much of the depression, Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, carried his campaign into Allegheny County today.

Three prime issues, he said, in a speech at the Congress of Women's Clubs, are economy in government, tariff reform and prohibition.

Rupp expressed himself as favoring a tariff protective of American labor, but not the "extortionate rates of the Hawley-Smoot tariff which have brought retaliation from all foreign countries and are, in large measure, responsible for the present depression."

URGES REPEAL

Of prohibition, which Rupp says the Democratic party opposes frankly, while the Republican platform is hazy, he said:

"The Democrats are against prohibition because it is an un-American law which is not even enforced in dry states.

"In the Republican party there are good men and good women who are just as dissatisfied with conditions as are the Democrats.

"What I am attacking is Republican leadership, which has not provided one ray of hope during these years."

TO TALK ON RADIO

This evening he is to speak in Elks' Temple, McKeesport, before the Ex-Service Men's League, and later will address a gathering of Democratic women in the William Penn Hotel. His radio interview is scheduled for 6 o'clock.

Accompanying the candidate was Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman. He discussed with David L. Lawrence, county chairman of Allegheny County, plans for the campaign here.

Van Dyke predicted that Rupp would defeat Senator James J. Davis, Republican candidate, and that the Democrats would carry a number of congressional districts. With M. L. Benedum, local Democratic leader, he joined in the assertion that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, had an excellent chance to take the electoral vote of Pennsylvania from President Hoover.

NEW PRESIDENT OF CHILE QUITS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Gen. Bartolome Blanche, installed yesterday as acting president of Chile, submitted his resignation this morning.

The presidential palace, from which Provisional President Carlos Davila was ousted to make way for Blanche, was left in the hands of under officials.

Col. Arturo Merino Benitez, chief of the air service and leader of the movement which ousted Davila, fled the city and barricaded himself at the El Bosque airport.

A committee of army leaders gathered hastily in an effort to stabilize the situation, but it appeared that Davila might try to regain the power. Meantime the city remained quiet.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

SOUTH STRONG FOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Cotton Belt states, from South Carolina to Texas, appear certain this fall to roll up unprecedented Democratic majorities in the presidential election.

Returns from the South in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States, show a Democratic sweep in marked contrast to the division in the party's ranks four years ago.

Every one of the nine states is giving Gov. Roosevelt seven or more out of each 10 poll ballots.

In the face of such remarkable majorities there remains no room for speculation as to where the electoral votes from the Cotton Belt will be found on November 8. These states control an even 100 votes, a formidable start toward the 266 Roosevelt will need to win the election.

Storm Warnings Up Along Gulf Coast

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The Gulf Coast flew storm warnings against gales and rains today after Weather Bureau reported the tropical disturbance over the Gulf of Mexico was almost stationary about 100 miles northeast of the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Enrollment Normal At Arnold School

Students of the senior school of Arnold Preparatory School, Braddock avenue, were to renew their studies today. Although no figures were given out, Charles W. Wilder, head master, said the registration had been normal. The junior school will open on Monday.

TEACHERS DENY RAID CHARGES

ty Detective Chief George Murren, who said a complaint had been lodged in Judge Frank P. Patterson's court. The raid, he said, was one of many made in connection with Judge Patterson's vice crusade. Detectives said the slot machine was found on the counter of the teachers' establishment.

"MACHINE LEGAL"

Of the charges Smith said:

"We have nothing to hide. I was told by the agent when the machine was placed here that it was legal. A short time ago I heard it wasn't; so I put it away for a while until I was assured that it was not a law violation.

"We run a respectable place here. Why Park, the district attorney, comes here himself. So do many of the school board members and many other fine people."

He said:

"I was never in the barbecue in my life. In fact I don't know where it is."

Park further said that he had not ordered the raid, although it might have been made on one of the complaints that he had passed along to the county detectives.

W. W. Lantz, principal of the high school, said:

"I have no announcement to make. Although I have discussed the incident with Mr. Smith and Mr. Bailer, I feel that I can say nothing at this time."

'NO COMMENT.'

Cash K. Patterson, president of the school board, said:

"I haven't heard anything about it officially, and I don't care to make any statement."

Smith teaches general science and Bailer is an instructor in the commercial department. They have been teaching more than five years. Both have excellent reputations.

Two other barbecues were visited by the detectives yesterday. At the Call Inn, the officers said they seized a slot machine and arrested Harry Scaup. John Vachetta was reported arrested when the sleuths found a slot machine in the Blue Ridge Inn. Both are on the William Penn highway.

GOV. ROOSEVELT RAPS G. O. P. ON FARMS

Urges Restoration of Property Seized For Loans

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Declaring that the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover Republican administrations "failed utterly to understand the farm problem as a national whole, or to plan for its relief," and assailing President Hoover's efforts as a "ghastly fraud," Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking today in the heart of the "farm belt," proposed a six-fold relief problem. He called for a "definite policy of giving those who have lost title to the farms, now held by institutions seeking credit from the governmental agencies, the preferential opportunity of getting their property back."

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke from the steps of the state capitol, where a few weeks ago Vice President Charles Curtis accepted the nomination for a retention of his office. Near at hand, as he enunciated his agricultural doctrine, sat Mr. Roosevelt's "teammate," Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential aspirant.

PREPARED SPEECH

Mr. Roosevelt's speech here was the first prepared address of his 8,900-mile swing through the West, which began on Monday night when he left Albany.

Leading up to his six-point plan, the Democratic nominee declared:

"I want now to state what seems to me the specifications upon which most of the reasonable leaders of agriculture have agreed, and to express here and now my whole-hearted accord with these specifications."

The specifications were:

"First—The plan must provide for the producer of staple surplus commodities, such as wheat, cotton, corn (in the form of hogs) and tobacco. A tariff benefit over world prices which is equivalent to the benefit given by the tariff to industrial products. This differential benefit must be so applied that the increase in farm income, purchasing and debt paying power will not stimulate further production.

SELF-FINANCING

"Second—The plan must finance itself. Agriculture has at no time sought and does not now seek such access to the public treasury as was provided by the futile and costly attempts at price stabilization by the Federal Farm Board. It seeks only equality of opportunity with tariff-protected industry.

"Third—It must not make use of any mechanism which would cause our European customers to retaliate on the grounds of dumping. It must be based upon making the tariff effective and direct in its operation.

"Fourth—It must make use of existing agencies and so far as possible be decentralized in its administration so that the chief responsibility for its operation will rest with the locality rather than with newly-created bureaucratic machinery in Washington.

"Fifth—It must operate as nearly as possible on a co-operative basis and its effect must be to enhance and strengthen the co-operative movement. It should, moreover, be constituted so that it can be withdrawn whenever the emergency has passed, and normal foreign markets have been re-established.

"Six—The plan must be, insofar as possible, voluntary. I like the idea that the plan should not be put into operation unless it has the support of a reasonable proportion of the producers of the exportable commodity to which it is to apply. It must be so organized that the benefits will go to the man who participates."

For the permanent adjustment of agriculture, Roosevelt suggested a reorganization of the Department of Agriculture, a "planned use of the land," and "national leadership in the reduction and more equitable distribution of taxes."

The Democratic standard bearer said "the present administration and the two previous administrations, in all of which the President was an important member, failed utterly to understand the farm problem as a national whole, or to plan for its relief."

Mayor Rules in Deadly Feud of Snake, Spider

ST. CHARLES, Ill., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Mayor I. G. Langum has issued an edict that no one is to disturb the contestants—a 10-inch snake and a spider—engaged in a life-and-death struggle for at least 23 days.

Practically the whole town has taken sides in the controversy between the reptile and the spider, and there have been daily wagers as to the final outcome. The fight began when the snake evidently crawled into a brick shack through a drain pipe and became enmeshed in the spider's web.

The snake has been tearing holes in the web with its furious threshing, but the spider, constantly on the guard, swings along his silken rope to repair the damage.

Mayor Langum said:

"The snake got himself into the mess, so let him get himself out. He wanted a free meal, but got fooled."

The snake's plight was first discovered August 22, when Ernest Davis, foreman of the city Water Department, visited the shack, which houses a water pump.

Curley, in West, Sees Roosevelt Victory

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, on a personal campaign tour for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was greeted today by city officials upon his arrival from the American Legion convention at Portland, Ore., where he addressed legionnaires.

Curley was confident Gov. Roosevelt would be elected president, declaring:

"Roosevelt will sweep the country—the Maine elections clinches the situation."

Speaking before the Democratic county central committee, he said:

Commenting on the American Legion convention, Curley said that the feeling in the convention was that "of much bitterness at the action taken in ordering the bonus army from Washington."

He plans to leave tomorrow for Sacramento, whence by airplane he will go to Los Angeles Thursday and then to Salt Lake City and other points on his homeward journey.

'FLYING FAMILY' SEEKS ESCAPE FROM WINTER IN ARCTIC

HUTCHINSONS REST AFTER ORDEAL

Children Unaware of Narrow Escape From Death

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The George R. Hutchinsons, no longer a flying family, were safe and sound here today after their rescue yesterday by the trawler Lord Talbot and they faced the problem of getting away from Greenland before the long Arctic winter closes in.

They had a good night's sleep last night and were feeling fine this morning.

WEAK FROM EXPOSURE

The Lord Talbot, which rescued them yesterday from the spot near the Eskimo village of Eker where their plane was forced down and wrecked by a sleet blizzard Sunday, brought them all here at 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

When they arrived they were rather weak after more than 24 hours' exposure on the grim Greenland coast without proper winter clothing. They were taken immediately to the home of Colony Manager Rassow, where they went to bed.

CHILDREN UNWORRIED

Hutchinson's two daughters, aged 8 and 6, were the only ones in the party of eight who could not fully comprehend the narrow escape they had.

The Danish government began negotiations with the Lord Talbot to bring the family and crew of the plane to Aberdeen, Scotland, or Reykjavik, Iceland. Although the owners of the trawler at Aberdeen instructed its captain to continue on his fishing expedition they let it be known that if the Hutchinsons wish eventually to be taken any place the ship will be available to them.

POND DRAGGED FOR WIFE OF JEWELER

Mystery Fiancee of Murder Suspect Questioned

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Court records of property transfers and Great Herring pond claimed the attention today of policemen investigating the disappearance of Mrs. Edith Dubois, wife of Charles E. Dubois, Tuckahoe (N. Y.) jeweler.

The files of Norfolk County Probate Court yielded to John Sullivan, assistant district attorney, records of two real estate transfers involving "Charles E. Dubois," "Edith Dubois, wife of Charles E. Dubois," and "Grace Dubois, of New York City." The documents were sworn to August 2 and filed August 15.

Mrs. Dubois was last seen hereabouts on August 10.

POND DRAGGED

While Sullivan searched the court files, the state and Plymouth police dragged Great Herring pond, on the shores of which the Dubois had a summer home, in what the investigators said was a search for Mrs. Dubois' body.

Meanwhile Dubois conferred with Jeremiah J. MacAnarney, of Quincy, a widely known criminal lawyer, who figured in the defense of Sacco and Vanzetti. Dubois was released from police custody late yesterday after having been held on suspicion of murder for 12 hours, when a District Court Judge refused to issue a murder complaint against him upon the request of the state and Plymouth police, because of the absence of a body.

WOMAN FOUND

Policemen located, they said, a young woman whom they have sought to question since they first began their investigation of the case. She has been referrd to as "Grace" and "the londe" by the investigators. In announcing that they would not reveal her identity, that she was a member of a "very respectable family" and was at their call whenever she was wanted.

Police who took Dubois into custody early Monday morning said they had been investigating the absence of Mrs. Dubois from her home after people living in the vicinity had told them Dubois had made conflicting statements regarding the absence of his wife.

The neighbors, police said, quoted the jeweler as saying his wife had been burned to death in an automobile accident in Canada.

Interest in the case increased when the investigators received word from authorities in Westchester County, N. Y., that a woman's body had been found near the Tuckahoe home of the Dubois' on August 28.

BLONDE IDENTIFIED

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—(Universal.)—The mysterious "blonde named Grace," central figure in the mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Edith Dubois, was identified by the Boston American yesterday as Grace Atwood, 25-year-old daughter of L. O. Atwood, wealthy manufacturer of Middleboro. She is a graduate of New York University.

Miss Atwood's father admitted that she was the girl who had planned to marry Dubois, believing his wife dead as the result of an automobile accident.

GORGULOFF DIES ON GUILLOTINE

PARIS, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Paul Gorguloff, assassin of former President Paul Doumer, died on the guillotine for his crime here today.

The knife, scheduled to carry out its deadly mission a few minutes earlier, fell at 5:57 a. m., delayed when the man struggled as the end approached.

There was no demonstration among the hundred civilian spectators. Nearby streets were jammed with crowds waiting for news. Most of the watchers were women.

When Gorguloff was awkened in his cell he said:

"I am not afraid."

A Russian priest administered the confession, after which Gorguloff declared:

"I am dying for my idea. I pray that my son soon to be born will be a doctor and not a Bolshevist. I beg forgiveness of the world. Tell my wife I love her much."

When he stood facing the guillotine, the condemned man said:

Then the knife fell.

QUARREL ENDED BY DEATH

The death of Samuel Pepper, 35, a cap maker, of 1209 Fifth avenue, which ended an argument in the apartment of Peggy Koval, 1034 Fifth avenue, last night was attributed to natural causes by the Coroner's office today.

Pepper went to the apartment and became engaged in an argument, accusing her of keeping company with another man, according to the Coroner's report. During the quarrel Pepper collapsed in a chair.

The death cause was determined by an autopsy at the morgue.

Weather Conditions.

The depression yesterday over the upper lakes is now north of the lower lake region, having been accompanied by light to moderate showers over the lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley. Rain also fell in connection with a low over the Gulf of Mexico, over the East Gulf and Atlantic states. Jacksonville reports 2.98 inches rainfall today. A disturbance over Manitoba and Saskatchewan is producing cloudy weather but little rain as yet. Relatively high pressure overlies the North Atlantic and North Pacific coasts, with a ridge extending across the continent connecting the two centers of high pressure. It is cooler in the upper lake region and the Upper Mississippi Valley and warmer in the Canadian Northwest, Montana and the Dakotas. Temperatures as high as 90 degrees yesterday occurred at Parkersburg and at a few stations in the southern states.

JESSEL'S WIFE SPEEDS DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Whereabouts of Mrs. George Jessel, wife of the musical comedy star, was unknown today but the guess of her attorney, L. D. Summerfield, was that she had gone to Mexico in an attempt to speed divorce proceedings.

Accompanied by her father, Mrs. Jessel unexpectedly packed her belongings and left Reno yesterday. She had established divorce residence here August 27, and would have been eligible to file suit on October 10.

A. A. Blackmer, owner of a dude ranch in the Washoe Valley, reported Mrs. Jessel's departure to Summerfield this morning with a man named Ricardi.

Summerfield said he believed the man referred to as Ricardi was Vincent Ricardi, an attorney who has been barred from practice in California and Nevada. Ricardi has announced that he is going to obtain a Mexican divorce for Norma Talmadge, who has been linked in a romance with Jessel.

FIGHT MUTINY WITH HUNGER

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Twin weapons of starvation and thirst were employed by prison camp officials today to break the strike of 32 prisoners of the Hosford road camp after tear gas bombs had failed to dislodge them from their barricaded sleeping quarters.

Shouting derisive insults at the guards, the prisoners defied all attempts to dislodge them.

The prisoners went on strike yesterday, refusing to move from their sleeping quarters. All 68 convicts comprising the prison camp population were at first included in the mutiny, but repeated bombardment by tear gas bombs brought surrender of all but 32.

The prisoners struck in protest of food which they asserted is of poor quality and meager.

3 UNDER BOND IN ACID ATTACK

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Surrendering to police on a charge of mayhem in the acid burning of Mrs. G. A. Gibbs, attractive beauty culture school student, formerly of Oil City, Pa., Mrs. Lulu Douglass, wife of a wealthy Homerville (Ga.) manufacturer, her son and daughter, were released on bond today.

Mrs. Douglas, her son, Bruce, Jr., and daughter, Vashti, voluntarily accompanied Constable J. F. Weeks, from their homes at Homerville and made bond.

Mrs. Douglass was released on $5,000 bond and her children on bonds of $2,500 each.

Trial of the three Douglasses will be set when Mrs. Gibbs, now seriously ill in a hospital, recovers. Mrs. Gibbs told police the trio enticed her into a vacant house and poured acid upon her.

Police said jealousy was the motive. Gibbs told police his wife had obtained a loan from Douglass to finance her through the beauty culture school here. Mrs. Gibbs also had been beaten, physicians declared.

OPPOSE GANDHI HUNGER STRIKE

SIMLA, India, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Powerful efforts areb eing organized to deter Mahatma Gandhi from carrying out his threat to start a hunger strike on September 20.

Today the Viceroy talked for an hour with Rao Bahadur, representative of the untouchable class in the Assembly, who appealed yesterday to all classes to strive to save the life of "the greatest Indian of our time."

The Pandit Malaviya, Hindu leader, was summoned to a conference at Delhi on Saturday in the hope of reaching an early agreement regarding representation of the untouchables, the issue which influenced Gandhi to threaten his campaign of starvation.

Series of Tragedies Cause Man's Death

NEWARK, O., Sept. 14. — A series of tragedies, within five weeks, today ended in the death of Joseph Kuster, 71, veteran restaurateur.

Five weeks ago a daughter was seriously injured in an automobile accident; three weeks ago a son plunged to his death in a Columbus apartment; three days later Mrs. Kuster died of shock, and today grief killed Kuster.

New Husband Speeds, Bride Gets $10 Fine

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—It cost Bert Stone $10 when he was picked up on a speeding count, but since it was his wedding day the money remained in the family.

BRIDE ACCUSES LOST HUSBAND

Constables today were seeking Charles Anthony Kenny, with a warrant charging him with failing to support his pretty 17-year-old bride, Rosemary Fortener Kenny. She filed an information yesterday before Justice of the Peace Milton Church, through her counsel, Robert B. Ivory, Jr.

The constables said they expected to find Kenny at the home of his mother, Mrs. Stella Kenny, well-to-do Beechwood boulevard widow who is being sued for alienation of affections by her young daughter-in-law.

The younger Mrs. Kenny accused her mother-in-law of having persuaded the former's husband to leave her 25 days after their runaway marriage and remain at his mother's home, following "vague" accusations of wrongdoing.

'PLAYFUL' WIFE HURLS BOTTLES

While Russell B. Elbright, 26, and his wife, Edna, 26, of 616 Jacksonia street, toured the downtown section early today, the wife became playful, according to police, and started throwing empty beer bottles at taxicabs at Penn avenue and Sixth street.

The drivers pursued the automobile. At Penn avenue and Stanwix street, according to police, Elbright's automobile collided with a parked machine owned by C. L. Huey, of Washington, Pa. The Elbrights were arrested.

At a hearing in Central Station both were fined $10 and Elbright was turned over to Traffic Court charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

Philadelphia School Vacation Cut Looms

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Shorter vacation periods and extension of sessions late into next June appeared likely for Philadelphia school children today in the event of further postponement of school openings because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis.

The opening of Philadelphia schools is scheduled for next Tuesday unless further outbreaks of the disease occur, but the schools in Cheltenhamp Township, a suburban section, have been closed indefinitely following reports of new cases.

X-Rays Trace Tack Swallowed by Baby

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—At intervals of two hours, doctors today gazed into the inside of 19-month-old Patricia Clarke's tiny body, made transparent by X-rays, and watched the progress of a tack which the little girl swallowed.

At Jamaica Hospital physicians said they made Patricia eat mush and potatoes in the hope the tack would pass from the body without injury. Should this prove impossible, an operation probably will be performed.

OUSTERHEARING FOR MALONEY

A hearing on a petition of Alderman Thomas Flanigan for removal of his political enemy, City Detective Andrew M. Maloney, from his new job as First Ward constable was to be held late today in Quarter Sessions Court.

Flanigan, who defeated Maloney in the First Ward aldermanic race, charges that Maloney has not appeared in his (Flanigan's) office to assume his new duties, and that he has been antagonistic to Flanigan since he had been in office.

He also charges Maloney would not co-operate with him, and could not devote all his time to the job, because he is a city detective.

Staunchly backed by Senator Coyne, Maloney was appointed by Judge George V. Moore. There were six other applicants for the job made vacant by the resignation of Paul Walsh, the police superintendent's son, who was convicted of a violation of the election laws.

NURSE DEMANDS HUTTON PAY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Immediate action to compel David Hutton, choir singer, or his wife, Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, to pay the $5,000 awarded Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, young Pasadena nurse, as a result of her breach of promise suit against Hutton, is to be taken by counsel for the nurse, it was announced today.

In the event Hutton is without assets, as he has publicly stated, an attempt will be made to investigate the assets of the evangelist, Lorrin Andrews, Miss St. Pierre's attorney, said. He stated any money earned by Mrs. Hutton since her marriage would be liable to attachment.

The Huttons last night observed their first wedding anniversary with dinner at the parsonage of Angelus Temple, of which Mrs. Hutton is pastor.

Bank Officers Face Conspiracy Charges

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Former Congressman Everett Kent and 13 other directors or officers of the closed Bangor Trust Company were indicted yesterday by a grand jury on charges of conspiracy.

The officers are accused of conspiracy to defraud creditors and depositors of more than $140,000 by lending money to companies set up by themselves in order to conceal the bank's real financial condition from bank examiners.

Annulment Sought By Olive Borden

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. — Olive Borden of the movies seeks to annul her marriage to Teddy Spector, young broker. In a suit filed yesterday she said he kept her in ignorance of a previous marriage to Mrs. Pearl Haworth Spector, Buffalo beauty specialist.

Doubting Doctors Spoil Hypnotist's 'Sales Talk'

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Tests were conducted by a hypnotist before 20 Chicago physicians last night to determine if hypnotism might be used instead of anaesthesia for operations, but the results, the doctors said, gave no grounds for such a belief.

The hypnotist was Capt. James P. O'Donovan, a psychoanalyst, who appeared before a medical round table with four subjects, three girls and a man.

After putting his subjects into what he described as a "cabalistic sleep" one at a time, Capt. O'Donovan attempted to have each dialate the pupil of one eye while the other remained its normal size. The test failed. He next tried to have his subjects lose their reflexes, but their legs jerked with normal reaction to the thumpings of the doctors.

The captain's power of suggestion, however, was great enough to make one of the girls sneeze when he told her a feather was tickling her nose. He said that failure of his subjects to respond fully was due to the doubting minds of the physicians.

Poling in East to Push Search for Robins

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Dr. Daniel A. Poling, director of the Allied Forces of Prohibition, returned to the East early today "to start at the beginning" in his search for Col. Raymond Robins.

When he stepped from an airplane from Chicago, Dr. Poling said "every clue had blown up." He said he would confer with investigators in New York in an effort to trace the whereabouts of the missing prohibition advocate from the time he last saw him a week ago last Saturday.

Dr. Poling revealed he had a "hot lead" when he left Chicago, yesterday. He said he planned to go from Cleveland to Syracuse, N. Y., where what seemed the best information he had encountered was located. He declared:

"It connected the disappearance of Col. Robins with the Florida bootlegging gang that has been mentioned so often. One of the Hernando County mob was supposed to have had national affiliations, centering about a gang in the vicinity of Syracuse and Auburn.

"But that blew up with the rest of the clues. When I reached Cleveland, I was informed it would be useless to go to Syracuse."

Dr. Poling indicated he had abandoned his belief Robins was an amnesia victim.

VET CALLS HOOVER B.E.F. ATTACK MORE CRUEL THAN WAR

BEGS AMERICA TO DEMAND FAIR PLAY

Hurley, Chief of the Veterans Bureau Gen. Hines, and other powerful administration men throughout the country to present his story.

We have nobody. We are poor and friendless. While these men were making their fortunes and building their careers behind the front-line trenches, we were fighting in those trenches to save this country . . . or trying to gain a foothold after the war.

Many of us are sick. Most of us haven't even a decent suit of clothes in which to present ourselves. The administration has called us vagabonds. We look the part. Yet any man has a right to defend himself, even though he is in rags. And our good name is as dear to us as though we, too, sat in the White House.

There is only one court to which we can now turn and that is to you—the people of America. We ask you to listen.

We do not plead for your sympathy or your gratitude. We are not playing politics—not even trying to argue for the bonus now. We are only asking for fair play . . . for the square deal you would demand for any poor devil who was getting the worst of it in an unequal contest.

Veterans Not Plotters

Regardless of your party or your prejudice, will you listen to our side of the case?

President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell have made the bonus expedition look like a gigantic plot to undermine the government and gyp the American people.

They have said we were largely an "aggregation of criminals" . . . "mostly impostors."

They have tried to arouse your anger against us, saying that we sought "special privilege without regard for the other millions of unemployed."

These things are not true.

We were not plotters, criminals, imposters, panhandlers who forgot their unfortunate brothers.

We were your neighbors.

Poverty Only Sin

We were the men who worked beside you down in the shop . . . who fixed your automobiles and painted your houses and sold you shoes and harvested your crops.

We were the fellows who grew up with you, joined the lodge with you and who married the year you did and who went through hell with you in the war.

We committed no crime, made no plot. But we have become poor. Poverty—that is our only sin.

Many of you know what poverty is, if those fellows in Washington don't. Many of you lost your jobs when we lost ours. Many of you saw your car go, and your home go, and your ranch go, and your insurance lapse because you couldn't keep up the installments or the taxes.

Some of you saw your old mothers and your wives sicken because you couldn't afford an operation—saw some of them die and you didn't even have money to pay for a decent funeral. And many of you saw your little kids get white and spindley because you couldn't buy the right food and clothes, and had to live on hand-outs from other folks as poor as yourself.

These things happened to some of you, and they happened to us. They happened to us all together. That's why we started to march.

Why the March Began

We didn't have any dark design against the government—any mysterious scheme. We came because we were broke. We came as any man would come if he were broke—to try to cash in on the only thing we had left, our compensation certificates.

Today, they're even holding it against us because we had those compensation certificates. But we didn't ask for bonus when we went to war. We didn't expect it. We went to war because we loved our country and they told us it was in danger. And this bonus business was part of the big political ballyhoo that came after. If the bonus is wrong—if the bonus "robs the government"—please remember that it was the government who promised it to us and gave part of it to us. We came to ask for the other promised part.

We came because we were broke—that was all. We came to the place where we thought we had a right to come. If any man has a right to come to Washington and ask for help, it should be us who protected Washington.

Lobbyists Not 'Criminals'

Others were coming. We weren't the only people "lobbying for special interests" at the capital. Theer were thousands of others there—making no secret of it. The bankers were there and the railroad men and the automobile men and the oil men. They were all there and they were all asking for special appropriations to help them through the emergency. They were all getting a polite reception at the White House—AND A LOT OF THEM GOT THE APPROPRIATIONS THEY ASKED.

Nobody calls them criminals today because they asked for help. But they slept in swell hotels and we slept in the mud—that was the difference.

But there was one point where there wasn't any difference between us. We were citizens as much as they . . . we can vote this November as well as they. I guess the administration has just remembered that.

We were broke. That's why we came. But we weren't only thinking of ourselves as we came. We didn't go to Washington merely to get help for our own wives and mothers and little kids.

Sought Aid for All

We went to get help for all the folks back home. We went to get help for the folks who couldn't march—

That bonus wouldn't have stayed in our pockets. It would have paid the grocers and the butchers, the doctors and the landlords, the school teachers and the clerks.

We were marching to help save America!

A lot of people will laugh when they hear us say that. They didn't laugh when we said it back in 1917—when we marched in new uniforms with the bands playing and everybody making a fuss over us. But they'll laugh now because we're in rags and we're getting old. And there's no romance or glory to yell about.

Waited Three Years

But America needs saving as much now as it did then. Maybe it needs it more. And we marched to do our bit to save it!

Perhaps we shouldn't have done it. Perhaps we should have waited and left all that up to the President. But we had waited for three years and what had he done?

For three years we—all of us—had been going through hell. The President didn't know what that hell was like. Secretary Hurley and Attorney General Mitchell and Gen. Hines and Mellon and Mills didn't know what it was like. They can make surveys and speeches about poverty BUT THEY DON'T KNOW WHAT IT IS—not really.

None of those big men in Washington know what all the rest of us have been going through. That's why they weren't doing anything—

And so at last we marched. We got sick of waiting and we marched. And we marched decently and in order. And we lived decently and in order while we were in Washington. They say our camps stank. They say we slept on rubbish and ate scraps.

Whose fault was that?

Wasn't Their Choice

Do you think we wanted to live like that? Does any decent man want to live like that? Does any decent man want to bring his wife to a place like that or have his baby born in a dump like that?

But where else could we go? Where else could we bring them?

We marched because we couldn't wait any longer. And we stayed because we had no place else to go. We were licked from the start—and I guess most of us knew it. But we thought something might happen—

We couldn't believe America would let us down. Even when President Hoover threatened that he'd veto the bill even if Congress passed it . . . and even when the Senate turned it down . . . we still couldn't believe that help wouldn't come.

They say we deliberately stayed on as vagrants. That isn't so, either.

Hoped for Extra Session

We knew it was both possible and legal to call an extra session of Congress in time of emergency. We thought if we stayed it would have to be called, for if this isn't an emergency, what is?

And then they drove us out.

They drove us out, though they didn't need the land and they weren't using the buildings where we camped—though our food, such as it was, was being sent in by friends and we weren't costing Washington a dollar.

They drove us out with guns and bayonets and tanks and tear gas and it was a dirty deal—

But it wasn't as dirty a deal as this—to hit us when we're down. To take away the only thing we have left—our decent name.

And we're telling you THIS, you people of America—

Our fight is your fight. Our rights are your rights and you better protect them for your own sake and the sake of the republic.

There is getting to be less and less consideration for any plain citizen's rights in the Washington of today.

Griffith Upholds Move To Rebuke Hoover

The Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion demands that President Hoover be censured for using federal troops to drive bonus marchers from the national capital. Their reasons for asking this censure are presented here by State Commander Griffith, of Uniontown, elected in Pittsburgh last month.

By PAUL H. GRIFFITH,
Pennsylvania State Commander American Legion.
Written Expressly for International News Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Pennsylvania condemns the use of American troops to break up peaceful assemblies of World War veterans who were petitioning their government for a debt owed them for their services to the nation.

We feel the action of the administration in driving the ragged and half-starved bonus marchers from their camp at Anacostia last July was uncalled for and an unjust reward for service rendered the country when it was in peril. The use of gas, bayonets, tanks and firebrands to drive these men, their wives and children, from their humble quarters is not easily forgotten.

We intend to carry out the mandate of our Pittsburgh convention and ask the national convention to declare:

"It is the opinion of the American Legion that the President of the United States, being charged with high duties over and beyond the execution of the law, handled the whole situation in a regrettable manner which contributed to this said incident."

If such action is not taken, the memory of the bonus army turned into a straggling band of refugees, their belongings and pitifully small rations burned behind them, will ever linger to accuse us of failing our companions of the trench and mud of Flanders Fields.

We recognize the possibilities of mistakes and poor judgment, but as our resolution states, "we do not apologize in the exercise of our right to examine and judge."

BUT that was before they used the New Oxydol

● There's an easy way to get clothes snowy white now without spending hours over the washtub, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing.

Try the New Oxydol—the amazing soap that makes 50% more suds—richer, more lasting suds that do the work for you.

Those extra suds are the secret of easy washing. Thick, lively suds that don't fizzle away, letting the dirt fall back on the clothes.

Use enough for rich suds—Oxydol never balls up or leaves a scum—it softens the water. It's easy on hands and dainty things. You'll bless the day you learned its name.

GIBBONS' RADIO GAG IRKS VETS

of criminals in the bonus army was under 3 per cent while, to quote Gibbons' own words:

"President Harding's own cabinet in which Hoover was Secretary of Commerce had a higher criminal record than that—at least 10 per cent of Mr. Harding's cabinet was convicted and sent to the penitentiary and served its time behind bars—and it wasn't for parking in front of a fire plug either."

The article which contained that statement appeared Monday afternoon.

Arrangements for Gibbons' appearance as announcer were begun in March when National Commander Henry L. Stevens, Jr., of the American Legion, wrote him inviting him to "broadcast to the world again this year."

DEFINITELY SCHEDULED

On September 8, after Gibbons had accepted, he received a wire from his secretary in New York which read as follows:

"Burke Miller (in charge of special news events for the National Broadcasting Company at New York) advises you are definitely broadcasting from Portland Civic Auditorium Sunday the eleventh, Monday at the opening of the convention, and Monday night at the national commanders' dinner."

On Monday, however, Gibbons received a wire from John Royal, program director for the National Broadcasting Company in New York, which read:

"Please be careful about making any editorial comment while on the air."

CANCELED AFTER ARTICLE

Then, early the same afternoon shortly after his article about the bonus marchers appeared in the papers, he was suddenly notified by the local radio station KGW that his broadcasting engagement was cancelled.

He asked for written confirmation and received the following letter from Larry Allen of the Western Broadcasting Company which was to supervise the hook-up for National Broadcasting:

"This will confirm the instructions that we will not be able to use you as an announcer on tonight's network broadcast of the commanders' dinner or for the broadcast of the parade tomorrow. Arrangements have been made to use Stephen Gaylord of KEX, and Clif Engle of KGW as announcers for these two broadcasts."

Attached to that communication was a facsimile of the following wire from the same John Royal of National Broadcasting Company who had previously warned Gibbons about "editorial comment over the air."

"Charles Chatterton,
"Radio Station KGW.

"Will you cover and handle American Legion banquet tonight as per instructions from San Francisco office of National Broadcasting Company.

JOHN ROYAL."

EXPLANATION LACKING

No explanation of the reason for the sudden switch was contained in any of the communications.

Paul Heitmeyer, manager of Station KGW, which is affiliated with the National Broadcasting chain, said last night:

"Instructions were given us by the National Broadcasting Company through the San Francisco office, to cancel all bookings for Floyd Gibbons as an announcer during the American Legion convention.

"Although KGW and KEX, the two stations here in the hookup, originated the plans for the broadcast, only the National Broadcasting Company had anything to do with the cancelling of Floyd Gibbons' arrangements to act as official announcer. We merely acted according to instructions."

Dispatches from New York, however, quoted officials of the National Broadcasting Company as stating that whatever action was taken in the matter was taken by the local stations here.

HIS SPEECH BROADCAST

They pointed out that Gibbons' speech as a guest at the banquet was broadcast with that of other guests, but admitted that they had directed the replacement of Gibbons as an announcer.

Gibbons also broadcast a part of Sunday night's memorial services and brief portions of Monday morning's opening session of the convention, the radio officials pointed out.

But these latter broadcasts took place before the order which directed that the famous war correspondent be supplanted as announcer.

GIBBONS' STATEMENT

Floyd Gibbons said last night:

"I came to Portland to broadcast the Legion convention upon the personal and official invitation of National Commander Stevens.

"I was very glad to donate my time and services to broadcast the Legion convention in Portland this year the same as I did last year in Detroit.

"With that feeling, I accepted the personal and official invitation of National Commander Stevens to be a guest of the Legion and to broadcast the proceedings. I received definite assignment and designation of broadcasting periods from the National Broadcasting Company's New York office.

"On my way here from San Francisco in company with Commander Stevens, we were met several hours out from Portland by Stephen Gaylord, representing the National Broadcasting Company, who confirmed the broadcasting arrangements to Commander Stevens and myself.

"Commander Stevens expressed considerable surprise that the arrangements did not include the same allotments of time on the air daily for the news reports of the convention as were assigned to the legion in Detroit last year. He said he would telephone New York immediately and have the time extended.

"That was all I knew about it until Monday morning when I was notified by the Portland manager for the National Broadcasting Company, Larry Allen, in writing that further proceedings of the Legion would be broadcast by local announcers."

Gibbons was asked:

"Were you given any reason for the change in plans?"

He replied:

"No."

Deny President Asked Radio Ban On Gibbons

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(Universal.)—President Hoover made no protest whatever against broadcasting by Floyd Gibbons of American Legion convention proceedings, the White House said last night.

The Federal Radio Commission likewise denied any knowledge of the reasons Gibbons' scheduled broadcast of the Legion banquet Monday night was canceled.

Theodore G. Joslin, secretary to President Hoover, said:

"The President knows absolutely nothing about the cancellation of Gibbons' broadcast. The President has taken no part in the Legion convention."

N. B. C. Denies Action Resulted From Article

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(Universal.)—Officials of the National Broadcasting Company last night discussed the sudden cancellation of Floyd Gibbons' scheduled appearance as announcer for the American Legion banquet in Portland, Ore., Monday night.

They denied that it had anything to do with Gibbons' newspaper article attacking the bonus marchers from Washington.

They admitted, however, that Gibbons was ordered supplanted as announcer only a few hours before the banquet and only a few hours after that article appeared in the papers.

A high official said:

"It was purely an executive action and entirely within our province since the company—and not Floyd Gibbons—is in complete charge of broadcasting programs over its chain."

STEVENS DENIES PROTEST

The National Broadcasting Company made public in connection with the comment caused by Gibbons' replacement as announcer the following wire from National Commander Henry L. Stevens, of the American Legion, in which Stevens denied making any protest to the company about the incident.

It follows:

Portland, Oregon.
Sept. 12, 1932.

M. M. Alvesworth, President,
National Broadcasting Company:

"Your wire advising me purported press report quoting me as protesting action of the National Broadcasting Company relative to broadcasting convention of Legion.

"Will you say to press that I brand such as a deliberate malicious and unmitigated falsehood.

"I am most grateful for time given us this convention which has been so freely given by you with great financial sacrifice.

"All during my year, you and the National Broadcasting Company have given me every hour of time requested and in addition offered time that we could not use.

"You and your company have been gracious and sympathetic to the Legion and all its programs and endeavors and I personally and officially thank you most sincerely.

"My friendship and admiration for you grew out of your generosity in giving the Legion everything without expense to us and I value it as one of the finest friendships that I have made this year.

"You may show this to anyone or release it to the press.

National Commander."

BERN'S 2 WILLS FAIL TO NAME JEAN HARLOW

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Authorities, after opening a safety deposit box kept by Paul Bern, who committed suicide September 4, two months after his marriage to Jean Harlow, platinum blonde film beauty, announced they found nothing to further explain the motive for Bern's act.

The box, officials said last night, did not contain a will, ending for the moment a search for a document in which it was rumored Miss Harlow was named a beneficiary in the estate of the film executive.

TWO PAPERS FOUND

Authorities said, however, they found two papers which were "wills of a sort," but which they believed would have no standing in a court. Each mentioned Dorothy Millette, the mystery woman of Bern's past, who was traced to a San Francisco hotel from which she disappeared the day following the discovery of Bern's body.

Each paper provided an annuity of $2,500 for Miss Millette and mentioned bequests to members of Bern's family. The family includes Henry Bern, a brother of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Sid Marcus, a nephew, and Mrs. William Marcus, a sister, both of Los Angeles.

The will in which Miss Harlow was reported mentioned was drawn presumably by a Hollywood attorney. It was said to have named the actress as chief beneficiary and to have provided for Miss Millette. Relatives have said Miss Millette had been Bern's sweetheart and later, suffering a mental affliction, had been for a time in a sanitarium.

GIFTS FOR SIX ACTRESSES

Reports of the will were attributed to Miss Irene Harrison, Bern's secretary.

An attorney for Miss Harlow, who expressed surprise at the failure to find the document, said he understood the secretary also was mentioned in it.

One paper in the box was dated August 14, 1927, and besides bequests to Miss Millette and relatives provided for cash gifts to six film actresses whose names were not disclosed.

A 10-page letter to Miss Harlow, written several months before their marriage last July, also was found, but the contents were not divulged.

Bern's Case Mental, Physician Asserts

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Dr. Edward P. Jones, personal physician to Paul Bern, self-slain film producer, who cabled from Honolulu he "understood the motive" for Bern's suicide, arrived from the islands today. He said:

"Bern's suicide was due to an acute melancholia and nervous strain, which developed into a mania. His case was entirely mental."

Heiress Seeks to Jail Ex-Chauffeur Mate

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The troubles of Elizabeth M. Challette, Beverly Hills oil heiress, and her former chauffeur-husband, Charles J. Challette, have been revived.

Accompanied by an attorney and an armed guard, she applied yesterday to Superior Judge Dudley Valentine for an order sending Challette to jail for contempt of court, charging he had violated judicial instructions by calling at her home and accosting her on the street.

Truck Driver Held In Fatal Accident

Edmund Kolinoski, 25, 1402 Juniata street, a truck driver, was being held today on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of James Ward, 46, radio mechanic, 11 Elliott street, North Side, when Kolinoski's truck turned over in an accident, September 3. Ward died of a fractured skull. Coroner's jury investigating his death said that Kolinoski failed to use due care.

Smith Visits Coney, Won't Talk Politics

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith attended the annual mardi gras at Coney Island last night with a party of friends and relatives and declined to make any statement about politics. Smith and his party joined the merrymakers on the boardwalk for a short time.

Ferryboat's Blast Toll Mounts to 68

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The murky East River has given up 23 more bodies, bringing to 68 the known death list in the explosion which blew the old ferry Observation to bits last Friday. A final list of 80 dead is feared.

Flying Instructor And Student Killed

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Pilot Daniel Probst, 36, an instructor in an airport flying school, and William Fitze, 27, a student making his first flight, were killed yesterday when their open cockpit biplane crashed into the muckland of the Passaic meadows.

Two Chances to Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have two chances to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

September 20—Second registration day in Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne. Pittsburgh polls will be open from 8 until 11 o'clock a. m. and from 5 until 11 o'clock p. m.; in other cities, 8 to 10 a. m.; noon to 3 p. m. and from 5 to 11 p. m. eastern daylight savings time.

October 8—Third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

TWO RUM RAIDS DOWNTOWN

Battering down the steel-covered doors of two alleged speakeasies downtown, Constable S. C. Graham, of Justice of the Peace W. F. Edwards' office, Glenfield, and prohibition agents confiscated liquor in one and obtained nothing more than a smell of whisky in the other yesterday.

Before the agents forced their way through the steel-covered doors at 811 Court place, employes and patrons fled through a window, but 13 pints of gin, five pints of whisky and a half-barrel of beer were confiscated, according to the agents' report.

At 230 Third avenue, the raiders found two empty pitchers which smelled of whisky, they reported. Several men escaped through a rear exit before the agents chopped down the iron door.

Pitt Paper Changes Edition Schedule

Marking a radical change in its 23-year-old policy of publishing once a week, the Pitt Weekly, campus organ of the University of Pittsburgh, will make its bow as a semi-weekly next Tuesday, it was announced today by Thomas B. Cummings, new managing editor. Thereafter, the paper will appear twice weekly, Tuesday and Friday.

To perfect its plans and complete its personnel, the executive board of the paper was to meet today. It is composed of William Theis, editorial director; Wilfred Berman, local advertising director; Franklin A. Kallfelz, national advertising director, and Cummings.

Westminster Prexy's Inauguration Oct. 8

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 14.—Dr. Robert F. Galbreath will be formally inaugurated as the eighth president of Westminster College Saturday, October 8. The inaugural ceremonies will start at 11 a. m. There will be no classes scheduled for the day, and there is an open date on the football schedule, so that the entire day will be devoted to the event. Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, may speak.

HOPE FOR END OF STRIKE ON P. O. SEEN

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce was to confer today on the strike delaying the new postoffice building, with the Building Trades Employers Association and representatives of the Hoisting Engineers Union.

Thomas A. Dunn, president of the chamber, and member of the special committee, declared he hoped for a settlement today. He said no statement would be issued by the committee if the strike was ended. He announced:

"We have settled everything but a few technicalities and we hope to get them out of the way today."

The other member of the committee is Senator Frank J. Harris.

UNION IS ISSUE

The hoisting engineers have been on strike for more than nine weeks in a dispute which centers in their right to man the hoists of sand and gravel companies with union engineers.

John Douglas, Jr., whose newly organized Union Sand Company has been approved by the union, has been refused membership in the Building Trades Employers Association. The refusal was based on the charter of the association, which, according to F. O. Reed, secretary, denies membership to material and supply dealers.

Douglas said yesterday he may test the action of the association in court. He reports he has leased from the Pressed Steel Car Company an additional terminal at the foot of Addison street, Woods Run.

LEASE OFFER RECEIVED

City Council's Finance Committee yesterday referred a $25,000 offer made by Douglas for the site near the Point now occupied by the Keystone Sand Company at an annual rental of $4,500, to Director Edward G. Lang of the Department of Public Works and the law department for examination. There were no comments on the offer.

A public hearing on the proposal of George Vang, of the Iron City Sand and Gravel Company, and a group of associates, to lease the Allegheny River Wharf from Stanwix street to Ninth street for 15 years, will be held by Council tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Allied Boards of Trade, Building Owners and Managers Associations, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and other civic organizations, have been invited to attend the hearing.

Vang proposes to lease the river front from the city for 15 years, and to spend $750,000 for improvements.

Registration Body Member to Speak

John P. Henry, of the Registration Commission, will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Women's Political Education Association tomorrow at noon in the Y. W. C. A. Chatham street. Mrs. Lois Downs McBride will preside.

Motion Pictures May Decide Suit For Injuries

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Motion pictures were expected today to decide a civil suit brought by Sol Bloom against the Northeast Builders Company to recover damages for injuries received in an automobile accident.

Bloom testified yesterday he received numerous injuries, particularly to his back, which greatly handicapped him in the conduct of his business.

To counteract this testimony, counsel for the defense brought into court motion pictures, which they said purported to show Bloom actively engaged in business at the time he said he was incapacitated.

YOUTH'S KIDNAP TALE DOUBTED

Police today doubted the story of Joe Minski, 12, of Cleveland, that he was abducted in an automobile in Cleveland on Monday, and abandoned in an Overbrook field the same night.

The boy said he slept in the field and yesterday morning appealed to a garage attendant for food. The man turned the boy over to Overbrook police, who fed him and then turned him over to the Juvenile Detention Home.

The parents of the boy also were skeptical of the kidnap tale, according to word received here from Cleveland police. They said the boy disliked school and disappeared.

TESTING COSTS PROTESTED BY COUNTY

Officials of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory are to confer with Director of Property and Supplies Ray Sprigle to see if a more reasonable price scale for their services to the county cannot be worked out.

A. R. Ellis and F. O. Gardner, officials of the company, at the commissioners' meeting yesterday denied they have overcharged the county.

When they were called before the meeting, Commissioner C. C. McGovern said:

"There have been reports that after the abolishment of the county testing department, the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory hired dismissed employes to do the same work and that they boasted that they would make it cost the county plenty."

Ellis said:

"We did employ P. J. Freeman, who had been with us for years before he went with the county. We were glad to get him back. He has not had anything to do with any county work. We also employed F. W. Groh, a very capable man, whom we have promoted to an executive position. We hired him with the approval of Director Sprigle, because he knew how the work was handled, and temporarily we put him on county work."

Ellis said that the county is getting a much lower rate than would be charged individual customers.

Controller Woodside cited that individual barrels of oil had been tested by the company at $10 a barrel. He is holding up the bills. Ellis said:

"The testing of every barrel of oil in the county garages was ordered by the superintendent of motor vehicles. It is unnecessary, but we had definite instructions."

DOLLAR BILLS EXCITE MUCH LOCAL COMMENT

Wrigley Reporters Hear Enthusiastic Praise Everywhere

By MR. SPEAR

"Another day—another dollar," was said by many Pittsburghers to whom Miss Mint and I and our assistants have given fresh dollar bills in our daily quest of Wrigley Gum users.

MELVIN GABEL, 5222 Penn Ave., newsboy, was one of the happiest persons you can imagine when he was given a crisp dollar bill for giving his opinion of Juicy Fruit.

SAMUEL L. McMASTERS, 4224 Kincaid St., was one dollar richer when he said Spearmint was his favorite every time after a smoke.

CLARK L. FORKER, 4707 Mossfield Ave., is a Spearmint enthusiast. He proved it by having a package with him, which netted him a one dollar bill.

E. H. DYSON, 618 Southern Ave., seemed to be enjoying his gum when I stopped him. It was Wrigley's. "I always carry a package with me—it is the best little treat I know of."

ESTELLA ECKERT, 1302 Olivant St., was busy at work in an office when I approached her. She produced a package of Spearmint and was immediately given one of those new dollar bills.

M. L. CAPLAN, 2106 Penn Ave., is another regular Wrigley user who was rewarded with a one dollar bill for giving his opinion of his favorite flavor—Spearmint.

L. C. LARSEN, 95 Poplar Drive, Mt. Lebanon, was a surprised man when I accosted him downtown. He always carries a package of Double Mint with him and quickly proved it, which profited him one dollar.

KEEPS THROAT CLEAN

MISS E. EICHELMAN, 1421 DeHaven St., Troy Hill, had a package of Double Mint in her purse and after commenting about Double Mint keeping her throat clean and healthy, she was rewarded with a dollar bill.

OFFICER PAT FITZPATRICK, of No. 12 Police Station, has chewed Spearmint for years, likes it immensely, and was pleased to receive his dollar bill. Pat hoped Miss Mint would see him next, because he's never without his Spearmint.

Here are just a few of the many Pittsburghers Miss Mint and I gave dollar bills to yesterday. L. A. WILSON, 2603 Penn Ave.; L. P. SCHAEFER, 737 E. Ohio St.; VIRGINIA DITTMAN, 1339 W. North Ave.; LESTER ENGLISH, 2933 Penn Ave.; S. F. LALLY, 346 Semple St.; J. BURG, 3708 Forbes St.; F. B. MALOY, 5113 Bayard St.; FRANCIS LAUGHLIN, 3231 Juliet St., Oakland; EARL S. KING, 324 Taylor St.; E. J. MURPHY, 516 Aspen St.; JOHN MADIGAN, 673 Washington Road; MURRAY KLEIN, 1619 Denniston Ave.; MRS. MILDRED LOSE, 1403 Wightman St.

Miss Mint and I and our assistants are spreading out more and more every day. We are downtown, out in the residential sections, around schools and factories. We're trying to surprise you by bobbing up in unexpected places. You will not only find us around the crowded busy sections of the city but out in the quiet residential sections. Regardless of where you are, always be prepared, you may be next. Be sure you have an open package of any of the four Wrigley flavors with you. Then when we stop you, a crisp dollar bill will be given for your opinion.

Raw Materials Up! . . . BUT

September Retail Prices Lowest in Years

ALMOST unique situation prevails at the moment in the commodity markets. Raw materials, particularly silks, wools and leathers, have had sharp rises in the past six weeks, while retail prices of early fall and winter requirements, based on commitments of two or three months ago, are the lowest in twenty or twenty-five years. If the present advances in the primary markets are sustained, higher retail prices are inevitable when present stocks are exhausted. The public, sensing the situation, is showing a disposition to do its fall shopping, particularly in the major necessaries, earlier than usual, this year. The indications of the moment are that this is likely to prove a wise move.

Readers Give Varied Views On Kissing Question

Do boys think a gal's a flat tire if she won't kiss 'em—
And a bum if she does?

Mickey had the impression that they did, and she wanted to know how come—also whether she should kiss 'em or not. For—

"It seems as if they all turn you down if you won't," she wailed. "And they seem to think they have a right to kiss you if they take you out to a show!" she went on, getting madder with every stroke of the pen.

We put it up to the boys—were they like that? And if so, why so?

"Dear Miss Martin—

"I've just read Mickey's letter. Poor kid! She has got a problem, all right. And she has a lot of sense for her age. Don't let them kiss you, Sis, until you are sure you know that they like and respect you, not just for that, but for yourself.

"I am going quite steady with a lovely girl, and it was quite a long time before I kissed her good-night. Some boys do get that 'pay-off' idea, after they've stepped out with a girl for an evening's entertainment. Some feel that her company is pleasure and don't feel she owes them anything. I must confess I felt the first way, once, never understanding why I never had another date with the girl. I tried it on—why she was always 'out' or 'busy.'

"Make your own platform, Mickey. It will be worth it. Make it an iron-clad Don't Kiss 'Em Unless You Want To.

"Fellows sometimes get funny notions because they don't think about things much—except perhaps what they want. Don't let them run you. Some maybe'll duck out. But a good many of them will get sense and appreciate you.

"DICK."

SOME GIRLS AT FAULT

And now here's Julie—and has she got an earful of talk! No, you're wrong. It's not a broadside against the boys! She hands us gals plenty, too.

"My Dear Miss Martin:

"Yes, answering Mickey, it is true that some boys think they have a right to kiss any girl goodnight and think she's a flat tire if she doesn't and a hussy if she does. But there are far more of them who have a fairer idea.

"There are two sides to this argument, and both have their good points as well as their faults.

"Some girls expect a boy to kiss them goodnight, and call him a flat tire if he doesn't. Some girls flirt and give a fellow the impression they'd like to be kissed—then they refuse him when he tries it, satisfied that they've proved their own charms to themselves. Then they laugh at the fellow after he's gone. Oh, we girls aren't perfect. A lot of the things that happen to us are the fault of some of us, ourselves.

SHOULD BE DIPLOMATIC

"Then there's the girl who will become grossly insulted and make sarcastic remarks to the boy, making him feel belittled. Others slap him and run into the house. This is all wrong. For even a nice boy and a gentleman, if he likes a girl and she has been nice to him, has the impulse to kiss her without feeling that he must marry her, as they did years ago.

"And taking for granted that he's a gentleman, and the girl is a lady, it is very simple. If she likes him and feels she wouldn't mind a good-night kiss, all well and good.

"If, on the other hand, she doesn't want to be kissed, she can refuse him politely and pleasantly—saying she likes him and enjoys his company but doesn't care to be kissed—and still keep him for a friend who will like her and respect her. If she doesn't make him feel humiliated, or as if he'd committed a crime, he'll admire her for her frankness and respect her for her tact. Try it, Mickey! It works! "JULIE."

Sounds like a million to me—how about you?

"All Things Come to Him Who Waits" In Modern Life, Too—Fay King

By FAY KING

There is an old saying that "everything comes to him who waits."

The automobiles, moving pictures and radio have proved this to be true.

There was a time when the boys who left the farm to go to the city were envied. Later when they returned, they could lord it over the folks who never left the farm.

But city folks no longer cause a ripple in the rural districts.

The country folks have seen as much on the screen, and heard better on the radio, and they drive to cities in their cars.

For the world has come to those who stayed home and waited.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Treatment in Early Stages Arrests Cancerous Growth

Much information, as well as a great deal of misinformation, has been published about cancer. I am glad to say that, while the cause of this disease has not been discovered, our knowledge concerning it has increased very greatly. Today I want to point out some of the many misconceptions about cancer.

Dr. Copeland

In all probability cancer is not infectious, nor contagious. By this I mean it cannot be transmitted from one person to another. Many shun those afflicted with cancer for fear they may contract the disease. No case has ever been reported that has been definitely proved to be caused by direct contact with the disease.

Another false idea about cancer is that it is rapid in its progress and necessarily fatal. This belief has given rise to the comparison of cancer to a fire spreading rapidly in its destructive course.

It is true that after a certain length of time the cancerous cells multiply and grow rapidly. In its early stages, however, it is slow in its growth. When recognized in this stage and proper treatment is applied, the disease is curable.

When overlooked or neglected cancer is permitted to reach the stage of rapid growth. In that event the disease may spread to other parts of the body, this occurrence is called "metastasis." When it takes place, it is extremely serious.

I am frequently asked as to whether or not cancer is hereditary. That the tendency to cancer exists in certain families has long been recognized. However, there is no proof that cancer is a hereditary disease. Nor is there any proof that an individual related to a family in which there have been many cases of cancer is more liable to the disease than one in whose family cancer has not occurred.

Impaired health, general vague discomfort and loss of weight may be the only signs of the disease. In the early stages of cancer, there is only slight pain; this increases as the disease progresses. The pain varies in intensity, too, depending upon the location of the cancer.

The number of cases of cancer has appeared to have increased within the past five years. It cannot be definitely said that the increased figures mean an actual increase in the disease. They may mean an increase in the number of cases now recognized in the early stages. In former years, when the X-ray and other advanced methods of diagnosis were not available to everyone, the disease was rarely recognized until pretty well advanced.

Please bear in mind that cancer need not be a fatal disease. By means of the X-ray, radium and modern surgical technique, many cases of cancer can be definitely cured. This cure is only possible when the disease is recognized in its early stages.

Early diagnosis can be made if you report to your doctor at regular intervals. Take inventory of your health every six months. Do this regardless of how well you feel. Early discovery is the surest means of combatting cancer and other ailments.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

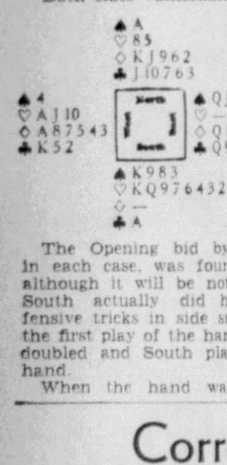
Doubling Pre-emptive Bids

When the bidding has been opened with a Pre-emptive bid, which probably discloses little defensive strength, and has been overcalled by an opponent, a Double of the Overcall is, to say the least, speculative, as the defensive strength indicated by the Opening bid of one cannot ordinarily be found in hands containing long and predominant suits.

In many homes Bridge has taken the form of Replay Duplicate, inasmuch as in some sections it is not possible to get together crowds large enough to provide for other forms of Duplicate. In Replay Duplicate, one pair will play the North and South hands, and later, when there has been an opportunity to forget the location of the cards, they will defend with the cards held by their opponents on the first occasion.

In a game of this nature, one pair of players had the unusual satisfaction on the first play of the cards, of bidding and making a contract of four hearts doubled. On the replay, holding the opposing cards, they bid and made four spades, also doubled, in each case scoring 840 points.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Opening bid by South, in each case, was four hearts, although it will be noted that South actually did hold defensive tricks in side suits. In the first play of the hand, West doubled and South played the hand.

When the hand was again played, with the original North and South players now sitting East and West, their adversaries opened with a bid of four hearts. West again doubled, but East, in view of his lack of defensive tricks, decided that it was safer to take a chance on making four spades than to attempt to defeat a vulnerable bid of four hearts, and so made that bid.

South opened the heart King, and East fulfilled the contract. Thus, again a score of 840 points was made, but this time for East and West. The four spade contract could have been defeated 1 trick had South opened the Club Ace and North returned a club or a diamond when in the lead with the Ace of trumps. As a matter of fact, this was probably South's best play against the contract of four spades, as it seemed the only probable manner of giving him the possibility of making use of his four trumps.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

Today's Question

What is the correct bid with the following hand in response to partner's Informatory (Takeout) Double of one heart?

♠ 8 6 4 ♡ 8 4 3 2 ◇ 7 5 3 ♣ 6 4 2

Answer: Two clubs. When responding to a Takeout Double, if the player's only four-card suit is the suit adversely bid, and the hand does not contain 1 honor-trick and a stopper in the adversely bid suit, the player should make a minimum response in his lowest three-card minor. A pass in this position would be unpardonable.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Atmospheric dust sticks and hangs to an oily skin. Sometimes soap and water, vigorously applied, won't make a thorough cleansing job. So get out the old cold cream jug, use its contents for the purpose of removing makeup before the sudsy tubbing takes places. Eau de cologne can be used after the cleansing to dig soil from the pores. Pour into a rough fabric, scour the skin surface lightly. Results will prove that the treatment is effective.

White spots on the fingernails are supposed to be air bubbles, caused by bruising the matrix at the nail base. This condition comes about through the use of metal instruments. Cuticle about the nails should be soaked in warm soapsuds and lifted gently with the orange wood stick. At the base it must never be cut since nature will start repairs, do too good a job and a thick heavy skin will be the beauty penalty.

Remember how the standpatters predicted the short bob wouldn't last? It would be as dead as Cleopatra, said they, in a few short years. Dead? It isn't even showing its age. It is a thing of beauty and maybe it will be a joy forever, who knows? This season's style requires skillful cutting, thinning and feather-edging; it isn't a job that any ordinary hair-reaper can achieve. The up-and-down wave at the back with a formal bouquet of sculptured curls huddling behind the left ear is particularly intricate to pattern. New modes call for locks of various lengths.

Household Hints

To dry and air silk stockings quickly, put some hot water into an aluminum hot-water bottle. Roll them round the bottle. They will smooth and dry in a very short time.

Starch, if not used at once, will be found to have jellied. To prevent this happening, add a little cold water when the starch is at boiling point, and you will be able to use it at any time without further trouble.

Ivory keys, or any ivory article that has become yellowed, can be made white by covering with a thick paste made of powdered whiting and a little pure alcohol. Leave on 24 hours; the alcohol will then have evaporated and the whiting can be brushed off.

Fat Men

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast for 4 weeks and cut down on pastries, sugar and fatty meats—

You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and by reducing surplus fat probably live years longer.

A man from Richmond Hill, N. Y., writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen, I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25% more active, mind is clearer, eruptions have disappeared. Am 46 yrs. old and feel 20 yrs. younger. I get up feeling 100%. Kruschen sure is great!"

To take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY, take as directed above—don't worry—it's the safe way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not joyfully satisfy you, why, money back.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Letter of Condolence

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We received word that my husband's sister's husband passed away. They live in a distant city. I've never written to her, and I am at a loss to know how to extend our sympathy in a most tender manner. R.

For this letter of condolence I suggest that you write perhaps something of this nature:

Dear Dorothy:

You have been in our thoughts constantly since we had the sad news that your dear Ted had passed away, and we do so want to tell you of our deep and tender sympathy. We realize so much how sorrowful and difficult these days must be for you, and I wish that we lived nearer to you so that we might have the great privilege of comforting you and of being of help to you, if that were possible. We are all so devoted to you, and were so devoted to Ted, and it is hard to realize that he has passed from us.

Ted's fine character has always been a great inspiration in our household, and the memory of him is very precious to us. Such a splendid glowing thing he made of his life . . . you must be very proud of that, but I know too that having this splendor taken away, and so suddenly, is terrifically hard to bear. But all our prayers and all our love and devotion are with you, Dorothy dear, in these days and always.

Do write us when you can and tell us of yourself. We want so much to have some word from you.

Dearest love from Tom and the children and me, and deepest understanding and sympathy.

Affectionately,
MARY.

The Lady's Privilege

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When passing a young man on the street, should the lady speak first, or wait for the man to speak? READER.

It is the time honored privilege for the lady to make acknowledgment of acquaintanceship with a gentleman. And he should wait for this acknowledgment before he bows or speaks.

RITES CREATING NATION SET IN MANCHURIA

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Preparations for tomorrow's conclusion of the Japan-Manchukuo treaty, by which Japan welcomes the new state into the family of nations, were completed today.

Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto, special envoy of the Mikado, arrived from Mukden today and was given a warm welcome. Extraordinary precautions were taken to protect him from possible foul play.

The treaty-signing ceremonies will be brief and will be held in Henry Pu-Yi's palace.

In spite of the imminence of what amounts to the creation of the world's youngest nation, Changchun retained its customary oriental lethargy. The city's 100,000 Chinese inhabitants appeared to be utterly indifferent.

Wreck Horrors Told, Bandit Guard Demanded

HARBIN, Manchuria, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—A demand of foreign consuls in Manchuria for increased protection against brigandage was presented to the Manchukuo government today by United States Consul General George Hanson as half-naked victims of the recent train wrecks told of harrowing experiences.

Hanson, in the name of the other consuls, called upon the Pu-Yi government to increase the number of police in Harbin and vicinity and to arrest and punish the Chinese responsible for last Sunday's attack on him and other consuls on a golf course here. This attack resulted in the injury of two British subjects who were in the party.

Henry Villard, son of Oswald Garrison Villard, New York journalist, described one of four weekend wrecks. He said:

"It was a terrifying experience, not an ordinary train wreck, but one accompanied by a fierce armed attack in the dead of night, with the bandits intent on kidnaping, plunder and murder.

"We were lined up like criminals and while one group pressed the muzzles of pistols to our heads and another squad held us covered from behind, a third stripped and robbed us. The night was bitter cold and we suffered acutely without clothing.

"We spent a night of horror, expecting every minute that the bandits would return. In the midst of our misery we could hear the agonizing cries of those pinioned in the wreckage, most of them horribly mangled."

Attacks Against U. S. Policy Renewed in Tokio

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The newspaper Kokumin resumed its attack today on United States officials and on the photographing of several business and industrial buildings in Japan by the National City Bank of New York. In an editorial, it said:

"The attitude of the American Government on the affair must be described as extremely arrogant. On the other hand, the Americans have been extremely cautious about the actions of Japanese resident in the United States.

"There also have been the provocative utterances of Secretary of State Stimson, which have been deplored even in some quarters in America. Unless the United States abandons her selfish and tyrannical attitude it is impossible that Japanese feeling should resume tranquility."

Typos Consider Work Relief, 5-Day Week

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—With 73 propositions before the convention, half of them concerned with relief for unemployment and extension of the five-day week, the International Typographical Union at its seventy-seventh annual meeting continued committee deliberations today.

Some definite policy relating to the five-day week is scheduled to be adopted, and means will be found for limiting the old age pension outlay, which last year was $1,466,897, President Charles Howard said. The fund had been depleted to $2,480,466.

Indict Lumberman For Slaying Partner

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Oscar O. Hoffman, of North Wales, accused of shooting to death his business partner, Orrin G. Meyers, of Lansdale, last May, was indicted yesterday by the Montgomery County grand jury.

The former lumber dealer, who has been under $25,000 bail in the State Hospital for the Insane since June 1, appeared before the grand jury.

WORKING ON HOOVER REHABILITATION

JOSEPH DILWORTH A. W. ROBERTSON

Mr. Robertson, board chairman of Westinghouse Electric, pictured in his Pittsburgh office today as he and Mr. Dilworth, managing director of the plan, worked out a course of action for the Hoover rehabilitation program originated by Mr. Robertson. The essence: Replace equipment now. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Reprinted from Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, August 29th.

Don't sit on the fence by the roadside criticising and kibitizing, but jump down and WORK with the others... Read the few of the thousands of news items we have reproduced on this page showing that from one end of the country to the other conditions Are Better... there's a spirit of optimism in the air—confidence is being restored...hoarded dollars are now being put to work...and what we need now is to erase the word "Depression" from our dictionaries and to do our share to translate this better feeling into Actual Prosperity.

AUTO SAFETY PLANS LAID

A program of automobile safety legislation to include some form of financial responsibility for drivers will be discussed at a luncheon meeting of the Highway Safety Commission of the Pittsburgh Motor Club tomorrow in McCreery's dining room. This is the first fall meeting of the committee. Robert L. Wickline, chairman, will be in charge.

The Motor Club group is cooperating with Gov. Pinchot's Committee on Street and Highway Safety in a campaign to reduce auto accidents.

Two Fliers Killed When Plane Crashes

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Capt. Blaise A. Leboeuf, chief instructor of the Montreal Light Aeroplane Club, and C. W. Chambers, also of Montreal, were killed last night when one of the club's planes crashed near St. Hubert Airport.

Capt. Leboeuf was instructing Chambers in "spinning."

Phila. to Decide Fate of Machines

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The question of scrapping or retaining all voting machines will be put up to the voters of Philadelphia at the November election, the County Commissioners announced today.

The committee of 70 already has taken steps to organize civic groups for a fight for retention of the machines which were used at the last primary election. Voting machines already in use cost approximately $1,000,000. Cost of the remaining ones needed was estimated today at about $2,000,000.

POLITICAL BROADCASTS

Rupp, Shields, Thomas On Air

Politically prominent speakers' views on the forthcoming presidential elections and party policies are scheduled to be broadcast over WCAE and KDKA tonight.

Lawrence Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, opposing Senator James J. Davis, is presented as guest speaker by Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, during Mr. Shields' weekly political broadcast from WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Rupp

At 10:30, on KDKA, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency, carrying his platform to the American radio audience over a coast-to-coast network, is heard. In 1928 he was candidate for the presidency; he twice has sought the office of mayor of New York on the Socialist ticket, and was Socialist candidate for governor of New York in 1924.

Martin W. Carlson, Senate president of Illinois, discusses the "State Sales Tax" when he appears as guest speaker on the American Taxpayers' League program on KDKA tonight at 8 o'clock.

A new and diverting series of feminine interest programs will be inaugurated over a Columbia chain, including WJAS, tomorrow morning at 10:45, when Barbara Gould, noted beauty specialist, presents Patricia French, New York newspaper woman, in her column of the air, "Have You Heard?" The new feature will be a period of news and gossip about up-to-the-minute people and events, and will be heard each week at the same hour.

* * *

Program Pointers

Mildred Jackson Cox, pianist, of Louisville, Ky., a student at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, makes her bow to the KDKA audience today at 4:15. Miss Cox has been actively engaged in radio work in Louisville . . . How Johnny Hart succeeds as the only man in a girl act, "Helene and Her Debutantes," an orchestra of 16 beautiful musicians, is dramatized on WCAE at 8 during the "Big Time" broadcast.

Miss Cox

"On the Trail," from Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite," is a highlight of the concert by Nat Shilkret's Orchestra with Gladys Rice, soprano, and the Men About Town on WCAE at 9:30.

Countess Olga Albani and the Revelers are co-starred with Victor Young's Orchestra on WCAE at 9. Included on the program is a group of songs from the new revue, "Flying Colors."

A classical arrangement of the popular song, "Sidewalks of New York," by Josef Pasternack's Orchestra, is a Melody Moments feature on KDKA at 8:30.

Another group of old-time folk songs is heard on WCAE at 10 during a broadcast of the cross-roads meeting of the Corn Cob Pipe Club. The old favorites include "Old Gray Mare," "Turkey in the Straw," "Ev'rybody Ought to Pray Sometime" and "Seeing Nellie Home."

"Fort McHenry: The Birthplace of the Star Spangled Banner," a 30-minute dramatic program with incidental music, marking the one hundred and eighty-eighth anniversary of the birth of our national anthem, is presented over an NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 11:30.

Coast Guards Arrest Suspect in Robbery

WILDWOOD, N. J., Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Coast guards fired half a dozen shots as they captured a suspect here early today following the robbery of the home of August Schubert of $1,200. The money was taken from a trunk during the absence of the Schubert family.

Mrs. Anna Heisman, a neighbor, saw two men leaving the house and notified the Coast Guard station. The guards gave chase, capturing Charles Davis, Atlantic City.

Radio Snapshots.
"Real Folks" Booked.
Rudy Coming, Too.

Snapshots of Catherine Mackenzie . . . She interviews celebrities over a far-flung Columbia chain and WJAS each morning, but rarely says anything about herself, so it's up to us to tell you: That she was confidential secretary to Alexander Graham Bell when she was 18 . . . that she was world-adventuring and hobnobbing with celebrities at an age when many young women are sub-debs . . . that her greatest thrill came during one of New York's worst residential fires when she climbed from a flame-licked room onto the tallest ladder and descended in bare feet and a red velvet tea gown. She won fame with her biography of the inventor of the telephone. You've known her before as "Mrs. Blake."

Miss Mackenzie

Matt Thompkins, Mayor of Thompkins Corners, and all of the other beloved characters of the "Real Folks" sketches, are scheduled to present their own three-act stage production Thanksgiving night (November 24) at Syria Mosque. The original cast will be augmented by six Broadway actors . . . and on September 30, Rudy Vallee is due at Eddie Hartner's Summit Club.

The new "voice" of WCAE is that of Phil Lyon, former musical director of KQV and for two years announcer of stadium football games. He was born in Mansfield, O., spent two years in musical and stage direction in New York, five years traveling as national field secretary of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and seven years in real estate in Pittsburgh and Conneaut, O. He's 38 and single.

Apparently radio will be able to bring football fans play-by-play accounts of the major games of the coming season, after all. Since the Eastern Intercollegiate Association decided that the matter should rest with each member, foregoing adherence to the ruling which would prohibit game broadcasts, the networks are lining up a delayed schedule.

'Gas' Price Jumps 20% in Britain

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—British motorists were hit today by an increase of nearly 20 per cent in gasoline prices, raising the standard grade to 39 cents a gallon.

W. Don Harrison, athletic director of the University of Pittsburgh, tells what goes on "behind the scenes" as college football teams train for the new season when he appears as guest speaker during the Trained Seals' broadcast on WCAE tonight at 6:50. Highlights of Pittsburgh's hockey situation by Carl W. Shatto, Sun-Telegraph sports writer, also are heard, along with world series baseball talk by Charles J. Doyle, Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is master of ceremonies.

Don Harrison

News flashes by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are broadcast daily over WCAE at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

The harmonizing Lawson Sisters and the Andrini Brothers, string comedians, are featured with Pat Haley, master of ceremonies, and an orchestra directed by David Levin during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club program tonight at 11.

. . . . . Have You Lost Your Hearing?

Loss of hearing is no longer the social and business handicap it was a few years ago. Today, there is a Radioear hearing aid to fit any degree of hearing loss. If there is usable residual hearing, Radioear, invented by a hard-of-hearing man, whose hearing loss is 82%, provides hearing never before possible . . . natural reproduction of the voice, elimination of sound distortion and a practical miniature earpiece with common sense adapter. You Can Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach this way

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

CHARGES POWER LOAN PLOT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Charles Nodder, Federal Trade Commission examiner, today testified in the commission's study of public utilities that the Associated Electric Company, by issuance of bonds, obtained money at 5½ per cent, which was advanced to other companies of the Associated system for 8 per cent.

The plan, Nodder asserted, was to eliminate direct major financing by operating companies and to advance funds to them through holding companies.

In 1929, Nodder said, the Pennsylvania Electric Corporation, a sub-holding company, borrowed from the Associated Electric Company an average monthly balance of $74,300,000. At the same time, Nodder added, the Pennsylvania corporation "only paid interest at 8 per cent on the amount it lent to operating companies, which averaged a monthly balance of $51,500,000." He added:

"In other words, $22,800,000 was borrowed by the Pennsylvania Electric Corporation from the Associated Electric Company without interest."

CRASH ON GUARD RAIL HURTS 3

Three Dormont men, one a law student at Duquesne University, were injured early today when their automobile collided with a new safety zone pillar at West Ohio and Federal streets.

John F. Delaney, 29, of 1339 Arkansas avenue, the student, and Lloyd B. Wolfe, 30, of 1418 Baltimore street, were treated at Allegheny General Hospital for lacerations. Twenty-four stitches were required to close a wound on Wolfe's face and head.

13-Star Flag Given To Historic Warship

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—A 13-star United States flag that had been in possession of his family since revolutionary days was presented today by La Vallette Barton, of Boston, to Commander Louis J. Gulliver, of the Navy, master of the historic warship Constitution.

Girl Hurt in Fall From Father's Auto

Gwendolyn June Crystol, 5, who lives on the Lincoln Highway near East McKeesport, was in the McKeesport Hospital today with a fractured skull after falling out of an automobile near her home. She was riding in the back seat of a car driven by her father, Orest Crystol.

Plane Found in Sea Experimental Craft

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Wreckage of a sunken naval plane which fouled the nets of a trawler off the coast from here was said by naval officers today to be that of an experimental craft manufactured by the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation of Buffalo, N. Y.

MINERS MARCH, BATTLE LOOMS

BENTON, Ill., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Franklin County was under arms again today.

Sheriff Browning Robinson's army of special deputies was standing guard on all highways entering the county, prepared to resist efforts of "shock troops" of the Progressive Miners of America, a newly formed union, to enter the county in an effort to dissuade members of the United Mine Workers of America from working at the reduced wage scale.

The "shock troops" were reported last night to be under way from Gillespie, intent on a drive against three counties—Franklin, Perry and St. Clair.

Perry County officials have announced no attempt would be made to prevent peaceful pickeling of mines there. But Sheriff Robinson, whose 500 deputy sheriffs once before prevented invasion of Franklin County by striking miners, announced:

"They're not coming into Franklin County."

CORRY OFFICER DIES IN CRASH

CORRY, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Patrolman John Mulhern was killed and Chief of Police John Flannigan and three other men were injured last night in an automobile accident on the outskirts of Corry.

They were returning from Erie in a car driven by Patrolman Leon Brown. It was raining, the road was slippery, and as Brown swerved the car to avoid hitting another machine, it upset. Dr. Paul Webb, of Union City, driving the other car, was unhurt. The injured included Claude Porter, city clerk; Joseph Height, of Corry, and Brown. The accident occurred on Proctor Hill, west of this city.

INDICT LOGAN OFFICIAL'S AIDE

LOGAN, W. Va., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Clarence Stephenson, Negro, was indicted by a grand jury today on charges of slaying Mrs. Mamie Thurman, wife of a Logan policeman, last June.

Harry Robertson, president of the Logan City Commission, who was held for grand jury action in the case, was not mentioned in the indictment. The grand jury has not yet completed its work. Stephenson was employed by Robertson.

The men were arrested shortly after Mrs. Thurman's body was found in a mountain ditch near here. Both denied knowledge of the woman's death. At a preliminary hearing Robertson testified he had known her several years.

The state introduced evidence at the hearing to show that blood stains were found in an automobile owned by Robertson and sometimes driven by Stephenson.

POLITICS

Little G. O. P. Comfort Here in Maine Vote

—By MARK SHIELDS—

The results of Monday's election in Maine, a Democratic sweep including the election by the heretofore minority party of two out of three Congressmen, hold little comfort for Pennsylvania Republicans interested in the election of Congressmen of their faith.

Mr. Shields

Maine has been as orthodox in its Republicanism as this commonwealth. It has not had a Democrat in Congress for 18 years, a record of regularity even more pronounced than that of Pennsylvania. In the past two years it has not suffered as has this state in the depression, its proportion of unemployment has not been as great.

Therefore, if the voters are to decide on this issue, things look bad for Republicans in many districts of Pennsylvania. Subjoined to this is the fact that the party in this state is not unified, it has a diffused leadership, and candidates in many sections are fighting on the principle of self-preservation, without caring whether other candidates associated on the ticket are elected or not.

This is especially true of legislative candidates in some congressional districts. Republican aspirants to the General Assembly have in more than one district declined to associate their candidacies with sitting Congressmen seeking re-election. This is particularly true in districts where the Congressmen on their records in the last session had a difficult time deciding whether they were wet or dry, and tried to be both.

The presence of Vice President Curtis as the keynoter in the Pennsylvania campaign at Allentown next Saturday is not designed to help in doubtful districts. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Republican organization leaders have accepted Curtis, after protest, but have done so grudgingly, and with a feeling that once again the high command of the party has blundered. The Kansan's dryness is not a principle to arouse enthusiasm in many congressional districts of Pennsylvania.

* * *

Peculiar Things Transpiring Here

It is almost inconceivable that a Democrat might be elected to the United States Senate in this state, but peculiar things are transpiring in politics, and a better line on the potentialities of this situation will be secured after a jury in New York returns a verdict in the case of Senator James J. Davis, Republican candidate for re-election, involved in charges that he benefited from lotteries conducted by the Moose.

Gov. Pinchot in appointing his secretary P. S. Stahlnecker, and Dr. Clyde King, secretary of revenue, to the Public Service Commission, has given evidence that he considers the rate-making body the most important agency in state government at this time. Only upon that theory would he have transferred to the new places two men so important and capable in their former positions.

Stahlnecker has been the Governor's political aide in every campaign. In off seasons he has played the political game day and night, with a complete loyalty to his chief. He has managed each fight, whether for the Senate or the governorship. He has handled state patronage in the two Pinchot terms.

King in the first Pinchot administration was secretary of the commonwealth, in this, secretary of revenue. The latter position is of tremendous importance in view of the fiscal situation of the state, and that importance has only recently been magnified by the task of administering and interpreting the new sales tax.

There are political ramifications in the situation too embracing for short discussion. The outstanding conclusion is that the Governor wants speedy action on correction of alleged favoritism and coddling shown utilities. King and Stahlnecker are both workers, both given to pushing head at top speed on any task which confronts them. Both are accustomed to working long hours.

* * *

Confirmation of King, Stahlnecker Not Likely

A continuance of that devotion to duty lies upon both, for there is little doubt but whatever reforms the Governor wishes to institute through his own selections must be accomplished before January of 1935. There is an implied agreement within the organization majority of the Senate not to confirm any major appointment made by the Governor.

Unless there is a sudden change in strategy—and organization senators canvassed within the past two days say there is not—neither King, Stahlnecker, or George W. Woodruff or Frederick P. Gruenberg, previously named by Pinchot, will be confirmed by the Senate for the full length of the terms to which they have been appointed. They will pass out with the Governor in two and a half years.

Failure of the Governor to name a chairman at this time indicates the selection eventually will fall upon King. King now is in Kansas settling a milk strike, and to have named him chairman now would have retarded work of the commission. For a few more days Ray Shelby can parcel out the hearings.

Mark Shields will interview Lawrence H. F[illegible], Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, over WCAE at 6 o'clock.

BOARD TO NAME HEADS OF LOAN BANK SOON

Subscription Blanks to Be Mailed in Area Tomorrow

Selection of 11 directors for the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Home Loan Bank will be one of the immediate duties of the Home Loan Bank Board, of which William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, is a member.

The directors thus named will serve until January, after which nine of their successors will be elected by stockholders and two others again will be appointed by the board.

Subscription blanks will be sent out tomorrow to eligible building and loan associations, savings banks and insurance companies in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware. The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce is furnishing temporary headquarters for the local bank.

STOCK SUBSCRIPTIONS

Each eligible institution may subscribe for stock at the rate of 1 per cent of the aggregate of the unpaid principal of its home mortgage loans and not less than $1,500. The subscription may be paid in cash in a lump sum, or in quarterly installments.

The minimum capital for the Pittsburgh bank will be $12,500,000. It is expected to considerably exceed this, as the minimum subscription is not usually enough to provide the various institutions with sufficient borrowing power, the act providing that they may borrow 12 times the amount of their capital stock.

The loans may be made only on home mortgages which includes dwellings for not more than three families. The loan is limited to 40 per cent of the value of the real estate.

BONDS FOR PUBLIC SALE

To raise additional funds for the Home Loan Bank System it is planned to issue tax exempt debenture bonds which will be sold to the public. Each $100 bond will be based on $190 unpaid principle of home mortgages.

Best has returned to Washington. Other members of the board include Franklin W. Fort, of New Jersey; Nathan Adams, of Texas; Dr. John M. Gries, of Ohio, and Morton Bodfish, of Illinois.

The Allegheny County Chapter of the American Savings, Building and Loan Institute is celebrating its tenth anniversary today. The institute conducts night classes for the education in building and loan methods, and according to Hubbs Weimer, president of the local chapter, new and wider fields have been entered as the result of the new home loan bank.

SEEK TO REVISE SOUTH HILLS WATER RATES

P. S. C. Withholds Data On New Schedules Just Filed

The South Pittsburgh Water Company, serving approximately 40,000 customers in Pittsburgh's South Hills, has presented revised rates to the Public Service Commission, according to word from Harrisburg.

Commission members refused to comment on the report, or to discuss the nature of the rate changes offered.

Conferences looking toward rate reduction have been resumed, it was stated, under the supervision of B. Frank Morgal, chief of the commission's Bureau of Accounts. The company's books have been examined by the accounting and engineering bureaus of the commission.

The offering of new rates is said to be a voluntary action on the part of the water company following suggestions made by commissioners at informal conferences in July. The company has been serving one of the most rapidly growing territories in the Pittsburgh district and has steadily increased its net profits in the last six years.

Any substantial reduction in the South Pittsburgh Water Company rate will mean a considerable saving for the city, which is under agreement to pay to the water company the difference between the city water rate and the company's rate for the South Hills wards. Last year the total of this difference amounted to about $250,000.

Recently the company's rates and service have been objected to by a group of citizens of Mt. Lebanon, headed by George P. Kountz, who have threatened to build a municipally-operated water plant in the township.

One of the chief objections to the water company's rates heard from South Hills residents is the "ready-to-serve charge," which amounts to $2 a quarter on the ordinary home.

RECORDS FAIL TO JUSTIFY PAYMENTS

New System Proposed By Conick to Balk Treasury Looting

The County Treasury was systematically looted of $45,654 during the period from 1924 to 1932, according to a report made by Main & Co., auditors. Because there are no records to trace the losses, little can be done about them, it was believed today.

The report was submitted at the Commissioners' meeting yesterday by M. C. Conick, chief auditor. It said that by juggling of 1931 accounts for polling place rentals orders aggregating $6,729 not recorded in the Bureau of Elections, Commissioners' or Controller's office were paid. Every effort to locate orders to support the unaccounted for expenditures was made by the auditors and Controller Woodside, but no records could be found.

Examination of records from 1920 to 1932 showed, according to the report, that in 1920 and 1921 orders were on file supporting all payments.

Commencing in 1924, however, the amounts of the warrants issued to the Treasurer were substantially in excess of the amounts of orders on file. The amounts varied from $2,380 in 1924 to $7,617 in 1931. Since the first of this year there have been no payments unsupported by orders.

Conick recommends a change in the system of records to prevent recurrence of the systematic thievery. The report was referred to the Legal Department.

Conick also submitted reports yesterday on joint venture agreements, verification of accounts receivable and his audit of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board.

TAX COLLECTOR MUST PAY RENT

John Brown, delinquent tax collector, must pay rent or get out of the courthouse. The County Commissioners have ordered their "space engineer" to figure out what rent Brown should be charged, after Brown refused to pay for about $50 worth of books because they are county records.

When a letter from Brown was read at yesterday's commissioners' meeting stating that he would not pay for the books, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern said:

"The delinquent tax collector is an employe of the Treasurer, and he is not a good sport to make us pay for these books. It just recently came to light how this office draws more than $100,000 a year in fees. It is there by sufferance of the Commissioners and if he won't pay for the books I am in favor of charging him rent, and if he doesn't pay, put him out."

SIMPLE RITES FOR VICKERMAN

Simplicity will mark the funeral services tomorrow for John W. Vickerman, director of the county Department of Elections, former assemblyman and church leader, who died early Monday at his home, Clinton Place, Bellevue. There will be no honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearers will be Bellevue friends and associates.

The body will lie in state in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, of which he was a member, from 2:30 to 3 p. m. tomorrow. The services will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Dr. James M. Ferguson, pastor of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church; Dr. S. W. Corcoran, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Church Union of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Walter E. Myers, of Philadelphia, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association.

Silk Weavers Str'ke For Higher Wages

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Silk weavers estimated by union leaders to number 6,000, went on strike today in an effort to enforce demands for higher wages, shorter hours and recognition of their union by mill owners.

Two thousand other workers in the city's broad silk mills were forced into idleness by the strike, union leaders said.

MONACA PUPILS STAY ON STRIKE

MONACA, Pa., Sept. 14.—Striking students of Monaca High School carried on today by assembling in front of the school and, instead of entering when the last bell rang, paraded off with banners, drums and flags.

They reported "no deserters" from their ranks. Only a dozen lower classmen and a few more girls entered classrooms this morning, the strikers reported.

Leaders of the student strike had in their possession, today a petition signed by parents of 300 pupils, asking the school board to meet them and "talk things over" with a view to settling the strike called when the board suspended eight members of the football team for hazing activities.

The petition plan was adopted at a meeting last night at the instance of George McCreery, an alumnus, and the paper was promptly circulated.

Tunney Scores K. O. Over G. O. P. In Maine Voting

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Got to hand Gene Tunney credit for grabbing Maine by the ears and holding on until it went Democratic.

Gene just finished a campaign tour in that state. He hopped from stump to stump swinging both hands. There was no heckling. Anything the champion said was endorsed by the majority.

If you remember Gene's fights there were no smelling salts between rounds. There was no towel swinging or massaging. The boys just talked over Shakespeare and politics.

Then Gene would dash out and smack his opponent in the face with the contents of a public library. He used the same system in Maine which went Democratic for the first time in eighteen years.

There are some incorrigible Republicans who claim Gene's Maine audiences were impressed by his footwork and his shadow boxing.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 14.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

They found the flying family. They ought to have left the father out there a couple of more days, just to throw a scare into him for taking those children. See where some more took off for Rome, a nurse, with "million dollar legs." Over that ocean is one place where legs are no good to you, no matter what price.

Will Rogers

Who said being Secretary of War wasn't a hazardous business? Mr. Hoover drafted Pat Hurley to pinch hit for him, and face the American Legion, and try and get some Republican votes. Pat's speech sounded like the kingfish's over the radio. "Now remember we is all brothers in that great fraternity, De Mystic Knights of de Sea." Pat got away with his life. But no votes.

Yours,
WILL.

Football 'Lucky Bucks' Good at Duke Tilts

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has arranged with Duquesne University for the boys and girls of this city, who are under 16 years of age, to attend all the football games the Dukes will play at Forbes Field this year at practically no cost to them.

Starting tomorrow and again on Friday the Sun-Telegraph will print on each of these two days a special Duquesne football "Lucky Buck."

Now all you have to do is to clip the one which will appear tomorrow and the one which will be printed on Friday, take them to the special "Lucky Buck" ticket windows at Forbes Field Friday night and for these two "Lucky Bucks" and 10 cents you will receive a special admission ticket.

Remember, boys and girls, you must have the special "Lucky Bucks," which will be printed in Thursday's and Friday's Sun-Telegraph.

Birth Rate Here Lower, Statistics Reveal

Fewer babies have been born in Pittsburgh thus far this year than in any time in the last 20 years, according to records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Whether the depression has brought about the reduced activity of the stork is a matter for debate. The birth rate last year was 21.1 per 1,000 population and this year to date has not been compiled, but averages lower. In 1930, the birth rate was 22.3. In 1916, it was 29.7.

But if there are fewer persons coming into the world, there are also fewer going out. Figures prepared by Joseph F. Miller, statistician of the city bureau, show that the death rate this year to date is 12.7 per 1,000, compared with 14.1 in 1931 and 13.9 in 1930.

Hollywood Lures Beauty From North Side Home

MRS. BUNA WILHOIT KLEIN, 20.....SHE'S DISAPPEARED

The lure of Hollywood was held accountable today for the disappearance of Mrs. Buna Wilhoit Klein, 20, from her home at 121 Mendotta street, North Side, yesterday.

The award of a beauty prize to Mrs. Klein, then Miss Wilhoit, by a North Side theater, some time ago, is blamed for her longing glances toward Hollywood, and all that Hollywood means, since then. Yesterday, she left.

Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Wilhoit, of the same address, asked Missing Persons Bureau to locate her daughter. She described the missing girl as being five feet, two inches tall, weighing 105 pounds and having brown hair. The girl left this note:

"Dear Mother and Dad:
"I'm O. K. Don't worry. I'm going to work.
Buna."

Wife Dies Soon After Funeral for Husband

Mrs. John V. Woolslair, 65, died yesterday at her home, 6492 Frankstown avenue, from an attack of pneumonia aggravated by shock over her husband's death last Friday. Her husband's burial took place the morning of her death.

Funeral services for Mrs. Woolslair, who was a member of Christ Lutheran Church, Margaretta street, will be held Friday at Baker's East End Moratorium, Frankstown avenue. She leaves one son, Courtney, and four grandchildren.

COUNCIL VOTES $50,000 TO BUY SHOES

Notice that 430,000 yards of cotton cloth has been ordered for shipment to Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, has been received here, Mrs. Frances S. Reed, of the Red Cross, said today.

The cloth will be distributed to volunteer auxiliaries in churches and clubs of the district, to be made into garments for the needy, Mrs. Reed said.

While the relief situation stood unchanged in the county today, city school children and jobless were a step nearer having shoes for fall and winter.

The finance committee of City Council yesterday approved an ordinance appropriating for the shoes $50,000 of the $800,000 recently realized by the city through sale of relief bonds.

Meanwhile, the Welfare Fund issued a plea to contributors to the last Welfare Fund campaign, whose pledges are due and unpaid. About 6 per cent, or $300,000, is still due—enough, according to Executive Secretary Wilbur F. Maxwell, to more than pay the fund's current budget deficit, incurred through administering public relief funds for which administration money was not provided.

P. S. C. MAY GET NADINE TANGLE

The County Commissioners are taking a new tack in the solution of the Allegheny River boulevard tangle. At their meeting yesterday, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was named a committee of one to get the reorganized Public Service Commission to take some action.

It was on motion of Commissioner C. M. Barr that McGovern was made a "committee." Barr said:

"In view of the changes in the Public Service Commission I believe that Commissioner McGovern can do something in the boulevard matter. I would ask that members of the commission be asked to come here, make a survey and direct the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to move its tracks so that we can condemn enough land to get our right of way through."

Bus Company Would Quit Cambria Lines

Asserting it lost approximately $4,400 in bus operation in the region during the past year, the Pennsylvania Greyhound Transit Company today completed its application to abandon five lines in Cambria County, and filed it before Examiner Charles H. Young, of the Public Service Commission.

The affected routes are between Barnesboro and Emeigh Run; Ebensburg and Colver; Ebensburg and Revoloc; Carrolltown and Patton, and Carrolltown and Loretto.

Hollywood Plotter Threatens Countess

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Countess Rina De Liguoro, of Naples, Italy, concert pianist and European film star, reported to police she had received a note demanding $200,000 under threat of death to herself and her 12-year-old daughter, Regana.

The note was contrived of words clipped from newspapers, similar to several received some time ago by Marlene Dietrich and other Hollywood notables.

HOOVER DEFEAT FOR B. E. F. ROUT SEEN BY COX

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 14.—Father James R. Cox, Pittsburgh's campaigning priest, running for President on the Jobless ticket, resumed the political stump here last night. Today he was to speak in Council Bluffs, facing this city across the Missouri River. Tonight he will be in Kansas City, Kan., and tomorrow night he will speak in Topeka.

Father Cox's itinerary had called for his presence in Topeka today. But Gov. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee, is in that city today and the thought of Father Cox's presence at the same time horrified city officials.

TOO MUCH FOR TOPEKA

The Mayor, smiling, said:

"What, two presidential candidates in one day, and the state fair going on besides. That'd be too much for Topeka."

However, he extended a cordial invitation for Thursday night. The invitation was accepted.

In Omaha last night, Father Cox, speaking to over 1,000 persons in Jefferson Square, turned his blunt, outspoken barrage of words against President Hoover. He declared:

"Hoover will not be elected. His clanking sabers in Washington sounded the death knell to his political career.

"And Pat Hurley is trying to justify Hoover's actions."

NEBRASKA CONVENTION

Plans were discussed for holding a party state convention in Nebraska for the purpose of getting the Jobless ticket on the ballot in November. It was stated the convention will be held in two weeks, at a city to be determined later.

Several thousand persons were disappointed in Des Moines Monday night when Father Cox failed to appear at a meeting as advertised. Donald Perry, Pennsylvania attorney and national committeeman of the party, substituted for the nominee.

MINE SLAYING CASE NEAR END

Completion of testimony in the murder case against seven Moon Run men charged with slaying two strikebreakers five years ago, was expected to be completed today before Visiting Judge H. W. Hughes, of Washington County.

The defendants, Constable Thomas Drexler, Henry Drexler, Basil Petrolina, Newell Cumming, Nick Nosik, Stuart Obenauer and Paul Dugas, all offered alibis. The prosecution charged they had been at a drinking party until 5 a. m., September 7, 1927. The defendants said they had all left the party between 1 and 3 a. m., and were at their homes in bed at 5 a. m. Many character witnesses testified.

Joseph Vargo and James Thot were killed, it was charged by the commonwealth, after a gang of men had taken them for a ride in an automobile to the edge of town, where they were put out and shot. The defendants recently were arrested on complaint of a sister of one of the victims.

3 MIDGET PUPS PLAY IN VASE

Twelve ounces of dog are causing more or less excitement at the home of Mrs. J. G. Rossman, Library road. This despite the fact that there are a score or more bigger and livelier members of the Maltese breed on the place.

But there's no gainsaying the cuteness of the latest arrivals, three smug little fellows with long curly hair and the snout of very wise and elderly dogs. The total weight of the trio was exactly 12 ounces. Mrs. Rossman, who has been breeding Maltese dogs since 1914, declares they are the smallest she has ever seen. At full growth, she says, they will not tip the scales at more than two and one-half pounds each.

Mrs. Rossman is owner of both parents, Lady Sari of Arr is the mother. Their sire is Sir Keto. Grandparents of the litter on both sides are grand champions. Lady Cleo, one of this illustrious line, is the world's grand champion.

The pride of Arr kennels were six weeks old yesterday. They celebrated with an "outing" in Mrs. Rossman's best vase. Josephine Yanesh, manager of the kennels, took them for their first outing.

FIRED BY BOLT, BARN BURNS

The season's harvest, three cows, a mule and a dog, together with farm implements and an automobile were burned, causing loss estimated at $5,000.

Pleasant Valley and Park View volunteer firemen of O'Hara Township and the Sharps Hill firemen from Shaler Township fought the flames and kept them from the farm home. Hundreds of chickens were freed from a coop, which was destroyed.

DRIVE RUMORED TO COLLECT ON TRAFFIC TAGS

Traffic Court receipts for 1932 will not reach the estimate of $75,000 anticipated by Mayor Charles H. Kline, analysis of reports in the City Controller's office today indicated. To date, only $35,371.25 has been collected.

With only four months left of the year, it would be necessary to collect more than $39,000 to reach the estimated sum. This could not be accomplished, it is declared, unless a concerted effort were made to collect from the many motorists who have ignored tags. The fine for initial offenses is $1.

It was reported at the City Hall yesterday the Mayor had ordered Traffic Magistrate Scott Morgan to "do all in his power" to force collections to meet the anticipated deficit. The Mayor was said to be "too busy" to discuss it.

OBITUARY

Grise Funeral.

Funeral services for James Oliver Grise, veteran Pittsburgh hotel man, who died in his rooms at the Grise Hotel, Eleventh street, yesterday, will be held in the E. J. Pfeifer funeral home, 512 Grant avenue, Millvale, tonight. The services will be under auspices of the Elks' Lodge. Other services will be held tomorrow night. Interment will be in Deer Creek Cemetery. Mr. Grise was born in Petersburg, O., and came to Pittsburgh 35 years ago. For many years he had been in the hotel business and was widely known as a horseman. He was a member of Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. Elks; Stuckrath Lodge No. 430, F. & A. M.; the Schenley Matinee Club and the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Petersburg. Besides his widow he leaves his father, Albert C. Grise, of Petersburg, and two brothers, George P. and Thomas E. Grise, both of Pittsburgh.

Donaldson Funeral.

GAINS REPORTED BY FOUNDRYMEN

Increased foundry orders indicate an upward trend in business conditions according to reports made by industry leaders from throughout the country at a regional meeting of the Steel Founders' Society of America today at the William Penn Hotel.

Exhaustion of supplies was the primary reason advanced for the increased orders. The majority gains were reported as coming this month.

The sessions were establishing sound policies in competition. The president, Arthur Simonson, vice president in charge of sales, Falk Corporation, Milwaukee, warned that price-cutting in the wild scramble to obtain business at any cost had been the most damaging injury to the industry. The policy was expected to be dropped through concerted action and cooperation.

Banquet to Be Given Tonight, Sessions End Tomorrow

Members of the Knights of the Mystic Chain and the women's auxiliary, the Degree of Naomi, are holding the second day of their three-day convention at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, with a business session this morning and memorial services by the grand assembly this afternoon. A banquet and dance will be held in the ballroom tonight.

The convention will close tomorrow following business sessions, which are to be held both in the morning and the afternoon. John H. Rhodes is the general chairman in charge of the convention. Chairmen of the various committees are J. P. Graff, J. A. Kaltenbach, F. F. Cahill, E. R. Stetler, I. Edge, D. J. Pickworth, J. Weinman and Mrs. Mary Dillie.

Third Pottery Plant Puts Men to Work

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 14.—The Homer Laughlin China Company today recalled 400 employes at its No. 8 plant at Newell, W. Va., idle since June 1.

The Laughlin plant is the third in the East Liverpool pottery district to increase production since August 15. Previously, Taylor, Smith and Taylor Company, at Chester, W. Va., and the Edwin M. Knowles China Company, at Newell, called workers back to their jobs.

Cashier Posts Bond In Bank Shortage

Thomas N. Robinson, cashier of the closed Citizens National Bank, of Indiana, Pa., posted $10,000 bond for a hearing before United States Commissioner Ray P. Smith, of Johnstown, on a charge of misapplying $14,280 of the bank's funds, according to Deputy United States Marshal D. A. Goldman, who arrested Robinson yesterday. The bank failed to open Monday.

Deasy Sees Better Times for Railroads

John F. Deasy, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in a radio address over Station KDKA last night, declared the railroads of the United States are emerging from the depression. The necessity for economy, he said, has enabled the roads to eliminate unnecessary practices which could not have been so quickly recognized in prosperous times. Railroads are prepared to meet at once a revival of industry, he concluded.

Trying Second Man In Murder of Girl

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—The state today is presenting testimony to support the claim of District Attorney James W. Hawkins that Arleigh Tennant, on trial charged with slaying Miss Mary Temple, stood in the kitchen of the Temple home to block Miss Temple's escape when she was fatally shot by James Barnhart last April. Barnhart was convicted of second degree murder on Monday.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Some families are hurrying home to get their children ready for school. And all those members of the school set are in a flurry of buying and shopping and planning. Even if school does mean work, it's a change, and there's lots of fun mixed in with French verb troubles.

Mrs. Julian Burdick and her daughter, Martha, are expected home this week end from Nantucket. And shortly Martha will return to school.

Evelyn Freeman, the John W. Freeman's attractive young daughter, will go to the French School in New York this winter. She won't leave until early next month.

Betty Cappeau, older daughter of the John W. Cappeaus, of Sewickley, who has been swimming and golfing and playing tennis all summer, will leave soon for Farmington, taking with her a most enviable sun tan. Her younger sister, Nancy, will study again at the Sewickley Academy.

Constance Hillman, daughter of the James Frazer Hillmans, of Shady avenue, will leave Monday for Dobbs Ferry, for the Misses Masters' School, of course.

Margaret Taylor will return to Dobbs, too. And so will Margaret Berger, older daughter of the George R. B. Bergers, of Fifth avenue. Her younger sister, Ann, will study at Winchester.

Mary Knox will be returning to Smith, and Polly Schoyer to Radcliffe.

Everyone's going to the polo game in Sewickley Saturday afternoon, to be given, you know, on the Y. M. C. A. field for the benefit of the Sewickley Valley needy.

Polo Game

I'm quite sure it's going to be one of the largest attended polo matches ever played around here. There'll be everyone in Sewickley there, and ever so many more from the East End and Fox Chapel, that home of Pittsburgh polo, will go down for the affair.

There are going to be boxes for the match, and for those who prefer the comfort of their own cars, there'll be parking spaces reserved.

Tonight there's going to be a meeting of the committee in charge in the Edgeworth Club.

I just don't have the space to enumerate the names in the list of boxholders. But I do want to add that more folks have called me to ask the hour of the game—it's 3:30 Saturday afternoon.

SILK FABRICS THAT RUSTLE BID FOR WINTER FASHION FAVOR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Taffeta, faille and other silk fabrics that rustle and swish may possibly be one of the big winter fashions. Practically all the big Rue de la Paix houses use one of the rustling silks in one form or another—as sash trimmings, with sash-ends that hang to the floor; as tailored suits to be worn as dresses; under autumn and winter coats; as petticoats under lace dresses; or as entire dresses themselves.

* * *

CHANEL IS one of the houses that favors taffeta petticoats. Under many of her lace and net dresses there are one, and sometimes two, of the stiff taffeta petticoats with unhemmed pinked edges that are reminders of fashions of the late nineties. Most of these frocks are white, but some are in black over white, or in brilliant reds, bright greens and pale blues.

* * *

MIRANDE MAKES a stunning evening ensemble with heavy silk faille as a basis. There is a dress of the faille, in dark rich wine red, and a tiny matching cape of the same red, in velvet, edged with fur.

* * *

THE DRESS is fashioned entirely of the faille, without one jot of contrasting material or color in its make-up. The blouse portion is fitted close to the figure, with a wide square decolletage at the front, and a deep V-shaped one at back. Designed to be worn either for dinner, the theater or for dancing, the bodice is cut in one with some elbow-length sleeves that are finished off at the elbows with big puffs of the fabric. The skirt is full and has a cartridge-plait decoration of the fabric at its hem.

* * *

Latest News of Activities in Busy Lives of Pittsburgh's Club Women

Women Named For Federation Positions

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Two interesting bits of State Federation news concern local clubwomen. Mrs. William Noble Zortman has accepted the chairmanship of the division of literature in the federation, taking the place of Miss Sophie Keenan, who has resigned. Mrs. Zortman is chairman of literature at the Congress of Clubs and has served that body as fine arts chairman. Her federation work will, of course, be under the fine arts department in which literature is a division.

The second bit of news is that Mrs. Richard B. Perry, is to be official timekeeper at the annual convention in Philadelphia next month. Mrs. Perry is the federation's recording secretary.

Present officers were re-elected yesterday by the Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union at its annual convention in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. At last night's session the Rev. Harold Ockenga described his trip to Palestine; Miss Virginia Sleppy spoke of the aims of the Young People's Branch; Stanley Fincke of the work of the Young People's Christian Union, and Miss Marie Price of the Christian Endeavor Society. Miss Mildred Brennan won the gold medal oratorical contest. Music was by Miss Alberta Humes and Miss Frances McCaslin.

Officers Renamed

Heads of departments were elected today, re-election taking place in most instances, and delegates were named to the state convention, which is to take place October 20 in York.

* * *

Mrs. Hubert W. Chapman, having resigned as president of the National Better Magazines Council, her place will be filled by the first vice president, Mrs. Harvey S. Fouse. Miss Jane Mercer has been elected corresponding secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. W. A. K. Clarke. The council held its first meeting yesterday in Kaufmann's.

* * *

Mrs. H. J. Fox, president of the Allegheny County Federation; Mrs. H. D. Stark, vice president of the first district of the county, and Mrs. R. E. Thompson, senior president, visited the Junior Woman's Club of Braddock on the occasion of its opening meeting last night. Mrs. T. W. Allman, of Hawkins avenue, was hostess. In addition to talks from the three visitors and greetings from their own president, Mrs. Edna Ruse, and their patroness, Mrs. George W. Martin, the members heard the first chapter of their original story, by Miss Mary Brindley.

Man About Town

Although it was vigorously denied dozens of columns ago, Sophie Tucker is unwinding from A. Lackey via the Chicago tri-bunals . . . The Kenneth McKennas (Kay Francis) are anticipating a blessed-adventure . . . When the final decree arrives melting Lily Pons from her aged mate—her next groom will be an ex-President of the Argentine Republic . . . Mickey Neilan is willing to testify that his late pal, Paul Bern, attempted hari-kari at least five times, and once from a plane near Salt Lake, if it will help stifle the "crucifying" of La Harlow . . . Richard Blythe, who helped exploit C. A. Lindbergh (before his Paris hurdle), and Loretta Turnbull will be riveted on Chris Columbus Day . . . Mortimer Schiff's little girl (the merger tag is Hall) is having it Renovated . . . The Jack Bakers of the J. P. Morgan staff are being divided . . . Their respective tribes are trying to reconcile the Vincent Astors (Helen Huntington).

To intimates Norma Talmadge relates that the Jessel matter is now strictly a business proposition, the Spark having curdled . . . Earl Hopping, the polo prince, and Lois Morgan are keeping in practice until Douglas Montgomery returns . . . M. H. Aylesworth and Roxy are tiffing—with the latter threatening to ankle out on his Radio City throne.

Irma Latham, Philly heiress, and M. Savage are that way . . . Walter Reade and Paramount will turn the New York roof where the "Follies" were born into a dance hall . . . J. Brooks Atkinson is now plain Brooks Atkinson on his Times' play reports . . . Hollywood's latest thrill is a new gaming casino controlled by nearby politicians—the password being "Texas"—until it appears here, that is . . . The two most amusing gals on the Riviera in the old country are Shiela and Eileen Hennessy (of 3 Star hiccup-juice, fame) . . . Joe Cook, the clown, and his hand-waving assistant, David Chasen, have parted . . . The Leigh (MGM) Jasons (Ruth Harriett Louise) are multiplying.

Francine Larrimore's new heart is one of the diamond-mine Joels . . . The McBride ticket brokerage-Postal deal on theater ticket "buys" has soured and they will clash . . . Connie Almy, known as the only gal ever to theft a man from La Joyce (Comstock) is now peddling actors for plays . . . Albert Strelow, one of the first Ford backers (he put up $5,000 cash, while many others gave notes or goods) died in Detroit last month unknown, unsung, untaxed . . . When the Ted Blacks are back in circulation he will be welded to Eleanor Lansford, Rudy Vallee's girl Friday. Madison Square Garden has called off its Radio Show . . . The Clement Woods (Gloria Goddard), who are nudism-mad, show photos of themselves peeled.

An orchid to Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas for sponsoring the Eva Tanguay Benefit due next month . . . A scallion to Lee Tracy in "Blessed Event" for pronouncing "phffft"—piffed . . . It is pronounced phffft . . . And orchid to Willie Howard of "Ballyhoo" for reviving his old vaudeville act (the hoke opera canarying), which convulses any observer for the entire six minutes . . . An orchid to Claude Rains for his impersonation of Frankenstein giving an impersonation of Dracula at the Broadhurst . . . And a whole corsage of them to "The Talk of the Town" editor for: "Economy of the Week—The army sent 10 bombing planes to New England to superintend the eclipse of the sun."

The Percy (Evepost) Winners (Faie Jarmel) had the seal shattered on Sept. 7. . . . The A. Shaynes (Cecele Clancy, former Patou model) who were blended only six months ago, are divorced already . . . Fred de Cordova, of RKO flickers, and Anita Page are uh-huh . . . Lucille Ballantine, the dancer, is seriously ill in a Winnetka, Ill., hosp . . . Ernst Lubitsch and Claire Adams are telling each other lies . . . Ditto Clarabelle Walsh on the Plahzah and Ernest Charles . . . The T. Diamonds of "Humpty-Dumpty" are babying . . . The Charles Sabin-Maybelle Swor dance team has split—Sedano filling the gap . . . Ed Wynn and Harry Richman are swapping nasty letters over Wynn's charge of gag-burglary . . . The most expensive cigar (65c) will soon sell 3 for $1.

The Bruce Powell divorce (first recorded here) has an added twist . . . Martin Osborn, the polo player, listed as Edna Swope Powell's next, won't be . . . Jeannette Bradley, premier danseuse for Rasch, is being groomed by MGM . . . Warwick Deeping's "Smith" will be the fall's biggest fiction tome . . . It's a girl over at the Egmont Ahrens (Camille Davied, editorial advisor for Arts & Decorations) . . . Tiffany Thayer, the novelist, is making his first real coin in Hollywood—$650 per . . . The stage hands will return to their 1929 wage scale—$75 for dep't heads—and music crews may now be shaved in size after the intitial four weeks . . . The N. V. A. will be a public hotel.

Anna Held, Jr., is plotting a suit against the F. Ziegfeld estate . . . Mildred Bailey, who got $300 per week from Whiteman, now rates $2,250 from Loew . . . Because too many hot-spots didn't pay off, the Musicians' Union's new ruling is that all cafes must furnish a bond to insure the week's wage . . . The No. 1 song smash is "We Just Couldn't Say Goodby," a natural sweep. It sold 100,000 copies in a month . . . The new price for all sheet music, incidentally, will be a shilling . . . The Meg Murrays (Mary Carroll of "Of Thee I Sing") who have parted, are inseparable . . . The William J. Ullmans (he is Harvard's famous 2nd Baseman) are being stork'd . . . Geo. Cassidy, who inherited the job from his pappy, gets $100 daily to start the races.

The Gene Bowen-Marian Young romance has faded . . . The Minskys dropped $37,500 at the Gaiety before shelving it . . . For the first time in 27 years Manhattan will witness Pain's fireworks spectacle, "Last Days of Pompeii," at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 27 . . . Hendrik Van Loon is the world's champion out-of-tune fiddler . . . Vicki Baum once played harp in European cafes . . . Gavin Gordon, Garbo's lead in "Romance," and Janet McCloud are patty-caking . . . The cab drivers parked near the Biltmore heckle couples with: "Taxi? No charge for ladies!"

THREE PLAY AND WORK

Estelle Taylor Returning To Films to Play Mother Role

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.

The vaudeville engagements are temporarily off for Estelle Taylor. Sam Rork has asked her to play Clara Bow's mother in "Call Her Savage."

To accept the role, she had to postpone the opening of her act in a San Francisco motion picture theater.

Oddly enough, the actress received five film offers on the day she signed at Fox. This, following a considerable period in which the producers seemed to have forgotten her.

Estelle Taylor

BOULEVARD TOPICS:

Within three weeks, Dolores Del Rio will announce her affiliation to another film company . . . Recovering rapidly from the shock of that automobile accident, Ruth Chatterton will start her picture at Warners in two weeks . . . Joan Blondell has moved into a big new house on top of one of Hollywood's highest hills . . . Hollywood is admiring the white sport jacket that Prince George of England gave to Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. He wears a long flowing scarf with it . . . They say now that Eddie Robinson is definitely out of "The Machine" and leaves immediately for a two months vacation in Europe . . . Tom Reed has a bet on with Junior Laemmle that he can learn German in a week. He's carrying an instructor across the country to help him win it . . . Anna Sten is the new occupant of the studio bungalow once used by Ina Claire at United Artists . . . Ann Harding has been out dancing at the Roosevelt again with Bramwell Fletcher . . . They do say that Katherine Hepburn has but three manicures in her whole life . . . Leonard Spiegelgass, head of the Fox story department, is heading for New York to look over the new plays.

Dolores Del Rio

Another old favorite now headed for the screen is the Henry Blossom play "Checkers," which Fox will produce—probably as a vehicle for James Dunne and Spencer Tracy.

The job of modernizing the script has been turned over to Allen Rivkin and P. J. Wolfson. Sidney Fanfield will direct.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Unless one happens to be a Barrymore a person who chooses the stage for a career early in life usually has to hang around on the fringe of the theater waiting to be "discovered." You know, like David Belasco discovered Lenore Ulric and some others. So it happened to Lou Holtz, principal comedian in "Humpty Dumpty," Nixon attraction. And Lou certainly had good luck in his discoverer, for she was none one else but Elsie Janis. She found him singing in a road house on the beach at San Francisco and brought him East as a member of the Elsie Janis Trio, part of the act of the then popular comedienne and mimic. His "O Sole Mio" parody, with guitar accompaniment played by himself, which was to become sort of a trade-mark with him, was born of the circus, for he spent a summer under the big top as a black-face clown. For three years he was with George White's "Scandals," and he spent two seasons with "The Dancing Girl." Besides circus, vaudeville and revue experience, he has had his first fling at straight comedy, first in "The Patsy," on the Pacific Coast, and then in "Stylish Stouts," on Broadway, in which Lou believes he gave his best performance to date. For an entire season on Broadway he was the star of his own musical show, "You Said It."

* * *

Ralph Morgan, who spent a season here as leading man in stock, and is just coming into prominence as a screen actor, having been selected to act with the Barrymores in "Rasputin," says he will remain in Hollywood not more than a year longer before seeking to renew his contact with the stage. He believes it will be for his own good, and that such a course would benefit every actor in films.

"If I were a producer," he said, "I'd insist that every person under contract to me leave Hollywood now and then to freshen up his viewpoint. A lot of stars would last longer if they made their screen appearances less frequently."

* * *

William Deamrest, vaudeville and musical comedy star, made a fall down a flight of 35 steps, the longest ever made before a camera, for a short screen comedy being made in a Brooklyn studio. Many a former Davis vaudeville patron remembers Will's comedy attempts to do a head-spring two or three times during his act, landing heavily on his back each time. Very funny, but kinda jarring to the spine, one would think.

Mary Forbes Signs For New Film

Romance

Calamity

Foreign Talkie Films Booked by Cinema

The Avenue Cinema, now opening its 1932-33 season, has arranged to play foreign pictures of German, French, Russian and Italian dialogue. The greater part of its pictures will have English sub-titles so that you may understand them. Some of the pictures to be played soon will be: "Diary of a Revolutionist," "Das Lied Ist Aus," "Life of Dostoievski," "Two Hearts in Waltz Time," (return engagement); "The Sniper," "Trapeze."

French, Polish and Hungarian language versions of some popular American pictures also will be shown.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Eternal Gratitude

ABOUT a year ago, a man walked into my office and sat himself beside my desk.

"Mr. Hellinger," he said, "I want you to help me out."

I sighed. Another mug who wanted to be helped out.

"Mister," I replied wearly, "I am probably the worst helper-outer in all America. Regardless of your story, I'm afraid there's nothing I can possibly do for you."

He crossed his legs and lit a cigaret. He was evidently fixing himself for a long stay.

"I'm not going to take that for an answer," he went on. "I want to tell you my story, and I can see that this is the one opportunity I am going to have. I'll make it brief, and I'll keep to the point. Will you listen?"

I shifted uncomfortably.

"Go ahead. But please keep it short, will you? I've got a column to bat out for tonight."

"Okay," said my visitor. He hesitated for a moment. Then—

"Mr. Hellinger," he asserted, "I am an ex-convict. You've written many, many times about the difficulties an ex-convict must face when he tries to get a job. That, in short, is my position."

"I'm sorry," I said, "but you're not the only——"

"Please," he interrupted, "please let me finish. I know just what you were going to say. You were going to tell me that you see any number of ex-convicts—and that they all tell you the same story. You were also going to tell me that you cannot possibly help all of them.

"I appreciate that fact, and I know you'd like to be able to do more than you can. But I want you to understand that my case is not exactly like the rest.

"You see, Mr. Hellinger, my crime was of the pettiest nature. Three years ago, I was a normal kid who lived on the West Side. I had a wife who had married me two years before and we had a kid a year old that I was crazy about. I held a job that paid me 45 every week, and we were a pretty happy combination.

"Knowing life as you do, you'll understand that the thing that happened to me could have happened to anyone. It came about through a drinking party that started as harmlessly as you can imagine. They all do, I suppose.

"Im not a good drinker, sir. Never was and never will be. Two or three drinks and I grow sleepy. Four or five drinks, and I forget who a am or what I'm doing. I've known that about myself ever since I was a kid. And I've always tried to stop as soon as I grow sleepy.

"Well, on this particular night I didn't stop. I have no recollection of the night in question because my memory became a complete blank after the fourth drink I had. All I know is that I woke up in jail the following morning with the worst hangover in all history. Do I bore you so far?"

I shook my head.

"You don't bore me," I replied, "but you're telling me nothing unusual. Those things happen every day in the week."

He smiled.

"Perhaps they do," he returned, "but I never realized quite what it meant until that morning. When they propped me up in magistrate's court and I listened to a recital of what I had done, almost died of mortification.

"It seems I wandered from the party and held up a taxi driver with a toy pistol. I took the trifling sum of $3 from him and then staggered away. That alone wouldn't have been so bad. But when a couple of policemen caught up with me I evidently started an argument with them and they fixed me for fair.

"I swear to you, Mr. Hellinger, I can think of nothing that induced me to do such a stupid thing. My record was absolutely clean and I had never been in trouble before. When my trial came up my wife and baby were in court—and I tried to explain matters exactly as I have explained them to you here.

"It did me no good. I had no influence and I had no important friends. I was given two years in jail for the variety of offenses, and the judge read me a lecture that should have gone down in history. He told me that I was a desperate character and that if it hadn't been for my wife and baby he would have given me a heavier sentence.

"That's the story, sir, and I swear to it from top to bottom. I served my time—and when I became an ex-convict, I found myself unable to connect with a job of any kind. I haven't touched a drop of liquor since that brutal night and I never expect to again.

"I'm not a complete dummy, Mr. Hellinger, as you can see for yourself. I ask you and I plead with you to help me. My family needs food and I'm willing to work my fingers to the bone to get it for them. Is there some little something that you can do?'

Now, it so happens that the man's story struck a sympathetic chord in my heart. I've always felt sorry for humans who commit crimes while drunk because I know that in nine out of ten cases they are not responsible for their actions. More, this fellow did seem genuine—and he was fairly intelligent.

To make a long story a little more bearable, I did help him. By a fortunate break, a friend phoned me the following day and asked me if I could recommend someone for a certain position. I sent the ex-convict over to see my friend. And he landed a job at $35 a week.

His gratitude was a thing of beauty.

"Mr. Hellinger," he said, "as long as I live, I will never forget your kindness. I owe you a debt of eternal gratitude. There's no way I can repay you except one—and that is by giving you a story every now and then. I'm going to dig and dig and dig, and when I think I have two good ones I'm going to give them to you. Will you accept them?"

"Will I accept them?" I repeated. "My charming friend, if you can get me two good stories we'll not only be even—but I'll owe you a debt of eternal gratitude."

I thought that was the end of that, but I was mistaken. About two months ago, the man in question sent me two stories.

"I have sat up many nights to finish these," said the note, "but that makes little difference. As long as I display my gratitude, I'm satisfied. I only hope you like them."

Did I like them? I read them over, and I was amazed. They were two absolute honeys. Perfect in plot, and grand in development. After finishing them, I had a sneaking suspicion that I should have been the ex-convict and he the columnist.

After the necessary changes, I used the two columns that had been sent me. I felt certain that I had dug up a new genius. And then, after the second column appeared, I discovered a slight coincidence.

Both of the stories had been written by Octavus Roy Cohen, and had appeared in "Cameos," an Appleton book that was published in 1931 . . .

Vines' Tennis In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Ellsworth Vines' sensational defeat of Henri Cochet, French star in the National singles tennis championship, is pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. More than 15,000 fans packed the big arena at Forest Hills, N. Y., to cheer the lanky California boy on to victory. All of the exciting plays are shown, including the final stroke by Vines, which takes Cochet so unawares that he makes no attempt to reach the ball. In a modest talk Vines declares himself surprised at having won the match. There is a graphic description of the contest by the Globe Trotter. Hearst Metrotone News is being shown in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

In sight and sound the Army and Navy football squads are pictured as they prepare to resume their ancient feud. There are also scenes of the last battle between the two teams in which West Point came out victorious. The Navy is determined to avenge this defeat.

MARINE DISASTER SHOWN

One of the worst marine disasters in the history of New York was that in which 40 men met their deaths when the steamer Observation blew up. Boats are shown grappling in the East River for bodies and divers are pictured descending to the bottom to search for the wreck. Survivors tell their stories.

The greatest of all rodeos, that held in Pendleton, Ore., was attended by a great throng including several hundred Indians in full regalia. Probably the most thrilling and daring riding, and attempts at riding ever made, are shown.

FAIRS OPEN

State fairs are in full blast and not least of the attractions to compete with fat hogs and gigantic pumpkins, are the "stunters." At the Maine State Fair at Lewiston, De Forrest Dickinson is fired from a cannon attached to a balloon 3,000 feet into the air. He comes down to earth on a parachute.

Quaintly dressed children in Bavaria sing folk songs as they start back to school for the new term.

A picturesque and exciting bicycle race comes from Rome, where riders from several counties dash along roads past beautiful castles. In a close finish Alfredo Binda, of Italy, wins.

Gossips

'Evenings for Sale' To Be Movie

"Evenings for Sale," film version of the novel by I. A. R. Wylie, is to go into production at the Paramount Hollywood studios within a few days. The story will combine romantic background with modern American business methods. The cast will be headed by Sari Maritza, Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland and George Barbier. Announcement will be made in a few days of the actor to be selected to play the role of the young officer around whom the story revolves.

Does World Move? Ask DeMille

Does the world really move after all? When Cecil B. DeMille set to work costuming players for "The Sign of the Cross," he found that red-tinted fingernails, curled hair, backless gowns and high-heeled sandles were the fashion in 64 A. D.—and today!

Cantor Falls In Love

Eddie Cantor is in love. Cantor not only admits it but has written all about it in an article, "Hollywood, I Love You," which appears in the October Cosmopolitan.

"I love Hollywood," he says, coming straight to the point, "the land of sunshine, where they shoot all the pictures by electric light; where fruit markets are opened by brass bands and closed by the sheriff; Hollywood, where they have tonsil hospitals for dogs who want to go in the talkies, and where the Pollytechnique Institute is a place for training parrots."

One of the charms of Hollywood that so captivates Cantor is the fine weather that Californians have been known to speak about.

"The climate in Hollywood is an even, mean hundred degrees in the shade, except in the summer," boosts the Cantor. "It is particularly soothing for authors, so that many of them live to be as old as their jokes."

Steel Movie Film On Market

A Berlin concern has a representative in New York showing samples of a new motion picture film made of steel. It is claimed to be just as thin as the regulation stock, just as pliable, unbreakable, can't ignite, can't jam up in the projector and can't be worn out. If it lives up to specifications motion pictures may be come as permanent historically as the pyramids of Egypt.

Leila Hyams Champ Fisherwoman

Beginnings of The Stars

Their first successes on the screen are far different from the modern work that brings fame to film celebrities.

For instance, Wallace Beery started his film career playing a comedy Swedish servant girl—and today is one of the most famous character stars of the talkies.

The history of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star does not differ, except in detail, from many others now identified with certain lines of work. For instance, John Miljan, premier "heavy" of pictures, started as a romantic lover on the stage. And Clark Gable, more or less romantic on the screen now, got his first "break" as a "heavy," following his stage performance as "Killer Mears" in "The Last Mile."

AUDIT NOTICE

All parties interested are hereby notified that an audit list will be made up of all the foregoing accounts and said list will be called on Monday, the 17th day of October, A. D. 1932, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and continue thereafter each day (Saturdays and Sundays excepted) until the list shall have been disposed of.

JOSEPH N. MAC[illegible]LL,

A BRIEF WORD FROM TOMMY

"More!"

That's Tommy's response to the flavor of Heinz Rice Flakes. You can't blame him! Deliciousness, crisp, nut-brown crunchiness is just crammed into this fluffy, flavory breakfast food. Have a bowlful with cream tomorrow morning—you won't stop until you have another!

LONGER WORDS FROM MOTHER

"Regulates Naturally!"

A gentle, healthful, natural regulative effect! That's what Mother finds for the children—and for herself, too—in these delicious Heinz Rice Flakes. They contain cereal cellulose added by the exclusive Heinz process—no other cereal offers this same added benefit. And it helps to keep you well!

HEINZ RICE FLAKES

DELICIOUS . . . AND THEY KEEP YOU REGULAR!

BUCS, BRAVES CLASH AGAIN

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Good Job by McCarthy. Mack Aids Peckingpaugh.
Park Gives Bruins Edge. Harman Looking Ahead.
Visiting Batters Kick. Egan Durable Golfer.

YANKS ON LIST OF 100-GAME WINNERS

THOUGH JOE M'CARTHY inherited the major portion of the club that has just clinched the American League pennant, the Yankee manager must be given a world of credit for the part he played in the victory. He supplied the difference between a trailer and a flag winner. McCarthy added Ruffing to the pitching staff, developed Gomez and Allen, turned Chapman from an infielder into an outfielder, picked Sewell off the scrap pile, brought Lazzeri back to life, and accomplished the difficult feat of winning a pennant without having a regular or settled shortstop. Joe's skillful managership was by no means the least factor in the Yankee triumph, the fourth for that club in the last seven years and the seventh in 12 seasons.

Joe McCarthy

New York is the twenty-third club in the majors, and the sixth straight in the American, to win 100 or more games in a season to capture a pennant. The National League has had 12 such clubs and the American 11. The Cubs of 1906 set the all-time high mark with 116 victories, and the American League record is 110, set by the Yankees of 1927. Pittsburgh won 103 in 1902 and 110 in 1909. McCarthy is the eleventh manager to pilot one or more 100-game winners. The others were Frank Selee, Fred Clarke, John McGraw, Frank Chance and Gabby Street in the National, and Connie Mack, Jake Stahl, Bill Carrigan, Clarence Rowland and Miller Huggins in the American.

THE FACT THAT the four-game series between the Pirates and Cubs next week is to be played in Chicago is figured by many baseball men to put the Buccaneers at a disadvantage, just as it is expected to handicap the Yankees in that portion of the world series if the Bruins win the National League pennant.

The peculiar layout of Wrigley Field is what has long made the Cubs so hard to beat at home. So far this year they have won 51 games there while losing only 26. The secret, as is well known, is a strip of bleacher seats in left-center field, holding about 2,000 persons.

CHICAGO PITCHERS ARE chosen on the basis of their styles. All except Jakie May, who does only relief work, are side-arm right-handers, who throw the ball out of those bleacher seats, white and dazzling in the sunshine when the fans remove their coats.

A left-hand hitter hasn't much of a chance. He doesn't get a good view of the ball as it leaves the side-armer's hand and comes out of the glare. Chuck Klein made only two hits in 11 games there this season. The Cub attack is tailored to take advantage of the conditions. Manager Grimm is the only regular who bats left-handed.

OTHER CLUBS CAN'T afford to build pitching staffs of side-arm right-handers just for 11 games a year in Chicago. The Cubs can, because they play 77 games there. Meanwhile their right-hand hitters there have an edge on opposing southpaw pitchers and overhand right-handers. Visiting batters have complained more than ever this year, and some of them think the situation calls for action by the National League to force a change in the layout. One is Lefty O'Doul, leading hitter of the league. "On bright days," O'Doul says, "I'm actually afraid to go to bat at Wrigley Field. Two or three times in an afternoon a ball will be thrown that I'll lose sight of entirely. About all I can do is pray for a Mexican stand-off. I'm lucky even when I'm put out if I save my life."

Roger Peckinpaugh

IF ROGER PECKINPAUGH is retained as manager of the Cleveland club for next year in spite of his differences with Wesley Ferrell, star pitcher, he may owe it largely to the kindly offices of Connie Mack.

Invited to speak at a Rotary luncheon while the A's were in Cleveland recently, Mack seized the opportunity to put Peckinpaugh in right with his fellow townsmen and to win public support for him by devoting his talk almost entirely to boosting the pilot of the Indians.

CONNIE PRAISED PECKINPAUGH'S strategy, complimented him for keeping the Cleveland club in the first division of the American League for four consecutive seasons, and let it be known that he thought it would be a mistake for the Indians to change managers.

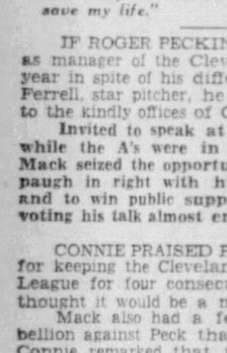
Mack also had a few words to say about Pitcher Ferrell's rebellion against Peck that led to a 10-day suspension for the hurler. Connie remarked that no individual player can set himself up as being bigger than his manager, the club or baseball.

A COACH THAT looks ahead is Harvey Harman, former Pitt line star, now in charge of gridiron affairs at Penn. Realizing that his freshman teams of today are his varsity elevents of tomorrow, Harman announces a coaching innovation at the Philadelphia school. Members of the varsity coaching staff will spend two days of each week with the first-year players. They will give individual and team instruction. Fundamentals of the game and the Warner system will be taught, and the freshmen will scrimmage with the varsity every Wednesday afternoon.

HARMAN SAYS THE yearlings will learn more football by being in constant touch with the varsity coaches and by the weekly scrimmage. "They'll get at least a smattering of what is expected of them when they report for the varsity," he said.

Alec Fox, former Pitt captain, will again tutor the Penn linemen. Poss Miller will have charge of the backs and the ball carrying. Si Pauxtis will take care of the ends and Paul Scull will devote his time to the backs, the punters and defensive backfield play. Kid Keinath will be chief scout. The other coaches will be assigned to scout foes with whose systems they are familiar. Pitt will be among Penn's opponents this year, being scheduled to appear in Philadelphia on November 5.

SPEAKING OF DURABLE sports figures, H. Chandler Egan stands out as a notable exhibit in the field of international cracks at Baltimore competing for the United States amateur golf championship.



H. Chandler Egan.

Golf may not be an old man's game, but when you look at Egan you're led to wonder how old they have to be before they cease to be good enough at the sport to vie with the best of this country, Great Britain and Canada for a major title.

THE LENGTH OF Egan's career as a championship contender may be judged from the fact that he won this very same crown twice in succession as far back as 1904 and 1905. At that time John McGraw was winning his first pennants with the Giants and Mathewson, McGinnity and Donlin were the toasts of New York; many of the present Pirates and other major league luminaries had not been born; Holcombe Ward and Beals Wright were the big shots in tennis; Jim Hogan and Tom Sheulin were making football history at Yale; Irish Lad, Africander, Hermes and The Picket dominated the turf; Jim Jeffries couldn't find any more heavyweights to beat; Bat Nelson and Jimmy Britt were claiming Joe Gans' lightweight title; Tommy Ryan, Joe Walcott, Abe Attell and Jimmy Walsh were among the other ring champions; Bob Fitzsimmons had just won the light-heavyweight crown; the first Jake Schaefer was 18.2 billiard champion and the champion motor boat was making 23 miles an hour. Yet Egan, at 48, is still good enough to land among 32 qualifiers out of a field of 154, with a score of 150, one stroke better than the mark of the defending champion, Francis Ouimet and only eight behind the medalist.

CHAMP BREAKS BOBBY JONES' RECORD

FIVE FARMS COURSE, BALTIMORE COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—With a record-smashing exhibition of golf, in which he shot the outgoing nine in 30 and covered 13 holes in six under par, Francis Ouimet, of Boston, the defending champion, today administered a spectacular drubbing to George J. Voigt, New York favorite, 6 and 5, in the first round of the United States amateur championship.

Ouimet led the way into the second round, scheduled this afternoon, with as great an exhibition of shot-making as the tournament has ever witnessed. His outgoing 30, five under par, brake Bobby Jones' former mark of 31, made in 1927 in the final. The Bostonian had six birdies and narrowly missed three others as he wielded a magic putter or laid iron shots "dead" to the pin. Voigt, only one over par himself for the 13 holes, was overwhelmed. The cards:

Par out	4	4	4	3	4	5	4	4	3—35
Ouimet out	3	4	3	2	4	4	3	4	3—30
Voigt out	4	3	5	3	4	5	4	4	3—35

Par in	4	4	4	3
Ouimet in	4	4	4	2
Voigt in	5	4	4	3

The complete summary of first round matches:

Jesse Guilford, Boston, defeated Eddie Held, St. Louis, 2 and 1.

John Fischer, Cincinnati, defeated W. and 2.

NO MAJOR UPSETS

There were no major upsets in the 16 first round matches as the field squared off for the second 18-hole round.

Next to Ouimet's dazzling exhibition, Charley Seaver, Stanford football star, gave the most impressive uerformance by negotiating the first nine in 32, three under par, and eliminating Johnny Robbins, of Portland, Ore., 6 and 4.

The last British threat passed from the picture when 19-year-old Charley Yates, Georgia state champion, in his first national tournament, took the measure of EXPLANATIONS OF YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY'S CARTOONS: THE EAR OF THE TYRANT DENYS—Denys the Tyrant, of Syracuse, became ruler of Sicily through violence and conspiracy in the Fourth Century B. C. Being in constant and morbid fear of assassination, he disgraced his rule by acts of unspeakable cruelty. The subterranean prisons of Latomie, near Syracuse, in Sicily, presently were filled with the King's prisoners. The prison was so constructed that the feeblest sound would echo from the ingeniously-fashioned vaults of the edifice. In the outer extremity of the prison the tyrant constructed an ear-shaped niche for a listening post. The acoustics of the niche were such that any sound coming from the casemates of the prison would be magnified in it 50 times. Denys thus was enabled to hear every word whispered by the unfortunate prisoners, and, acting upon the information so gathered, soon gained the reputation of omniscience. I visited the Ear of Denys during my trip to Syracuse last year. The acoustics of this sinister spot still are as effective as ever. A FEATHERED HONEY GUIDE—On observing a man, the Great Honey Guide of Africa will flutter forward until he is certain he has attracted human attention. The bird then will proceed in a certain direction, hopping from branch to branch, until it has pointed out the presence of a bees' nest. The bird, which feeds upon young bees, does this curious guiding for a selfish motive. After the honey is removed it attacks the young bees which have been exposed by human interference.

PAPALES PLAY OAKMONT

By TOM BIRKS

With the West Penn Independent Gridiron Conference season opening one week from Sunday, practically all of the managers are busy staging scrimmage practice so that the various coaches can get a line on the makeup of their teams.

Manager Johnny Logidice, of the East Liberty Papales, keen to make a showing in the West Penn, has booked the Oakmont Panthers for Sunday afternoon, and this battle will give Coach Wop Polits a chance to see just how the players have assimilated the signal practice.

Joe Morbito, Boots Klinzing, Vogal and Di Stout, probably will be the starting backfield for the East Liberty aggregation and the game will be played at the Washington Boulevard field. The kick-off will be at 2:30 p. m.

The J. Scott Morgan outfit, featuring members of the Lightweight Conference, will meet Export at the Homewood playgrounds on Saturday afternoon, and the Penn Highway boys should give Hooks Carroll's proteges quite a workout.

SPORT VIGNETTES

So what do you want from Abie Witz? . . . He's one of the leading wisecrackers and kibitzers in the fight game here and gives and takes a lot of kidding, but he has two of the best fighters in Pittsburgh in Battling Gizzy and Jimmy Thomas . . . Thomas showed a lot of class in beating Art Giroux, former bantamweight champion of Canada, all of the way in their 10-round windup at Hickey Park the other night and should go a long way if given the chance . . . Gi zy needs no introduction . . . When these two win, as trey generally do, it's not by a shade or two but by 10 city blocks . . . So what do you want from Abie Witz, the Canonsburg Canoneer?

The Lon Warneke-Lefty Gomez pitching duel, if the Cubs meet the Yankees in the world series, ought to be one of the high spots of the games . . . World series play is new stuff to both, but they're wows . . . A genuine gold cup is the trophy for the President's Cup regatta to be run in the Georgetown channel of the Potomac River at Washington Friday and Saturday . . . The event had its inception in 1926 with the then President, Calvin Coolidge, serving as sponsor . . . It is a civic proposition with the residents of the national capital.

Notre Dame will have to replace Yarr, Culver, Hoffman, Kozac and Mahony on the line and Schwartz, Cronin and Leahy in the backfield this fall, due to graduations . . . Not a single Pittsburgher appears on its squad, but Notre Dame plays two Pittsburgh teams, Pitt and Tech, in its nine-game schedule . . . Bill and Pete Rajkovich, quarterback and fullback, respectively, of the Detroit University team, both regulars, are cousins.

Henri Cochet, the French tennis star, took some dirty cracks at the sportsmanship of Americans following his defeat by Ellsworth Vines in the final round of the National singles tournament, kicking about the fact that he had to finish his semi-final round match the morning of the same day he met Vines . . . Granting that he had a complaint, how about the line decisions and the shoe-changing act of Jean Borotra in his Davis Cup match with Wilmer Allison, which permitted France to retain the International trophy in the challenge round in France? . . . No one on this side of the Atlantic put up much of a squawk about that, but there was plenty of criticism about it right in France.

Comes now to bat Lew Raymond, the all-round matchmaker, if you get what we mean, and the point is embonpoint, with a suggestion all his own about deciding bouts in which a boxer knocks an opponent dead to the world as the bell rings at the end of the final round . . . Instead of having the timekeeper ring the bell at the end of an extra minute rest period, to determine whether or not the floored boxer really was knocked out and could not continue, as proposed by Bunny Buntach, he suggests that at the end of the last round only the

STATE TOURNEY ON TODAY

The Pennsylvania State Golf Association is holding a one-day tournament at the Highland Country Club today. George Ormiston, who is running the tournament in the absence of Secretary George Flinn, expects to send a banner crowd of golfers from the initial tee.

Mrs. Margaret Curry, present woman's city golf champion, triumphed over Edith Clarke, 7 and 6, in the first round of match play in the annual Woschengo Club tournament over the Schenley Park links yesterday. Mrs. Eva Blair, another favorite, won from Mrs. Sam Whorton by default. Other scores:

Mrs. Frank Zwinggi defeated Mrs. Harry Evans, 1 up in 20 holes; Eleanor Moran defeated Mrs. M. B. Callahan, 2 and 1; Mrs. C. Long won by default from Mrs. Floyd Hadlee; Mrs. Carrie Josephson defeated Mrs. A. G. Wallerstedt, 4 and 3; Mrs. Harriet Masury defeated Mrs. Fred Friz, 3 and 2, and Mrs. T. H. Stephenson defeated Mrs. W. Helmert, 3 and 2.

Today's matches bring together Mrs. Curry vs. Mrs. Long, and Mrs. Zwinggi vs. Miss Moran in the upper bracket, and Mrs. Blair vs. Mrs. Josephson and Mrs. Masury vs. Mrs. Stephenson in the lower bracket.

Dr. T. E. Canon, posting a score of 70, won low gross honors at the final golf tournament of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution staged at the St. Clair Country Club yesterday. G. C. Hartman copped low net prize, with a 63 score. Col. Franklin Blackstone was second, with a 64. After the tourney, W. H. Cogswell, who finished second to Canon for the low gross prize, was presented a trophy for the two best low gross scores of the season. Other scores:

Dr. C. G. Hughes, 103-28—75; W. R. McCommon, 88-22—66; J. M. Russell, 102-28—74; Dr. H. H. Decker, 88-18—70; W. H. Friesel, Jr., 84-12—72; C. M. McKee, 91-18—73; N. R. Criss, 100-24—76; W. K. Askin, Jr., 101-20—81; Dr. K. M. Day, 86-20—66; Dr. H. H. Sargent, 88-16—72; Dr. J. D. Garvin, 103-22—81; R. M. Sherrard, 89-20—69; Col. W. H. Rogers, 110-26—84.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—As they prepared to take on the Braves this afternoon in the second game of the farewell series, the Pirates realized they had to make a lot of hay in the next week if they are to overtake the league-leading Cubs. The Pittsburgh fighters were blanked, 3-0, by Eddie Brandt at Braves Field yesterday.

The defeat coming as the Bruins were dividing a double-header with the Giants, netted the leader a half-game gain, so the Bears this morning were five and one-half games ahead of the Buccos.

CUBS PLAY 12 MORE

The Cubs have but 12 more games to play, while the Pirates have 13 unplayed. Should the Bruins win half of their dozen fights, the Pirates would have to cop 12 of their 13 games to tie with the pace-setters. The Buccos hold one advantage, provided they can cash in on it—they are slated to take on the leaders in four games next week in Chicago.

Larry French has had three days rest and probably will face the Braves this afternoon in the second game of the series. Manager Bill McKechnie is likely to call upon Southpaw Tom Zachary or Bobby Brown.

Brandt held the Buccos to six hits yesterday in wielding the whitewash brush. Leon Chagnon allowed but eight hits, but two of these were homers, the pair of roundtrippers giving the home team all of its runs.

The inability of Gus Suhr to solve Brandt for some kind of a good smash spoiled a promising start by the Buccos. Comorosky's double put runners on third and second with one out and Traynor was purposely passed by Boss McKechnie who wanted to bring Suhr up. The strategy looked fine when Brandt fanned Gus, Piet followed with a pop to Maranville.

URBANSKI HITS HOMER

The first five innings were runless as Chagnon held to the Brandt pace. But Urbanski broke the spell as he led off in the sixth with a homer into the bleachers. Vaughan tripled in the seventh with one out, but Padden could not bring him in.

Jordan nicked Leon for a single in the eighth, and Moore moved up his buddie with a sacrifice. Berger then swatted the ball into the leftfield bleachers to give his club two safety runs.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—It was very considerate of Judge Landis to call a meeting of all the possible pennant winners in New York. That permitted the Brooklyn management to attend by spending five cents carfare and a nickle is about all the Dodgers' world series chances are worth.

Nick Altrock

At those pre-world series meetings the moguls are supposed to study all possible angles of where the fall classic may be played, but last Friday if they studied anything but the train connections between New York and Chicago they were wasting their time. Anyway you will notice the other "possible" pennant winning clubs didn't send enough representatives to get in Judge Landis' hair.

PENNANT WON, YANKS TURN ATTENTION TO SERIES

CUBS, GIANTS SPLIT TWIN BILL

Associated Press.

Having salted away the American League pennant, the Yankees could sit back today and watch the progress of the race in the National and figure out what to buy with their share of the World Series receipts.

Joseph McCarthy's young men assured their participation in the well-known October classic with yesterday's 9-to-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. They can lose all their remaining 11 games if they feel so disposed and still finish a lap ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics.

YANKS WATCH CUBS

While there still is some semblance of a fight for the National League diadem, the Yankee secret service can feel pretty safe in centering its activities on the Chicago Cubs.

By dividing a double bill with the New York Giants yesterday, while Pittsburgh was being whitewashed by Ed Brandt, of Boston, the Cubs increased their lead to five and a half games, with 12 to play. A little rapid calculation reveals they need to win only eight to make Chicago's North Side supremely happy.

George Pipgras, veteran retainer, given the honor of pitching yesterday's climactic game for the Yanks, held the Indians to eight hits, while his mates piled up 16 blows off Clint Brown and George Connally.

CUBS, GIANTS SPLIT

The Cubs and Giants had a pair of grand tussles at the Polo Grounds, Chicago taking the first, 3 to 1, behind Charley Root's four-hit pitching, but dropping the nightcap, 3 to 2, as Hal Schumacher kept their 12 hits widely scattered for 11 innings. Successive blows by Gilbert English and Johnny Vergez finally beat Lon Warneke.

BOXING CARDS COMPLETE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Complete cards for tomorrow night's two professional boxing shows in the Pittsburgh district were announced today by Jules Beck, operating in the outdoors at Greenlee Field, and Jim McGirr, who opens the indoor campaign in his McKeesport arena.

Six bouts of six rounds each will make up the Greenlee Field program. Max Elling, of the Hill, and Joey Speigal, of Uniontown, will appear in a return engagement in the main event. The other bouts:

General Burr, Aliquippa, vs. Young Rudy, Charleroi.
Dan Billick, Duquesne, vs. Nat Litfin, Hill.
Al Van Gura, Swissvale, vs. Eddie Zivic, Lawrenceville.
Tony Constantino, Pittsburgh, vs. Freddie Jenkins, Philadelphia.
Peter Jahn, North Side, vs. Bobby Rowe, East End.

Billy Holt, Negro welterweight, of Homewood, boxes Harry (Kid) Wallace, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round windup in McKeesport. Sid Silas, of New York, meets Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, in the six-round semi-final, and three four-rounders will serve as preliminaries, as follows:

Mike Mitchell, Bellaire, O., vs. Andy Todd, Donora.
Young Lowstetter, McKeesport, vs. Elmer Kozak, Rankin.

Meanwhile the Hickey Park management announced today it will run four eight-round bouts as its final offering in Millvale next Monday night. Davy Grove will box Jacquette Elverillo in the windup, Anson Green will oppose Larry Madge, of Cleveland, and Louis Disantis, of Cleveland, will take on Don Asto in three of the events already arranged.

Between Rounds

Phil Zwick plans to make his home here under the management of Irish Kane. He has boxed Tommy Paul, Freddie Miller, Johnny Datto, Pete Nebo, Bud Taylor, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Chico Cisneros, Eddie Coel, Johnny Dunn, Jimmy Slavin and Eddie Reed, among others.

Young Saylor, Charleroi welterweight, will be seen in the role of a comeback here shortly. He reports he is in tiptop condition again and is besieging the matchmakers for action.

Promoter Eddie Kapphan and his matchmaker, Lew Raymond, will reveal their plans for the season at the new arena on the North Side at a dinner to be held tonight.

Roy Hatton will box Eddie Jados in one of the bouts on the amateur card under the auspices of the Charliers Council, Knights of Columbus, at the Crafton Athletic Field tonight. Other bouts: Al Martino vs. Felix Casciato, Pat Tarasi vs. F. Gallo, Jimmy Alvino vs. Whitey Schramm, Regis Golden vs. Joe Zeno, Richard Ambrose vs. Frank Herp and Bill Kenneran vs. Johnny Mucha.

Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland, boxes Paul Dazzo, of Chicago, in the eight-round semi-final to the Barney Ross-Frankie Petrolle bout in the Chicago Coliseum tomorrow night.

Pep O'Brien, veteran lightweight, formerly of Scranton, now of New Kensington, is out with a challenge to Battling Guzzy, Charley Baxter or any of the other leading lightweights. He has appeared in New Orleans, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and Maryland rings this year. Walter Kruze is managing him.

Dwyer Arrives For Hockey Confab

Bill Dwyer, owner of the New York Americans hockey team and financially interested in the Pittsburgh franchise of the National League, arrived in Pittsburgh today with his attorney, Ben Shalleck, to confer with Attorney James F. Callahan and James Egan on plans for resuming major league hockey at Duquese Garden during the coming season.

If the attempt to float the National League franchise fails, International League hockey probably will be promoted at the Garden by Art Rooney.

Scholastic Champs Prepare

LOU BEINHAUER, END . . . . TO BE A REGULAR THIS YEAR

After starring as a substitute end last fall, Beinhauer seems assured of a regular berth on the South Hills High School eleven this fall. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

JACKETS GET ROX STAR

By JULIUS LEVIN

Night football has deprived the Duquesne University eleven of the services of one of the most promising halfbacks in the district, Johnny Surdock, whose brilliant performances for the Miles Bryan High School team last season won him a place on the all-W. P. I. A. L. team chosen by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, has decided to cast his lot with Waynesburg College rather than impair his eyesight under the floodlights at Forbes Field as a member of the Bluffites. Surdock has been having trouble with his eyes for some time and his decision to refrain from the nocturnal sport has cost the Bluffites a stellar halfback.

Johnny Surdock

Surdock was one of the outstanding backfield aces in the district last season, his all-round playing for the Miles Bryan eleven being a factor in the excellent showing made by the McHenry-coached machine. He ran wild against all opponents.

Buff Donnelli, freshman coach at Duquesne University, watched the youngster in action in several of McKees Rocks' important games and stamped him as the best halfback he had seen all year. Surdock is a triple-threat star who can punt, carry the ball and direct a team flawlessly. He should prove a valuable man at Waynesburg.

Gus Janecek, who performed at fullback for Miles Bryan High, has entered Catawba College, where Coach Charley Moran, former mentor at Centre College, and well-known National League umpire, holds forth.

School Notes

With only two lettermen back from last year, Coach McHenry, of Miles Bryan High, has a real job on his hands this fall. Carl Vogel at center and Steve Janik at quarterback are the two veterans back. W. E. Bush, of Indiana Teachers College, is assisting McHenry. The squad has been cut from 50 to 30 members.

Not disheartened by their defeat suffered at the hands of Scott High, Coach Everhart's Uniontown gridders are hard at work preparing for the battle with Fayette City at Uniontown next Saturday. Fayette City was champion of Fayette County last season.

The Beaver Valley scholastic campaign will get under way Saturday afternoon when Leetsdale and Freedom clash at Freedom. Monaca and Ambridge were scheduled to battle the same day, but the contest was called off due to the strike of students at Monaca.

Alured (Slim) Ransom, former Geneva College star, has succeeded Bill Cox, now at Washington High, as coach at McDonald. Ransom will build his team around Bill Malarkey, who is a certain bet to land the quarterback berth. Two good ends must be developed. More than 50 candidates answered the first call for material.

Joe Kostolansky, star end of last year's Charleroi High Cougars, has entered Duquesne University. Besides playing end on the football team, Kostolansky stands out as one of the best basketball centers developed in Western Pennsylvania scholastic circles.

count be continued . . . If the man on the floor can get up before the toll of 10, he is not knocked out; if he sleeps on, he is . . . Of course, the rules of the game would have to be changed to permit of this revolutionary departure.

Back in the good old days of prosperity, when we could afford it, we had appendicitis and gloried in our operations . . . But you know the panic is on when Babe Ruth and Johnny Luch, the Pitt fullback, are down to mere old-fashioned stomach aches.—HARRY KECK.

DiPiero and Antoon Lost to Dukes' Team

Maroon, it was said, is out of playing condition, while Di Piero suffered a leg injury while boxing as an amateur and aggravated it in football practice.

Loebs to Coach State Freshman Five

Gilbert F. Loebs, who formerly coached the basketball teams at Thiel College in 1926, '27 and '28, and at the Sarah Heinz House on the North Side, has been added to the coaching staff at Penn State.

Loebs will have charge of the State freshman team and head coach of the school's lacrosse squad. At present he is assisting Bob Higgins with the varsity football team.

FINAL GAME TONIGHT

The Homewood-Brushton Cardinals and the Mt. Lebanon nine meet this evening in the final game of the post-season series of the Central Pittsburgh League at Aspinwall, a neutral field.

DUKES TO WORK UNDER LIGHTS TONIGHT

The Duquesne Night Riders, with their steeds all pepped up to go places in the football world this year, will receive their first workout of the season under the lights tonight, when Head Coach Elmer Layden takes his charges to Forbes Field, where he will run them through signal drills, and touch up the weak spots for the opening game with Westminster, Friday night.

This, however, does not mean the elimination of this afternoon's session, for Layden figures the boys still need a scrimmage or two to round the defects in their form. Today's drill on the Bluff campus finds Layden using a few sophomores in the probable starting lineup in an effort to secure capable substitution material.

McDONALD MAY START

Jim McDonald, crack freshman halfback of last year, may get an opportunity to break into the varsity lineup in Al DeLuca's place. DeLuca, so far, has not showed his usual form, while McDonald's work has been very pleasing. The line also is in for a few special workouts, according to Joe Bach, who heads that department.

Prices, to meet the times, are placed on the tickets for all Duquesne games this year. The scale ranges from 25 cents to $2.20. Ducats also can be had for 85 cents, $1.10 and $1.65 at all regular agencies.

Football experience has begun to show up in Carnegie Tech's training camp, now that the squad has completed its first few days of preliminary work, and the hard tug and pull of scrimmages and close order line work is being indulged in. Such boys as Tom Coulter, track star, and Jim Fergus, basketball ace, who have speed, ball handling ability and smartness in their favor, but lack the polish that only comes with seasons of play, have passed temporarily out of the picture, while the old reliables are having their days.

Polo Stars Clash At New Kensington

Two ranking polo teams of the Pittsburgh district clash tonight at New Kensington for the benefit of the New Kensington American Legion Post No. 347.

An added feature will be an exhibition drill by the post's drum and bugle corps.

Pitt to Admit Children for Dime

Announcement was made by the University of Pittsburgh athletic department today that children would be admitted to football games at the Stadium again this fall for 10 cents. The number of such admissions will be limited only for the major games.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts, Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus, Crafton Athletic Field
Kid Chocolate vs. Roger Bernard (nontitle), 10 rounds, Montreal.
Cecil Payne vs. Maxie Kushover, 10 rounds, Cincinnati.

Fight Results

At Winnipeg, Man.—Frankie Battaglia knocked out Tiger (Boy) Williams, 3 rounds.
At Los Angeles—Tom Patrick defeated Marty Thomas (for California heavyweight title), 4 rounds.

MID-ATLANTIC TITLE WON BY CHARLESTON

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The championship of the Middle Atlantic League belongs to the Charleston Senators today.

The Senators, with their bats working overtime, defeated the Beckley Black Knights, 10 to 8, here last night in the sixth and deciding game of the post-season series.

The game was a see-saw one from the beginning, with the lead changing hands three times before the locals let loose with a barrage of hits that were good for six runs in the eighth inning.

President Watt Powell, of the winners, will decide today on the proposed series with the Memphis Club, of the Southern Association. The score:

BECKLEY VS. MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Secretary Frank Longinotti, of the Memphis team of the Southern Association, said today it will meet Beckley (W. Va.) of the Mid-Atlantic League here Saturday and Sunday.

Beckley was defeated for the Mid-Atlantic championship by Charelston, W. Va., in a playoff after winning the first half of a split season.

CUTRI, HOGAN BATTLE FOR PITT QUARTERBACK JOB

PANTHERS LOOK UNIMPRESSIVE IN DRILLS

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 14.—Quarterback duels appear to be the order of the year as far as Pittsburgh's own college gridiron varsities are concerned.

At Duquesne, Red Sullivan and Frank De Coster are engaged in a two-way scrap for the starting job. At Carnegie Tech, four of 'em, Angelo Bevevino, Harry McCurdy, Stu Dueger and Bill Carlson, are very much on the job, and down here at Camp Hamilton, Pitt's mountain retreat, which appears to become more mountainous and hidden away y'ar by y'ar, two veterans, Rocco Cutri and Bobby Hogan, are engaged in a nip and very much tuck tussle for the starting job on Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panther eleven.

MISPLAYS PLENTIFUL

The Panthers engaged in right merry scrimmage yesterday afternoon and managed to ball the works up enough to send Coach Jock to the supper table in a none too joyous mood. The fullbacks and the guards had things in an uproar all afternoon. If it wasn't young Weisenback it was Doc Hartwig, or if it wasn't that pair it was Izzy Weinstock and Ken Ormiston. They just couldn't get things right.

However, all four are sophomores, and may be expected to go a bit vague for awhile. All have great potentialities as footballers and they'll come along o. k. at least, the Panther coaches hope they do.

Due to his edge as a kicker, Hogan holds a slight advantage over Cutri in the quarterback fight. The Erie Italian is a bit the faster and possibly is a better passer, but he lacks Hogan's bulk and has nothing on Meadville Bob when it comes to blocking.

BOYS WORK HARD

Coach Sutherland is not sparing his troops as he whips them into shape for the big league schedule they are confronted with this year. They get two tough sessions per day. And will continue to draw just such assignments until they break camp next week and return to Pittsburgh to open the season against Ohio Northern.

Despite his errors on the offense, young Weisenbach continues to thrill with his great work backing up the line. He hit Capt. Bulldog Reider so hard yesterday that the Pitt leader called his home in New Castle after workout to see if the shock had been felt there. Weisenbaugh is taking full advantage of the enforced absence of Johnny Luch to set himself for the starting fullback job and is doing very well.

LUCH IMPROVES

Luch, by the way, appears to have an attack of appendicitis after all, but Dr. A. R. H. Shaner, team physician, is trying to save him from having to undergo an operation at this time. When Big Johnny first was taken ill, his case was diagnosed as appendicitis. Later it was believed he was only suffering from a severe tummy ache, but yesterday the medicos went back to their original verdict. He's resting quietly, plenty quiet, every time he thinks of the bumps and bruises he is missing.

Paul Cuba, the New Castle hefty, continues to lead 'em all in the battle for a tackle post. Cuba, egged on by his fellow townsmen, Reider, took the initiative the first day of drill when Coach Jock called for tackles, for himself into the starting lineup and so far has successfully resisted all efforts on the part of Johnny Meredith to dislodge him. He has the speed, strength and class, and if he continues to show his present and unexpected aggressive spirit there isn't a ball player in the land who can take his place.

THE BABE

He's the Grand Slam of World Series—Here's His Life Story.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Written for Associated Press

This is the third of 10 stories relating the prodigious world series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of his career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps last appearance in the classic.

One mighty blow, the first Babe Ruth ever struck in a world series, turned his baseball career from the pitching mound toward the outfield, headed him in the direction of the New York Yankees, and into such slugging fame as no other ball player ever has known.

Babe Ruth

It was the fourth inning of the fourth game of the 1918 world series and Ruth, in three short years, had become one of baseball's greatest left-handed pitchers. He had tossed back the Cubs in the first game with a brilliant 1-0 shutout and had run his string of scoreless innings in world series play to 22. The Red Sox led, 2 to 1, in games when Ruth started the fourth game.

As the big, lean youngster walked out of the box at the end of the third inning he was still a pitcher, his shutout string intact. Shean walked to start the Red Sox fourth. Strunk flied out to Paskert. Whiteman walked and Stuffy McInnis forced Shean at third.

THE BIG MOMENT

Ruth, still a pitcher, picked up his hitting tool and walked to the plate. Bill Tyler, in grand form, was tossing for the Cubs. It looked as though the uprising was over.

As Tyler whipped a fast curve at the outside corner of the plate, the lanky youngster faced the first great batting crisis in a career of hitting glory flying toward him on the wings of that speeding baseball. The Babe swung cleanly, rhythmically, the ball soared far to right center field. Two runs scored and the triumphant, panting Ruth drew up at third base.

KISSES HURLING GOODBY

Bullet Joe Bush stepped in to relieve the Babe with two on and none out in the ninth after the Cubs scored twice in the eighth to end Ruth's scoreless inning streak at 29, still a record for series play.

Ruth never appeared again as a world series pitcher. By 1919, he had started his home run splurge with 29 for the Red Sox and a hitting average of .322. That year he was sold to the Yankees for $125,000, the greatest cash purchase in baseball history. He was off in a blaze of batting glory.

CHARLEY WOOD SHOWS CLASS FOR TULSA

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

When Lefthander Charley Wood comes into the Pirates camp next February with another bumper crop of Western League recruits you may expect to read of a southpaw unlike the gangling boy who strode to Fogarty Knoll under gripping circumstances in midsummer of 1930.

Charley Wood

A Pirate farmhand at Tulsa, the curve-ball phenom must have had the hook doing tricks Monday as he held Oklahoma City to three hits in winning for Tulsa in the second game of the Western League playoff. Tulsa won the first half honors of the circuit and Oklahoma City copped the laurels in the second half. The championship series is now in progress.

CURVE "TOO GOOD"

Wood's curve, it seems, was such a good press agent it put the boy in a jam in the big show. His overhand hook made the major-leaguers gasp for the remainder of the 1930 campaign, but Charley was outsmarted by the batters in the subsequent season and he is not proud of his achievement for 1931. The smart boys "waited him out" and his control could not meet the test.

Charley fell a victim to appendicitis during the last spring training campaign. The necessary operation put him out of action for many weeks, so the Pittsburgh bosses decided to let him take things easy on the big farm at Tulsa. Apparently he has found himself. Wood now is a married man with heavier responsibilities and when he dons a Pirate uniform next year he may hold to it permanently.

WATCH FLOYD YOUNG!

Another promising farmhand made it possible for Wood to win his game. Shortstop Floyd Young, who also has been recalled, weighed in with two homers, a double and a single to put his club across. Young was with the Pirates in the spring, but Tulsa yelled so loudly for his services that he was sent back to the Class A circuit.

Scout Carleton Molesworth, who is responsible for Young's diamond debut, states that Floyd can play third, second or the outfield like a major star. Moreover, Floyd, according to his sponsor, can outthrow any player on the Pittsburgh club.

Seals Discuss Series, Hockey, Football

A varied line of sports discussion will make up the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, to go on the air over WCAE at 6:50 o'clock tonight for a 25-minute session.

Here's the lineup:

W. Don Harrison, athletic director of the University of Pittsburgh, will give a talk on what goes on behind the scenes at the colleges as the football squads prepare for their season, discussing the ticket problems, seating arrangements and the hundred and one-odd other incidentals that go to make up the annual autumnal tableau.

Carl W. Shatto, hockey expert of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will analyze the tangled hockey situation in Pittsburgh and the prospects for the season.

Charley J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball expert, will dwell on the world series and the Pirates' chances of getting into the classic.

Harry Keck, sports editor, will be master of ceremonies, and Herb McGee, station announcer, and Miss Marian Salman, pianist, also will participate.

Two Knockouts Mark Amateurs Mitt Show

Johnny Ochs, heavyweight, of the Willow A. C., and Eddie Katkish, featherweight, also of the Lawrenceville Club, scored technical knockouts at the benefit amateur boxing show staged by the St. Peter's Lyceum, North Side, last night. Ochs stopped Dancer Turminelli in the first round, and Katkish dropped Young Snider in the second heat. Young Gizzy received the decision over Gene Pier in the feature bout. The summary:

118-pound class—Johnny Tirpak, Cyclone A. C., defeated Ray Hatton, J. L. Thomas Club.

160-pound class—Erie Bredel, Willow Club, defeated Tuffy Lawson, Superior A. C.; Billy Scherwein, Monongahela A. C., defeated Frank Gladdick, Cyclone A. C.

Horseshoe Tourney At County Parks

Horseshoe pitching tournaments are to get under way at North and South County parks next week, and at the finish of the eliminations the winners at the respective parks will meet for the inter-parks championships.

Competition will be in two classes—Class A for players who have figured in state or section championships, and Class B, for all entrants who are not eligible to Class A. All entrants residing north of the Allegheny River are to compete at North Park, and all others will be entered at South Park.

VOIGHT LOSES TOOUIMET

Eric McRuvie, of Scotland, 3 and 2, with another capable exhibition.

The sole remaining invader was Ross Somerville, Canadian champion, who easily advanced at the expense of John F. Brawner, Jr., of Washington, D. C., the winner of the play-off for the last qualifying place, Somerville's margin was 5 and 3.

PITTSBURGHERS ELIMINATED

The Pittsburgh district, represented by six golfers, passed out of the competition yesterday, when none of the group was able to obtain the required 152 score or under to qualify.

Fred Brand, Jr., of the Shannopin Country Club, and George H. Flinn, Jr., of Oakmont, however, just barely missed the mark, getting 153s. Watts Gunn, Ray Babcock, also of Oakmont, finished far down the line, with 163 and 161 scores, respectively. Denny St. Clair, of the Greensburg, Pa., Country Club, had a 154 total for the two days grind, two strokes over the limit. Knox M. Young, Jr., of Highland, faltered on the outgoing nine yesterday morning, taking a 47, withdrew.

GRIDDERS TO DRILL

The Williams Club, which last year won 10 games, tied two and lost one, is to be back on the gridiron with a first-class lightweight team. The club will stage its first practice session at Central Field, Overbrook, at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening and members of the 1931 squad and other players wishing a tryout are to report. Twenty gridders are to be equipped.

NEWARK SETS RECORD

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—For the second consecutive season the Newark Bears have broken all attendance records in the International Baseball League, it was announced today. The league champions played to 345,001 customers on their home grounds in 1932, topping their 1931 record by 31,000.

DIXIE ELEVENS ABANDON LONG GRID TRIPS

By W. A. ALEXANDER
Member, All America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

For many years past, principal colleges in the South have included in their schedules games from other sections. Hardly a season went by that did not see every one of the strongest teams in the Cotton Belt meeting one of the leaders in the East or Middle West. And at the end of the year experts could draw fairly accurate comparisons on the relative strength of teams in each section.

W.A. Alexander

Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Alabama, Georgia, Tulane, Auburn and Florida, to cite a few examples, are some of the stronger football camps in the South that sent out teams every year into distinct section or played intersectional games on their own fields. In years gone by the Vanderbilt - Michigan, Georgia - Yale, Tech-Penn State, Tech-Notre Dame, Auburn-Navy and Tulane-Northwestern games have been contests that attracted national attention. And Alabama's three visits to the Rose Bowl naturally drew attention to Southern football in the big post-season affair.

This year, however, the list of intersectional games involving teams from the Southern Conference is smaller than in many years. Few of the most promising Southern Conference teams have scheduled games with outstanding teams in other sections. Georgia plays New York University November 5. Alabama goes to San Francisco for a game with St. Mary's December 3, and Georgia Tech plays the University of California December 17 in a charity game. But those three just about exhaust the list of games that will attract national interest.

NATURAL RIVALS FAVORED

Various reasons might be assigned for the decrease in games between teams that look like the best in their sectionss. One is that as a general rule such games do not pay. The attendance record in the South, for instance, is held by the Tech-Georgia game in Atlanta where natural rivalry runs high. Even the Georgia-Yale game in Athens that brought the big Blue team to the South for the first time in history failed to equal the Tech-Georgia game in drawing power. Georgia drew very well indeed in the Yale Bowl in some of the later contests in the series. Georgia Tech drew a big crowd in New York when they played Penn State there a few years ago. But in general, teams in other sections have found that the public wants to see natural rivals play.

INVITATION NET PLAY CARDED SATURDAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

At precisely the stage where one might imagine the district tennis season to be about set to roll over and expire, announcement of another pair of tournaments arrives to breathe new life into the dying campaign.

First comes to hand word that the Stanton Heights Golf Club is set to sponsor a 16-man invitation singles event over the approaching week-end; next is to be noted the tenth annual Harvard Cup interscholastic title conclave to run from Monday, September 19, till Friday or Saturday of the same week.

Nine Stantonians and seven outsiders have been invited to compete in the Heights milling, which begins at 2 p. m. on Saturday and winds up on Sunday afternoon. Home club warriors set for combat are Jack Beatty, Hub Rinehart, Bill Spindler, Carlton Hughes, Karl Wolfe, Shorty Cooper, Mabon Bovard, George Henderson and Capt. Vin Glidden. Visitors will be Dr. John O'Loughlin, Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, and Paul Sullivan, of the P. A. A.; Frank McClintock, University Club ace, Frank Smith, Elgewood leader; Tom Robinson, Fox Chapel star, and Bob Lampus, Shannopin boss, who last Saturday annexed the Beaver County title. G. D. Henderson is chairman of the tourney, with H. Vernon Porter and V. K. Glidden rendering assistance.

The scholastic jousting will get under way on Monday on the Pitt rectangles, after which it moves to the Shady Side Academy lot in Fox Chapel for a day or two. The semi-finals are carded for Arnold School and the final probably will be run off at the University Club.

CRAFTON WINS TITLE

The Crafton Presbyterians defeated the Ingram Presbyterians, 4 to 1, last evening to win the championship of the Crafton-Ingram Church League. Ski Twyman twirled for the winner, permitting Ingram to get but three hits.

AMOCO APPROVED LUBRICATION

to keep cars HEALTHY

Proper lubrication is vital to the health of modern high speed cars. Old fashioned methods won't do because no one lubricant and no one lubrication gun are sufficient to meet the specifications of the engineer who designed your car.

That's where Amoco Approved Lubrication comes in. There's a specialized Amoco lubricant for every part requiring lubrication and a specialized gun for its application. (See Gun Board.) And expert, trained men for the job.

And yet, like all our service extras, there is no additional charge for the specialized gun service itself. You pay no more than for the old fashioned "grease job".

Keep your car healthy—have your car lubricated the approved Amoco way. On top of smiling, willing service in all branches of automobile care, you'll find the best in products.

For instance, Amoco-Gas—the original special motor fuel, with its lower cost per mile. Orange American Gas—the finest gasoline selling at regular gas price—Amoco Motor Oil and Lubricants.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The stock market regained its poise today, after the convulsions of the past two sessions, but bulls appeared chastened, and showed little inclination to resume their campaign.

The market crept up 1 to more than 2 points, presumably reflecting short covering, during the morning, but slid back after midday, losing most of its gain. The list hardened again, however, as it came close to yesterday's closing prices. Trading was in less than half the volume of yesterday.

The midweek electric power and steel production reports continued mildly favorable, but did not indicate sufficient change to fire the market with any fresh bullish enthusiasm. Usually well-informed brokerage quarters reported that the market had attracted support of an excellent quality around the low levels of the reaction of the past two sessions, but there was a notable tendency among the trading element to see whether the support levels established would be maintained. The list had lost about a third of its extreme rise from July to September, and could not break away much farther without exceeding the proportions of a mere technical or secondary reaction.

Steel production has failed to pick up as rapidly as expected in some quarters. Dow-Jones reported that operations in the Youngstown area had receded a little since the start of the week, although this was regarded as temporary. Sources close to U. S. Steel understood that bookings since September 1 had shown gratifying expansion, and automobile quarters said that the pickup in retail sales late in August was being well sustained. But hopes of any marked gain in steel production were evidently being deferred until October.

Oil and copper shares participated in the morning rally. The increase in crude oil production, shown in the weekly statistics, however, made traders reluctant to follow a move in those issues, since this is the season of declining gasoline consumption. Copper metal showed signs of renewed heaviness, with a little metal moving at less than the 6¼-cent-a-pound price being maintained by larger producers in both domestic and foreign markets.

POWER OUTPUT DROP LESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Electric power output last week made the best comparison with 1931 of any week since last March, the weekly tabulation of the National Electric Light Association showed today.

Production totaled 1,443,977,000 kilowatt hours for the week ended September 10, which, owing to the Labor Day holiday, this was slightly under the 1,464,700,000 kilowatt hours reported in the preceding week. That week, however, was 10.4 per cent under 1931, and the preceding week, 12.3. Labor Day occurred in the corresponding week of last year, so the drop of only 8.7 per cent was construed favorably.

The improvement in energy consumption was most pronounced in the eastern territory. The central industrial region failed to record any considerable gain, running 13.1 per cent behind last year, or not far from the decreases of recent weeks.

Open New Oil Field In Gulf Coast Area

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 14.—The Republic Production Company and Houston Oil Company joint well No. 1, Ariola Fee, located 18 miles northwest of Beaumont, Hardin County, has been comparing with 81,773 cars hanat the rate of 1,000 barrels of 40 gravity oil daily from a depth of 4,157 feet. Nearest production is in the old Spindle-Top field, 17 miles southeast.

Continental Can's August Sales Gain

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Sales of the Continental Can Company for the month of August, 1932, showed a substantial increase over those for July, 1932, due for the most part to requirements of canners of late summer vegetables. This has brought increased activity at many of the company's plants.

GOV. ROOSEVELT AIDS CLOSED LABOR BANK

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's capacity to lead—and to get co-operation from business executives—is exemplified by the role which he played in rehabilitating the closed Federation Bank and Trust Company in New York City, one of the few surviving labor banks, plans for the reopening of which were revealed today.

Mr. Rukeyser

After directors had shown coolness last fall to a plan that the banking department had worked out for the sale of the assets to another bank, Gov. Roosevelt quietly summoned a few labor leaders, including William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and a few business men, including Owen D. Young, to his New York home. He planted an idea, which is at length bearing fruit.

Sensing that a labor bank possessed important social advantages as a stabilizing influence, Mr. Roosevelt urged that the experiment be continued, instead of allowing it to be snuffed out by transient panic conditions. He had a vision, and he was able to communicate his enthusiasm to an informal consortium of business corporations, which were brought together by Mr. Young. Mr. Roosevelt indicated that it would be a fine symbol of the capacity of different social groups to co-operate if a number of corporations would contribute enough new capital to permit the reopening of the labor bank. Out of the idea has been formulated a successful plan for getting labor leaders, the depositors and outside public-spirited business men to work together to effect the reopening of the bank.

Apart from the local service involved, the incident is of national significance as a guide to the practical imagination and the ability to effect co-operation of the Democratic candidate for the presidency. In accordance with the Governor's plan, when the bank reopens, seven corporate officials will serve as directors of the bank together with seven labor leaders.

It is understood that the following corporations were among those who contributed $1,000,000 of new capital to the bank: The American Can Company, the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, American Car and Foundry, American Locomotive, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing, General Electric Company and General Foods Corporation.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXI.

Aunt Julia began to write, suggesting that Val had probably stayed long enough. Mustn't get her head turned with too much luxury. Mustn't wear out her welcome.

Val grinned as she read between the lines . . . Aunt Julia was afraid she was having too good a time.

"The devil with all that," Vincent said. "Now you're down here, stay awhile. If you're going to be a poor architect's wife and settle down in the middle west, you want to get some fun first. See that she has a good time, Millicent!"

Millie didn't have to try. It just happened. Every day was a party to Val, accustomed to the stern eye of Aunt Julia and a life of working, eating and sleeping and not much besides.

Here she was constantly admired, and though those who admired her didn't matter particularly, it showed her that she really had possibilities. At home Joe was the only one who ever really admired her.

She picked up a jargon of horse shows, races, dog shows. Had her first lessons in golf. Learned to drive Millie's speedy roadster, the first big car she had ever had in her hands. And adored the yachting parties.

REMINDED OF JIM

These all too often demoralized into drinking parties, with most of the guests carousing in the saloon or flat on their backs in their bunks. But that just gave her the deck to herself. She could stand, wind whipping her hair, tingling her cheeks, hands thrust deep into her pockets beside Mr. MacSweeney, the skipper of the Sea Horse, and listen to his stories of the old days when he sailed a real ship on a real sea.

"Not that the Pacific isn't a real sea, but we seldom get up into it. We cling to the coast here and stick with the crowd . . . ah, well!"

He sighed, and for a moment Val felt sad, too. Something about the way he said it . . . like Jim . . . Jim who once loved Millie . . . and was gone.

Now, looking back, she could see what she didn't see before—the kind of life Millie must have led, when she was a little girl. The strangers they met at the park. The men who bought dinners, sent flowers, presents . .

Sometimes her eyes would rest on Millie, speculatively, worriedly, and then Millie would fidget and sometimes make an excuse to leave the room.

WANTS TO LEAVE

Aunt Julia's letters grew insistent. Val MUST come home.

"I can't help it. I can't stand those women," she told Millie when Millie scolded her for going to her room when one of the "big parties" was in progress. "They're — they're common!"

Millied cried. "They're not my friends," she said, through tears. "They're Vincent's, and I don't like them any better than you do. I'm going to get rid of them. I'll tell him. He never considers my feelings. What am I here? Nothing. I'll show him. I'll put a stop to it!"

Millie walked the floor and wrung her hands, and wept aloud, and Val was frightened.

That night she thought that Millie and Vincent quarreled, for all the next day he was gruff and Millie was tearful.

"I just must go," Val said.

"Of course . . . if you must, you must," Millie said.

But she had planned for days ahead . . . picnics, beach suppers, yachting parties, with the very women about whom she had complained.

Val grew more and more nervous. "I must go. I really must!"

"Oh, nonsense!" Vincent said.

AUNT JULIA DISAPPROVES

Toward the last Val was almost hysterical, so nervous and worried, so anxious to get away.

But when she was in the train at last, her new luggage heaped around her, she wondered why she had rushed.

And when the first excitement of homecoming was over, and the routine of the office and life with Aunt Julia began again, she felt cheated and depressed.

"Hmm—plush horse! That's what I'd say. Hmm . . . fill your head full of grand ideas! Don't you forget that I dressed you for 20 years . . . well, say 18, without much help, and you never wanted for a thing—"

Val knew. Aunt Julia was jealous.

BIRTHDAY PRESENTS

Aunt Julia seemed older now. Her skin was taut over her high cheek bones, her mouth was set in a stiff line. She was fussier than she had ever been. Constantly complaining, criticising.

But she baked a marvelous three-layer cake for Val's 21st birthday. Beat and creamed and whipped and worked until it came out feather-light and velvet-gold under the layer of Val's favorite thick pineapple icing.

Val's heart was touched. She knew Aunt Julia wasn't very well, and here she had gone to all this trouble and cooked chicken Maryland and made hot baking powder biscuits, too. And she had forgotten that it was her birthday and Aunt Julia would make a fuss over it, and came home a train late, letting the chicken dry on the stove.

She wasn't hungry, either, having had a soda at the ferry with one of the girls from the office, but she ate everything on her plate, nearly choking over the last few bites, but determined to eat everything if it killed her.

The pink crepe slip which Aunt Julia had made for her birthday present seemed painfully substantial and prosaic beside the fairy-like daintiness of the things Millie had given her, and somehow it made her want to cry, out of a queer pity for Aunt Julia, who watched jealously, almost suspiciously, while she opened the package and exclaimed over it.

Then Aunt Julia brought out two other packages that had arrived by mail.

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. Val is left with a man-hating maiden aunt, Julia Macfarlane. Julia clings to the child despite Millie's occasional pleas for her return. Julia says Millie is not a fit guardian. Valentine becomes infatuated with Lester Sherwood, but they quarrel. She then is engaged to marry the more sedate Joe Carey. Joe leaves for Minneapolis, where he has a position as architect. Aunt Julia is opposed to the match and decides it is time for Millie to re-enter her daughter's life. Val goes to Santa Barbara, where she finds Millie in a luxurious home owned by a man named Vincent. Val does not approve of Millie's friends. Millie takes Val on a shopping tour and spends recklessly.

Now Go On

"Open it up! Land sakes, you're slow!" said Aunt Julia.

It looked so exotic, so out of place, when she laid it on one of the golden oak chairs in the dining room.

Aunt Julia picked it up. "Hmm . . . they're getting that rabbit to look about like the real thing, except they can't get the tails on it!" she said, turning the delicate thing in her hands. Val didn't tell her that it WAS the real thing, and Aunt Julia went on:

"I remember my friend, Miss Vollmer, had an evening wrap, with 26 tails on it, when she went to Europe. I thought some of going with her at the time, but you came along just then, and, well . . . I'm glad I didn't go . . . Aren't you going to open that other package?"

It was from Joe. Val had hoped she could take it to her room. Her first present from Joe.

She wanted it all to herself. And maybe it would be something that would seem little, funny even, after the magnificence of Millie, and Aunt Julia would say something mean.

"Open it up!"

So Val had to open it.

The large, outer package, wrapped in heavy brown paper, tied with twine, sealed with real sealing wax, had a smaller one within, a very small one, wrapped in the pale, stiff paper, fastened with the elastic band one associates with jewelers.

"I hope he didn't go and spend a lot of money!" Her fingers were shaking. If only she could have opened it alone, without Aunt Julia leaning over, breathing on her neck. "Open it up! Land sakes, you're slow!"

"Very pretty," she said.

After a long while she asked, "When are you going to get married?"

"I don't know," Val said.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Becomes Sarcastic About Grantland

"There was that in Dicky's query about the whereabouts of "that sterling man and soldier, Maj. Hugh Grantland," which somewhat relieved the tension that had been mine when he came up the steps. There was no rancor in his voice, only the quizzical note that long years of experience with my temperamental husband have taught me is invariably associated with high good humor on his part.

"'That sterling man and soldier,'" I repeated with a grin, "is in the library, taking care of the patients. At least he was a few minutes ago, when I was in there on an errand for Katherine."

"He must be having rather a dull time of it. Have you any idea—or has anybody—how long this illness of Lee Chow's is going to last?"

"I think they expect he will be fully conscious and able to be moved in two or three days, but his convalescence will be a matter of several weeks."

"Are they planning to stay here all that time?" Dicky demanded. Then, as my own eyebrows contracted, he added a hasty "Sorry! I don't want to seem inhospitable, but we can't entertain or do anything except sit and twiddle our thumbs while those sick men are in the house. And what about the boys and girls?"

"Don't look so tragic over their fate!" I admonished him, smiling. "After Lee Chow begins to convalesce, they can come back again."

"To what? A hospital?" he said, and there was the beginning of irritation in his voice.

"I know," I said soothingly, "but I'm at my wits' end to know what to do. Perhaps you can suggest a way out."

DICKY DISPLEASED

"You evidently have profited by that old story about Gus Thomas. You know the one where the producer, while a rehearsal of one of Thomas' plays was in progress, said, 'Now, I think there ought to be a comedy line right there,' and Gus said unperturbedly, 'Yes? for instance?'"

"I laughed dutifully, for this is one of Dicky's favorite yarns.

"I couldn't resist the temptation," I acknowledged, "but really, there won't be any problem at all for us, provided Maj. Grantland can get The Larches."

He said nothing for an instant, only stared at me, then echoed: "The Larches? D'you mean he's going to take the house permanently—that we're going to have him and his attendant mandarins, henchmen, et cetera, as a steady dose?

His contemptuous tone was so irritating that I had to struggle with myself before I forced a light laugh to my lips.

"He hasn't seen fit to confide his plans to me," I said hurriedly. "You know Lee Chow wants to be here when Marion's box is opened, and he probably will not be fully recovered from the effects of that poison before then. All that I know about it is the simple fact that Maj. Grantland asked me if I knew of a furnished house near by which he could take for himself and Lee Chow until Marion's birthday. He seemed anxious to relieve us of the burden of these sick men in the house."

MADGE GOING AWAY

"He ought to be," Dicky said ungraciously, then shot a shamefaced grin in my direction.

"Sorry!" he said placatingly. "I'm not really as grouchy as I sound. But you can't expect me to gaze with smiling equanimity—a swell old phrase that—at the spectacle of the dear major camped on the doorstep for the rest of the autumn, as he surely will be if he takes The Larches."

"I shan't be here to see him very much longer," I said, delicately accenting the pronoun. "You know I'm only waiting for the young people to get back to school before I go into the city to work upon the production of my play."

"There's a thought!" my husband retorted with a grin. "Whether it's better to have your wife listening to Sydney Carton on the veranda or to a royal satyr in the Veritzen offices. Which reminds me that I saw old Phil this morning, and he was inquiring with much particularity when you would be free to receive a call from himself and his friends, meaning, I suppose, Avis and her ma."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By ANN HELFGOTT

"Official Reporter" Enright Chapter

After seeing "Blessed Event" your junior reporter should be in an excellent mood for supplying many interesting news items for the ever popular column. In the event that you are not familiar with the story of "Blessed Event," it is a story of columnists and of a crooner played by Dick Powell.

Page an artistically inclined young lady! You will find Marion Cupps, only 7, but she openly admits that she is interested in drawing and hopes to be a great artist some day. Our best wishes will follow Marion through the tedious course that she must follow.

Mitzi Green probably would think that she suddenly had ran up against a mirror if she were to come face to face with Esther Dale of the club. Esther is the image of Mitzi and enjoys doing impersonations of the film folk. She goes to Belmar School and is right up among her class leaders.

The Pagano Twins are returning to their original glory and have once more started winning in the various events held at the club. Alfred is one of the runners-up in the Enright Marble-Shootin' Tournament and a favorite to win.

From all appearances, every member of the club—at least every feminine member—will have a picture of Dick Powell. The Enright gave Dick's photos to everyone today and there was a real scramble at the point of distribution.

A lot of new faces were present at the club today. School is now in session and all of our regulars have returned from their vacations. We expect even more at the next meeting as everyone has promised to bring either one new member or a former member not attending the club meetings.

Portrait of a business man! Bill Eiseman. He rigidly conserves energy and always investigates the relative importance of the prizes offered each week at the club and devotes his every effort to winning the most appealing item. Success is founded upon those lines and he has an early start.

Among the older boys of the club Eddie Bertilyon is accepted as a leader and the others follow him readily regardless of the circumstances. Eddie makes a good leader and treats all his chums fairly.

Our ex-grand jester, Miss Rita Behm, moves among the club members quite extensively. We wonder if she is campaigning for re-election at the first meeting in October. She has a lot of staunch supporters on the club roster and will give all candidates a close battle.

What has happened to Jane Fisher and her blonde looks? The club misses your smiling face, Jane, and you are hereby commanded to put in an appearance at next Saturday's meeting. We'll be seeing you!

Mrs. Helfgott's daughter, Ann, wishes to say "bye-bye" until next week. I'll be there with my trusty pencil and pad gathering news, and hope that I see a big turnout.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Rowland—Marjory Snyder.

Etna—Edna Wagner.

Manor—Jane Mitchell, Jack Lawson.

Enright—Mary Cunningham.

Schenley—Veronica Selak, Ned Elvin, Hyman Berkhover.

South Hills—Joseph Lang, John Stewart, Jack Turner, Nadine Cunningham, Vincent Sodini, Milton Daniels.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

You

So many plans, so many dreams,
So much of toil always;
Care's somber shadows, love's bright gleams
To fill the flying days.

Wherein your steps must go;
Through maze of circumstance and change
A hundred selves you show.

New selves to match each varied mood,
The blithe, the sad, the mean, the good,
The self that sighs or sings.

But through Earth's changeful ways that wind,
Still know this much is true;
In all the selves you ever find,
The best of each is you!

So many selves to toil and play
Through life, to dream and do;
But of them all, the proud, the gay,
The best alone is you!

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Convincing Suspicion

WELL, GEORGE BUNGLE, SPENDING THE WHOLE NIGHT TRYING TO MAKE YOU REALIZE MARGY AND GUMBO ARE NOT MILLIONAIRES DID SOME GOOD BECAUSE IT MADE ME THINK OF CALLING UP YOUR AUNT AGGIE TO ASK ABOUT GUMBO'S UNCLE NED.
OLD NED LIVED AWAY UP IN THE HILLS. HOW COULD AUNT AGGIE FIND OUT ABOUT..?
SHE GOT A POST CARD FROM OLD NED'S SISTER A WEEK AGO. AND AT THAT TIME...ONE WEEK AGO. OLD NED WAS IN TROUBLE OVER CHASING TWO NEIGHBORS WITH PART OF A WAGON TONGUE. HE WAS THAT LIVELY ONE WEEK AGO.
WHAT! LET ME THINK..? ONE WEEK AGO HE WAS O.K... WAIT..! LET ME SIT DOWN, JO.
OH GEORGE WHY LOOK SO..WELL, GLASSY-EYED? YOU KNEW LAST EVENING BEFORE YOU ATE, THAT MARGY PUT GUMBO UP TO SEND THAT TELEGRAM TO HIMSELF MILLIONAIRES! THEM! HER ANYHOW? HA HA!
WHAT A SITUATION! IT'S PRACTICALLY IMPOSSIBLE TO KNOW JUST WHERE TO START THINKING.
I DON'T BELIEVE IN ENVYING ANYONE BUT IT CERTAINLY DOES ME GOOD TO KNOW THAT WOMAN IS JUST AS ORDINARY AS SHE SAYS THE REST OF THE BUNGLES ARE. HER A MILLIONAIRE! HA HA!
I'M NOT WORRIED. A THING LIKE THIS NEVER AFFECTS A GOOD STRONG MIND IF A PERSON CAN CONCENTRATE ON SOMETHING ELSE FOR... OH A FEW WEEKS.

DAVE'S DELICATESSEN

The Bathing Beauty

A FINE WATCH-DOG YOU SOLD ME! SHE'S TRYIN' TO CHEW ME UP!
THAT'S VERY EASY FIXED BOSS — HERE FIJI!
MARVELOUS!
O.K., DAVEY, AND HERE'S YOUR PICTURE!
AH — I THINK I UNDERSTAND
SORRY, MADAM, IT'S THE ONLY WAY THAT FIJI WON'T CHEW ME UP INTO RIBBONS! WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU?

A MIGHTY NICE LITTLE OFFER

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

Sim wants two young folks to get married over there at the theater, on the 28th. He's not only willing to give the couple ten dollars and the marriage license, but has secured the promise of Judge Craig's services free of cost.

Also he will do more than this. If the young folks will let him know in time, that they will be married on the handsome theater stage, Sim will start a campaign among Lamar merchants to make them gifts. No Barton County people could have a more beautiful and intriguing place to be married than on the handsome stage of this modern theater.

Any young couple who're figuring on getting married soon, better snap up Sim's offer. They'll not only get a lot of nice presents, but they'll make a lot of friends who'll take a kindly interest in them.

BIG-HEARTED BILL

WASHINGTON—Asked if he intended to give no support whatsoever to the Republican ticket, Senator Borah said, "I'll support part of it. I will take part in my own State."

Big-hearted Bill of Idaho,
He wouldn't say "yes" and he wouldn't say "no."
Now and then he'd mumble "Phew."
But that was all that he would do.
But now he's said what he would say,
Let's give three cheers for the gladsome day!
He's going to play (though he didn't say cricket)—
He will support (in part) the the ticket.
He don't like Herb and he don't like Frank,
He thinks a lotta people are a little bit rank;
But he'll support the G. O. P. (within his own home state).

Maine Turns Thumbs Down on Hoover's Alibis for Failure

"As goes Maine so goes the country."

The voters of Maine have spoken, and in no uncertain tones. For the first time in 18 years this rock-ribbed Republican stronghold has elected a Democratic Governor. This state, first in the union to go dry 60 years ago, sends two WET Democrats to Congress in its delegation of three.

While the tabulation of the vote is not complete, it is practically so. The figures are most impressive. They reflect, as nothing else could, the extent to which the Republican party has lost hold upon its party membership.

While signs multiply, throughout the country, of the depth and sweep of the Democratic tide against the Hoover administration, the result in Maine affords the first specific evidence of its actual extent.

The administration propaganda holds that every good development in recent years is ascribable to the G. O. P., whereas every untoward event is the result of uncontrollable accidents. This might be called the ALIBI school of political philosophy.

Mr. Hoover ordered his campaign BALLYHOO ARTIST to Maine to undo the fine work which Mr. Roosevelt had accomplished in his recent brilliant addresses. Mr. Mills tried to ridicule Gov. Roosevelt, but the normally Republican state of Maine, reflecting the nation-wide resentment over the incompetence of the Hoover administration, turned THUMBS DOWN on Mr. Mills' party for the first time in 18 years.

The Maine election constituted a response to such BUNCOMBE as this, with which Mr. Mills concluded his Portland speech:

"In a world-wide storm, with our own structure shaken to the foundation and with many of our best men frightened and losing their heads, you must visualize the head of our nation, with courage undaunted, with unlimited faith, with a tenacity that refused to recognize defeat, with industry that recognized no rest, with resourcefulness that has no equal, criticized as no President has been since Lincoln, steadfastly steering the ship that carried the destiny of our nation to safe harbor.

"Tempered as only adversity can temper, tried as only responsibility can try, with that knowledge, experience and character that come only from wrestling with apparently insoluble problems, could any man be better equipped to lead a nation in a period of trial? If he were not President today, to whom but Herbert Hoover would you turn!"

Mr. Plain Voter might check up on Mr. Mills by asking:

"Since when are failure in office, habitual wrong diagnoses of conditions, and false prophecies the test of eminent fitness for office!"

The political upset in Maine was an indication that such questions are in the voters' minds. There is no reason to believe that the people of Iowa, North Dakota, California, New York or the other great commonwealths which supported Hoover four years ago will be seduced by Mr. Mills' sophistry to repeat their blunder.

THE MAINE REBUFF CONSTITUTED AN AMERICAN ANSWER TO THE ADMINISTRATION'S EFFORT TO COVER UP FAILURE IN OFFICE WITH SPECIOUS ARGUMENTS.

It perceives the neglect of the destitute and unemployed by the present Republican administration.

It resents President Hoover's preoccupation with the rescue of mismanaged financial institutions and bank-ridden railroads, and his indifference to the needs of the farmer, the artisan and the people of the country as a whole.

It is the average man who has made himself heard in the Maine election—the man of plain and honest aspiration.

DEMOCRACY—patient and long enduring democracy—is at last ON THE MARCH. A mighty phalanx of states will soon move into line. MAINE IS ONLY THE FIRST.

New State in Manchuria

Disregard of Stimson Doctrine Will Put Secretary of State in Uncomfortable Position.

Tomorrow (September 15) is the day set for Japan's recognition of the new independent state of Manchukuo.

It is reported from Tokio that the treaty between Japan and her creature-state has already been approved by the Japanese cabinet. Nothing, therefore, remains but to proclaim the recognition which, if the announced plans are carried through, will mark the expiration of just one year since Japanese military action began at Mukden in September of 1931.

Simultaneously with this act of recognition, it is learned, the Japanese foreign minister, Count Yasuya Uchida, will make an important official statement, in which it will be said:

First: That Japan's recognition of Manchukuo will contribute greatly to peace in the Far East and the world.

Second: That it is necessary for Japan and Manchukuo to act in concert on political and economic questions.

Third: That Japan hopes other powers will recognize Manchukuo.

Fourth: That Japan further hopes they will adopt a fair and friendly attitude toward the new state and will realize the advantage of co-operation between Japan, China and Manchukuo.

Strange to say, the parties to this program do not seem to be conscious of the "Stimson doctrine." One might almost say Japan is hardly aware that she is a signatory of the Kellogg pact.

But more grievous than all else, is the apparent disposition also of the League of Nations through its Commission of Inquiry, headed by the Earl of Lytton, to disregard the Stimson doctrine.

Although the report of this commission has not been made public, it is reported to be on file in Geneva with the secretariat of the League of Nations, and very confident forecasts of its contents are in circulation.

It seems from current dispatches that even the League's commission will recommend an autonomous government of Manchuria, to be worked out by direct negotiations between China and Japan in conjunction with representatives of Manchuria and observers representing the League.

What measure of acceptance this recommendation, if it is made will meet with, only the future will tell.

The Japanese foreign office is reported to have said that Japan's recognition of the new state, erected in Manchuria

Gloating

(Copyright, 1932.)

Old Winter comes to gloat again
On harvests ripe to reap,
The Valley of Forgotten Men
Where human life is cheap,
Disease and Hunger at his call
And Poverty and Grief,
He waits outside the flimsy wall

He comes again to scourge a land
Where Labor walks with empty hand
Amid a hoard of gold,
Where millions ask for warmth and food
And honest work to do
But starve on pious platitude
And bunk and ballyhoo.

Diet—And Divorce

If it is true that feminine curves are going to be fashionable once more, we predict the revival of old-fashioned marriage and foresee an inglorious end to the popularity of Reno.

* * *

If hips and waistlines are going to be smart, divorce will lose its vogue, and we may look forward to a lot of golden weddings.

* * *

Reno has practically subsisted and flourished on the Hollywood diet. No woman can keep a sweet, placid, equable temper and a stream-line figure at the same time—unless God gave her both! Hunger, more than anything else, wrecks the nerves and spoils the disposition.

A woman, who has not tasted a morsel all day since she breakfasted on one prune and a thin slice of dry toast, cannot rush gayly to greet her husband with a buoyant smile and a bark of joy, when he comes home tired and hungry himself. She is too faint. And all on edge!

* * *

When reducing-diet fads go out and a woman can grow comfortably plump without apologizing for it, there will be much more sweetness and light in the average marriage.

* * *

Julius Ceasar knew his psychology, when he wanted "fat men" about him. He had NERVES, himself—and he wanted PEACE in camp. Peace and good-nature and jollity and optimism!

Styles in women seem to change, as in everything else. The "IT-girl" of today may be as brown as a Malay, as slender as a wafer and as flat as the State of Kansas. But her father can remember when men liked their women well-upholstered, rounded like a loving-cup, and pink and white and soft-skinned. And no man would have glanced twice at an animated bone!

* * *

If the girl of the Gay Nineties happened to be underweight, she filled out the hollow places with pads and bustles and plenty of ruffled underthings, and drank cream twice a day. She HAD to look "cuddlesome!" And she would as soon have thought of blackening her teeth, as of letting Old Sol trifle with her nose or her hands or her shoulders!

* * *

Now, a girl lies in a solarium all afternoon, so that she may become the color and texture of good old leather and then, goes home and dines on a lettuce leaf—and calls it a day.

* * *

But, we still suspect that masculine taste runs to curves and dimples and soft white elbows. Men don't change much. And, if plumpness becomes fashionable it may revive romance as well as marriage. Who knows?

* * *

It is far easier and pleasanter to live with 150 pounds of placidity, than with 98 pounds of nerves.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Broadway offers the diversion of the old-time barker at his barkiest these days. Not even the insinuative whisperings of the coochdance spieler are being neglected. And most of the exhibits like the cooch dance, offer nothing but the ballyhoo.

One grand theater of a decade ago is bannered in vivid red thus: "Living Figures in Sex Madness." It is a slick bit of old-time Barnum showmanship. Analyze it and it means nothing. Inside one learns that a fourth-rate type of burlesque show is in continuous unfurlment.

Scantily dressed coryphees amble unconcernedly, often chewing gum, across stage. They are the "living figures in sex madness." At intervals there is the familiar "strip act." When the customer realizes he has been duped, he exits sheepishly and praises the performance to trick his friends.

Much patronage is inspired by the sucker egging on the prospective sucker. No one admits being "sold." The Salon de Art is another garishly bedecked grotto, startling with its array of painted nudes outside. Inside it is about as exciting as the chariot race at the flea circus.

But there's no disappointment in the honey-lipped mewling of the barker. He is there with all his gay 90 pomp, roached hair, gold-topped cane, paste diamond ring, over Niagara mustache, cooing: "Show now going on! The sensation of two continents. Step this way"—yanking the yokels as easily as he did in your berg and mine.

* * *

I confess to suspicion of a choke over this throb in a letter from Jack Carr: "I knew there must be a depression when my mother wrote me she was an investment house bond widow. God bless her trusting soul. Scrimped and saved for years that she might never be a burden, but walk independently through the twilight years. As though she could possibly be a burden ever. There must be some good in this awful depression if it brings mothers like that back to their boys."

* * *

On Lexington avenue in the 50's this morning I met a friend of long ago window shopping. He said that until recently he went everywhere in auto or taxi for a period of 15 years. "I'm broke now," he explained, "and have joined the walkers." And, in departing, he called over his shoulder: "Say, you haven't seen nothing unless you've prowled about a 5 and 10." He's the same worldling who used to look bored at exciting first nights in other days.

* * *

A shop on Lexington, too, has a parrot reputedly 54 years of age. Her owner says she will talk to no one save a policeman. It occurred to me—and it's a frail pun at best—that the bird may have spent early years around a police station and heard the police inquire: "So you won't talk?" And saw what happens!

* * *

A. C. Blumenthal who emblazoned the first pages as the man to carry on for Ziegfeld is one of the pinetop executives with the dynamic quality of making himself in the business world. He weighs a little more than 100 pounds and to his intimates he is "Baumey." His manner is shy until some subject comes up that interests him. Then, all of a sudden, in excess of nervous energy he seems to tower like a mountain.

* * *

I once worked for a fly-sized managing editor whose feet, when he sat in his swivel chair, did not touch the floor. A roaring political bully who felt himself outraged by the day's editorial thundered in like an avenging cloud. The clack of the room came to a sudden hush. Figuratively, blood streaked the moon. There is a legend the steady gaze sends the lion cowering back to the jungle. Our m. e., with the rest of us petrified, slid to the floor, walked briskly over to the railing and said: "I'm the managing editor here and you are making too much noise. Get out and quickly." The bully gasped, grew apoplectic, and as suddenly grew white, turned and left without a word. Later in life I came to know Marshall P. Wilder and I've always had tremendous admiration for "the little guys."

* * *

* * *

Then Chic Sale's story of his Dad who read the city paper headline: "Bank Robbed. Police at Sea." Then exploded. "Pay 'em to guard the town and they go a-fishin'!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Exasperating job—writing a column like this! How I'd like to bust it wide open; tell the truth as I find it; give you the works! And what a grand thing it would be if you would let me; if you would take it as I dish it out.

Not just a grand thing for me—to get my own way—but a grand thing for you, in helping you to broaden and deepen your own life. For, whether you agree with me or not, you would be forced to face new conditions, to consider new attitudes, and even if you were right and I were wrong, you'd be a bigger and better person if you would consent to a good-natured, free-for-all battle.

On Monday, for instance, I discuss child labor. Child labor being one of my pet hates, I get plenty mad as I talk about it. I bring up a lot of unpleasant statistics. I tell Uncle Sam what I think of him for letting child labor continue in these United States. In short, I write a scorcher.

And that's jake with you. You don't like child labor, either. You too, are ashamed because it exists in America. And the madder I get on that subject, the more you like it.

But the next day I probably tell you about the community nurseries in Russia. Now the very mention of Russia burns you up, and the idea of a community nursery violates your most cherished sentiments. So what do you do? Do you put aside your prejudices and decide to learn a few new facts, whether you like 'em or not? Or do you embrace this opportunity to get into a friendly two-fisted debate?

No indeedy! Chances are, you write me a furious and anonymous letter, telling me that I am a dangerous radical and "oughtta be deported with the rest of the Reds."

Now, as a matter of fact, I am a quiet, conservative, patriotic American citizen; and as long as I write articles with which you agree, you're willing to admit it. But the minute I say something you don't like, you call names and throw spitballs just as you did when we were kids back in the third grade.

You don't? Well, maybe YOU don't. But the average reader does. For the average reader has ideas—fixed ideas—and if what he reads doesn't jibe with those ideas, he raises Cain.

The average reader doesn't want INFORMATION not even guaranteed, Grade-A information. What he wants is CONFIRMATION of his own pet notions, and the columnist who doesn't give it to him is just out of luck. But, of course, that isn't the way the average reader puts it to himself. Here's how he puts it:

"What does this guy mean by writing all this nonsense? I'm not an old fogey. I'm as willing to learn new tricks as anyone. But this stuff is plain haywire. There's not a word of sense in it. None of the nice people I know says things like these. I've been around, too; but I've never seen such things as this writer describes. They've never happened to any people I know. I don't believe this writer has ever seen them happen, either. He's just trying to show off.

"Well, I don't think much of smartness like that—people who earn their money by trying to shock sensible readers. Writing like that is a mighty cheap way of earning a living. It's just a graft; that's what it is. Papers shouldn't allow it. It's bad for the country. It's bad for the little children. Something oughtta be done about it."

And so the average reader grabs the phone and talks it over with Lou, and then sits down and writes the editor of his paper and tells him exactly what he thinks of that Elsie Robinson. And all because he thinks I "don't talk sense"—meaning, simply, HIS idea of sense.

And it's queer. America wasn't like that once. Time was when we ate up new ideas; chewed them over down at the corner grocery; "rassled" with them at the weekly Lyceum Debating Club. And the more ornery the ideas were, the more we liked them. But now the Great American Public wants its popular writers to say-it-with-kisses, or not at all.

Wonder why? Have we grown too stupid or too lazy to think? Are we so stuck-up we can't bear to see a notion that challenges our own, or hear of a situation that puts us on the spot? Or are we just 'fraid-cats—scared to read things that might shake us out of our pipe dreams?

Do you, or don't you, like to read ideas with which you can't agree?

WHEN I DISH IT OUT, DO YOU TAKE IT?

OR DO YOU RUN CRY-BABY TO THE EDITOR AND TELL HIM I OUGHTER QUIT?

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Whose 'Paper Losses,' Mr. Wilbur?

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

When Franklin Roosevelt entered Vermont this week to receive a cordial greeting in that rock-ribbed Republican state, he broke all precedents for generations; since no other Democratic presidential nominee has entered the commonwealth. Years ago the gallant little band of Democrats in Vermont invited Samuel J. Tilden to visit the state and "address the Democracy of Vermont." He dallied with excuses until, finally driven to vexation by the persistency of the appeal, he wrote:

"It is impossible for me to leave the city or even my own house at this time; but I shall be very glad to address the Democracy of Vermont in my library any time they can all come."

It would not be possible to crowd into any library the Vermonters who will vote for Roosevelt this year. The farmers of that sturdy commonwealth are suffering intensely along with the farmers everywhere. The enthusiastic greeting given Roosevelt at the state fair this week is indicative of the feeling.

Foreclosures Hit New High Record

With an uneasy eye upon the farmers of the West, even more than on the home-owners of the East, the Hoover administration gave it out the other day that a moratorium on foreclosure on homes had been asked—for 60 days. It is noteworthy that this is the first indication the administration apparently has had of the fact that homes have been foreclosed, along with farms, to a greater extent by far during his regime than ever before in American history. Last year there were hundreds of thousands of farms, old homesteads, taken from their owners by foreclosure. For four years the newspapers of the agricultural section have been literally crowded with announcements of foreclosures and sales for taxes. We have seen Western papers so appalling in this way that they should be presented to the Congressional Library for the use of the future historians of economic conditions in America in our time. Through these three or four years nothing has been done to aid the victims of conditions for which they are not responsible.

This sweeping away of homes and farms from their owners is on the increase—and that is bad in the midst of a campaign.

Thus Mr. Hoover has asked a moratorium on foreclosures—not for six months, not for a year, but until the campaign is over. In other words, 60 days. After 60 days the polls will be closed. And after 60 days the foreclosures can go on as far as the administration is concerned.

Home-Owners' Situation Grave

Not long ago Mr. Hoover held one of his numerous conferences, none of which has resulted in any definite planning, and urged the homeless to buy homes now. Every man who can should own his home; but the prob'em of millions today is to save themselves from eviction. Homes cost money—and money is scarce, and, despite the ballyhoo of deception, credit is hard to get. Interested as Mr. Hoover would have himself appear to be in homes for the people, he strangely overlooked then, as he had for more than two years before, the peril of foreclosure.

At the time he was urging people to buy homes, the banking institutions of the country held mortgages on homes and farms to the extent of $12,000,000,000.

It will continue to go on at a merry rate after the election—60 days hence.

For when men are making no money, and are refused credit, and their homes are loaded down with mortgages, a 60 days' moratorium means nothing.

"Moratorium" May Not Be Observed

But even the 60 days' moratorium request does not promise to mean much. An investigation shows that little respect for the moratorium request will be shown by any financial institutions except those banks that are closed. There is nothing to indicate thus far that solvent institutions will give much heed. The Controller of the Currency has instructed the receivers of national banks to suspend foreclosures for 60 days—that is, until after the election. That will measure about the extent of the relief.

Meanwhile the line of the jobless lengthens; the appeals of welfare organizations for funds to fight what they expect to be the hardest battle against want ever seen this winter, intensify.

And Secretary Wilbur a wealthy man, returns from a Western tour, going right through cities teeming with men dispossessed of their homesteads by the hundreds of thousands, with a cheery announcement that things look good. He finds a better spirit among the suffering, and he puts it in this way:

"Men have taken their paper losses. They find, or a great majority of them find, that they have their same stores, their same places of business."

The 11,000,000 out of jobs and denied the right to work have had no paper losses; they have lost everything on which they depended for life—the right to work.

The 30,000,000 additional dependents of these jobless men have not worried about paper losses; these have lost everything they had.

The millions of farmers bankrupt or verging on bankruptcy are not interested in "paper losses;" they are either the victims of foreclosure or are living under its threat.

Mr. Wilbur is thinking in terms of the market-minded; as thinks the Administration.

Imagine going down the breadlines of the cities and saying to the unfortunates: "Just forget your paper losses and cheer up."

But Mr. Wilbur, who thought it fortunate for the children of the jobless to be hungry because it would "strengthen their characters," has no thought of the thirty million farmers, the eleven million jobless, their thirty million dependents. His concern apparently is solely of those who had "paper losses."

Single Hope for Jobless

But there is one very slight ray of hope for the jobless. Senator Wagner's constant prodding, reinforced by public sentiment, promises to compel Ogden Mills to begin to put the Wagner-Garner bill into operation before October.

Every hour of the delay for 50 days has been mockery of the needy; delay for another 30 days would be brutality.

as the result of her armed intervention, will be her answer to the League of Nations.

One aspect of the situation, however, which has no obscurity about it, is the RATHER DESOLATE PLIGHT OF SECRETARY OF STATE STIMSON and his doctrine of non-recognition for any state which is brought into existence through a violation of the provisions of the Kellogg pact.

The luckless Secretary of State seems to be again in the uncomfortable position which he occupied, when he intervened between Russia and China in connection with the Manchurian disorders of a little while ago.

Only THIS TIME, THE LIMB on which he seems to have found a precarious support is about to be SAWED OFF BY HIS GREAT AND GOOD FRIEND, THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
